2 Senator Schweiker. I guess we will swear you in, so if
3 you will stand up and raise your right hand, do you solemnly
4 swear the testimony you are about to give is the truth, the 5 whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God?

6  Yes, I do.

7 Senator Schweiker. Be seated.

8 Mr. Johnston. Would you state for the record your full

TESTIMONY OF [redacted]

ACCOMPANIED BY [redacted] AND SEYMOUR R. BOLTEN

[redacted] My name is [redacted]

Mr. Johnston. And I understand that is [redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted] That is correct.

Mr. Johnston. Mr. Bolten, would you state your full name?

Mr. Bolten. Seymour Bolten, Seymour R. Bolten.

Mr. Johnston. And John, [redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted]

Mr. Johnston. And Mr. Bolten and [redacted] would you state your capacity in this session today?

Mr. Bolten. I am chief of the Review Staff of the CIA, and responsible for dealings with the Senate Select Committee.

[redacted] I am Special Assistant to the DDD, sitting in here as an alternate monitor.

Mr. Johnston. And the discussion that has taken place prior to going on the record today basically has resulted in a decision to have Mr. Bolten and [redacted] attend as monitors to this session, and do you understand that, [redacted]

[redacted] Yes, I do.

Mr. Johnston. [redacted] what was your capacity with [redacted] Agency in November, 1963?

[redacted] In November, 1963, I was the Chief of Station [redacted]

1 of the CIA operation that was based in Miami, Florida, targeted
2 as its primarily responsibility for the Cuban operation.

3 Mr. Johnston. Mr. Wallach has reminded me to remind you of 4 a procedural matter which, you understand you have the right
5 to counsel.

6  Yes, I do.

7 Mr. Johnston. And you understand you have a right not to 8 answer questions if you don't wish to, or not to answer questions
9 until you consult with Counsel, is that correct?

10  That is correct.

11 Mr. Johnston. And you are appearing here voluntarily
12 without counsel.

13  That is correct.

14 Mr. Johnston. And going back to substantive questions, how 15 long did you remain as Chief of Station?

16 What were the dates of your service?

17  Well, I arrived, or became involved in the 18 Cuban operations in the early 1962, and I stayed there until 19 approximately June of 1965.

20 Senator Schweiker. What month again in '62?

21  Early '62. I didn't give you the month,
22 Senator, because I originally came down to Florida to conduct
23 a survey of this operation to see what possibilities could be 24 carried out in terms of the collection of intelligence. I
25 later filed a report on it, and I was later assigned down to

1 Senator Schweiker. And this was called JMWAVE, was it?
 2 [redacted] That is the cryptonym that the Agency used
 3 for the Miami station.

4 Senator Schweiker. And to whom in that chain of command
 5 at the CIA did you report when you were the operating head?

6 [redacted] There were different people at different
 7 times. When I first went to Miami, the task force commander was 8 Mr. William Harvey. He reported then to the DDP, who reported
 9 to the Director of Central Intelligence. At a later point in 10 the operation, Mr. Harvey moved on to other tasks, and Mr.
 11 Fitzgerald became the chief of that particular unit, and then 12 after Mr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Hart was the head of that 13 particular unit.

14 And between Harvey and Fitzgerald, I think there was a
 15 short period of time when a fellow by the name of [redacted]
 16 was the acting chief of that particular unit, or the chief.
 17 I have forgotten the exact arrangement there.

18 Senator Schweiker. Sometime during this period did it
 19 change its title from Task Force W to SAS, is that correct
 20 or not correct, or do I have it mixed up?

21 [redacted] My recollection of that chronology was that 22 it was first called SAS and then became Task Force W, and then 23 became integrated back into WH Division, which was the Western 24 Hemisphere Division.

25 Senator Schweiker. SAS preceded Task Force W?

1 [redacted] Yes. That's off the top of my head. That's
2 my recollection of it.

3 Mr. Johnston. Just for the record, I think it was the 4 other way around. Task Force W was first and SAS was second.

5 Senator Schweiker. But in sum and substance your duties
6 were basically the same, whether it was Task Force W or SAS
7 under Harvey and Fitzgerald, was that not true?

8 [redacted] Well, I think you have to break this period
9 up into two phases, Senator. The early phase, 1962, was 10 focused on coming up with an appraisal of what kind of an 11 operation could be run against Cuba in the context which existed
12 at that time, in other words, after the Bay of Pigs, after the 13 post mortems had been conducted. The Administration at the time
14 decided that they wanted to take another look at Cuba as an 15 intelligence and national security problem. Therefore, an 16 assessment was to be made in the early period of time as to 17 what kind of an operation could be run in pursuit of U.S.
18 policy objectives, which was to see if Fidel Castro's
19 government could be removed. And when that assessment was 20 conducted as to what kind of intelligence operations could be 21 conducted, what kind of paramilitary or other operations could
22 be run, that was an initial phase, and that phase was approved 23 and put into effect. But as that operation was being put into 24 effect the missile crisis came upon us, so that that was not 25 really carried to its logical conclusion because the operation

then shifted.

Senator Schweiker. After October of '62?

[Redacted]

No, prior to October of '62, because the Cuban crisis was in October of '62, but the buildup preceded it, and our operations which were collecting intelligence in Cuba detected this buildup as it was unfolding. Therefore, the national priority became now how do you take action against Fidel Castro, but what is the nature of this Soviet buildup. And therefore the operation changed.

Then after the Cuban missile crisis of October of 1962, the problem became one of monitoring the Soviet disengagement from Cuba, and then there was another phase after that when the Soviets were out, Castro was clearly recognized as the established power in Cuba, and the problem became one of looking at Cuba in the context of was there some other way to get a political change in Cuba other than by military action or by paramilitary action. In other words, the emphasis shifted to looking at the Castro military establishment to see if a coup could be pulled from within, to see if economic pressures could be put on the Castro regime.

So the tasking of this particular unit did change, and change of nuances and degrees during this period, but in our professional sense it was focused on the Cuban targets. So in that sense you are correct, but it did go through various changes as events changed.

Senator Schweiker. What was the relationship of your station and your assignment to General Lansdale? What role did he play?

[redacted] Well, in the early days, in the early period of 1962, General Lansdale was a member of a group that was looking at the basic problem of what could be done against the Cuban activity. This came up in one of my previous conversations with Mr. Baron.

Senator Schweiker. Are you talking about something we call Operation MONGOOSE, are we talking about Special Group Augmented, or what are we talking about?

[redacted] Well, when I first came into this activity in 1962, the principal people that seemed to be involved with it at that time were Robert Kennedy, General Lansdale, Dick Helms, and William Harvey, and the group of Kennedy, Lansdale and Helms were providing, if you will, the guidance and the direction as to where this thing should go in the early days.

Shortly after the operation was established and I was in Miami, Lansdale seems to have faded out of this particular picture, and I was not involved in the Washington nuances of this, so I am not clear as to exactly what was the reason for his departure from this particular scene.

Senator Schweiker. And was that -- do you remember the cryptonym, Operation MONGOOSE?

but that didn't impact on my life at that particular time.

Senator Schweiker. All right.

Mr. Johnston. Moving to the time of the Kennedy assassination, were you Chief of Station and in Miami when the President was assassinated?

[redacted] Yes, I was the Chief of Station and I was in Miami.

Mr. Johnston. You were physically in Miami on November 22nd.

[redacted] Yes, I was.

Mr. Johnston. Did you receive any orders through CIA channels to conduct an investigation in any fashion into the assassination of the President?

[redacted] Well, my recollection of that was that we had requests for name traces at the time that Oswald was arrested, and that was our contribution to the investigation.

Mr. Johnston. Did you receive any order in the form of a cable or any other fashion to conduct an investigation?

[redacted] I don't recall receiving one, but if you showed me a cable, I would have to comment on it. In other words this was in 1963. This is 1974, and as you know from my record, I've been in an awful lot of high volume projects since that time, and I don't think it is likely that I would recall a specific cable, you know, on a particular day. I mean, I have been in Berlin, Laos, Vietnam. My life has been active, and

1 therefore I do not recall a specific cable. If you've got a
2 cable, I'd be glad to comment on it.

3 Mr. Johnston. Well, I don't have one, and I'm asking you
4 whether one would exist.

5 [redacted] I don't recall one.

6 Mr. Johnston. And your judgment would be that there was 7 not a cable ordering an investigation.

8 [redacted] I can't say that. I can only say that I
9 don't recall one, but I do recall that at a later point, once
10 Oswald was detained by the police and there was some investi-
11 gative material emanating from that, we participated in 12 name trace activity of whatever was sent to us at that time
13 from Washington, because I do recall that at the time that 14 the name traces were conducted, that one of the Cuban groups
15 that we were in touch with at DRE, they did come up with a 16 tape of a debate which had taken place between Oswald and some 17 member of the DRE in New Orleans, and you know, that sort of 18 sticks in my mind as an event of that particular time. And I
19 commented on it, and as I recall, forwarded the tapes to 20 Washington.

21 Senator Schweiker. That was Bringuer's group, was it
22 not?

23 [redacted] That was the DRE, the Direccion Revolucionaria
24 Senadors Schweiker. Wasn't Carlos Bringuer -- maybe
25 I'm pronouncing it wrong, involved in that, and wasn't he

TOP SECRET

1 associated with you folks at that time?

2 [redacted] Well, I don't recall that specific name,
3 Senator, at this time.

4 He did have a relationship with the D&G. We did deal
5 with a number of their top leaders.

6 Mr. Johnston: Let me come back to that later.

7 Did you receive any orders not to investigate an area,
8 or not to conduct an investigation of any kind?

9 [redacted] No, I don't recall receiving any such orders.

10 Mr. Johnston: At this time period, November 22nd,
11 November 23rd, 1963, what was your capability in regard to 12 conducting an investigation among Cuban exiles, and with Cuban 13 sources?

14 [redacted] Well, in relationship to Cubans living in 15 the United States, I would say that our capability was quite 16 good.

17 Now, if you are referring to our capability to conduct
18 an investigation in Cuba, I would have to say it was limited.
19 I have to know where specifically you are referring to. In 20 other words, if you're talking in the area --

21 Mr. Johnston: First I'm talking domestically of Cuban 22 exiles in the United States, and your answer is --

23 [redacted] That it would have been quite good.

24 Mr. Johnston: Secondly, with regard to collecting
25 intelligence as to possible Cuban involvement --

TOP SECRET

Phone (Area 202) 546-6000

1 [redacted] From Cuba or in Cuba?

2 Mr. Johnston. Any other source.

3 [redacted] Well, if you're talking about collecting
4 information in Cuba --

5 Mr. Johnston. I see.

6 [redacted] It would then have to be focused specifically
7 on different geographic areas. In other words, as an 8 example, if you told me I want some information on a specific 9 town in the province of Pinar del Rio, that probably was 10 within our capability at that time because we had a rather 11 extensive network in Pinar del Rio. If you had said to me,
12 you know, in that same timeframe on this day, I want you to 13 conduct a kind of an investigation in the province of Camaguey,
14 I probably would have had to say, you know, we're not as well
15 equipped, because our coverage varied from province to province.

16 Mr. Johnston. Did you have sources -- and I mean specifically
17 JMWAVE station, did JMWAVE station control sources in Cuban
18 intelligence?

19 [redacted] I don't recall that we had any staff officers
20 in the Cuban intelligence service under our control. We may 21 have been involved in some double agent operations at that time,
22 but certainly we did not have a staff officer penetration of 23 the Cuban services.

24 Mr. Johnston. Did you ever receive any orders to contact 25 whatever your contacts were in the Cuban intelligence, to inquire about the assassination of President Kennedy?

[redacted] I don't recall receiving any such instruction

Mr. Johnston. Did that ever occur to you on your own?

[redacted] Well, I think as you probably see from some of the traffic, we did come up on our own with samplings of opinion, what was happening in the Cuban community. We were reporting what was coming out of Cuba in terms of information brought by, you know, refugees, material that was being made available through people corresponding and so forth, yes, we were sensitive to that particular problem.

Mr. Johnston. But did you affirmatively go out and seek the information from sources in Cuba?

[redacted] Well, to the extent that this was available to us, you know, we had lots of agents. If you're asking me did we send an SW message and task a specific agent to conduct an investigation, or did we send them a radio message or something like that, I don't recall one.

Mr. Johnston. Why didn't you do that?

[redacted] My recollection of this is that we felt that the nature of our capability was to simply respond to what we were able to obtain in the Miami area, and from our sources in a passive way, because this was an investigation that was being conducted in the United States with the primary responsibility with agencies other than CIA.

Mr. Johnston. I guess I don't quite understand the answer

1 Because the CIA did have responsibility and certainly the
2 capability to collect information from foreign countries.

3 [redacted] Well, we had no reason at the particular time
4 to feel that there was any kind of a case, hard information,
5 that the Cubans were behind the assassination.

6 In other words, you know, at that particular period in 7 time there were a large number of rumors, gossip, in the 8 Cuban Community. Those that came to our attention were 9 reported, and we tried to put them in some perspective, that 10 is, who was the individual, what access did he have to this
11 data and so forth.

12 But we had no persuasion that this was being mounted
13 by the Cubans at that particular time.

14 Mr. Wallach. I would like to ask a couple of questions
15 by way of background and let Jim go right back to his line
16 of questioning.

17 Taking the period as exemplary, October of 1963 --

18 [redacted] October of '63, okay.

19 Mr. Wallach. Which I take it would be fairly indicative
20 of what was going on in May, June, July and August of the 21 same year, I want to pick a fairly standard month for that 22 period.

23 [redacted] Oh-huh.

24 Mr. Wallach. Before the assassination.

4 [redacted] Yes, we did have sources inside Cuba.

5 Mr. Wallach. Could you briefly for the record --
6 (Pause)

7 Mr. Wallach. What I'd like to do very briefly for the 8 record, as you know, I think you had an interview with Mr.
9 Baron and went into it with you, but very briefly describe
10 generally the type of operations that your station was conducting
11 vis-a-vis Cuba.

12 [redacted] Well, in the first instance we were engaged
13 in foreign intelligence collection activities, that is, trying
14 to establish information which related to the plans, intentions
15 and capabilities of the Cuban government. We were also 16 involved in counterintelligence operations, that is, trying 17 to figure out what the Cubans were doing in terms of their 18 intelligence operations in the United States, or through the 19 United States into Central and Latin America. We were also 20 involved in propaganda operations against Cuba, and covert
21 action in the sense of trying to establish contact with 22 dissident military personalities in Cuba.

23 Mr. Wallach. Without naming names, did you in the time government?

[redacted]

I don't think -- there I'd have to get a better definition from you of what is highly placed. If you are talking about Fidel Castro and his immediate entourage --

Mr. Wallach. People who could possibly have been in meetings or dinner with Castro, or meetings with Castro. I don't know enough about how Castro operated.

[redacted]

I would say if you are talking about somebody who was a member of his immediate entourage and who was dealing with him in a governmental sense, then the answer is no, but we did have people who were on the periphery of this. That is, they wouldn't have been major participants, but they would have been in social contact with Castro or members of his entourage.

Mr. Wallach. How about persons within the DGI, whatever the correct name for Cuban intelligence is.

[redacted]

Well, again as I mentioned earlier, we had no staff officer penetration of the Cuban intelligence service. We had some reporting on people who were in touch with various leaders in the Cuban intelligence, and it was all in social or family or other context that those people were reporting on.

Mr. Wallach. Do you recall at any time in 1962 or 1963 the fact being brought to your attention that certain Cuban agents out of New York City were actually beginning to run assassination plots against Cuban exile leaders down in Miami?

[redacted] Out of New York? No, I don't recall that.

One thing, just before we leave this, so we don't have an incomplete record, you asked me the other kinds of operations that we were running. We were running a full scope of paramilitary operations against Cuba. That is, we were putting people back into Cuba who may have come from a particular province, and who then went into the bush and lived in the bush, and we kept them supplied with food, arms, basic equipment. We did have radio contact with them. We were involved in raids against the Cuban coast, we were involved in putting caches into the Cuban coast.

Senator Schweiker. Does that finish your point?

[redacted] Yes, sir, that's roughly it.

Senator Schweiker. Following up this other question, was any one part of your job plugging intelligence leaks at this given time?

Was there any concern during your timeframe that you were involved in Cuban operations of intelligence leaks from our country to theirs through the Cuban intelligence system?

Was this ever a consideration or priority of you as Station Chief?

[redacted] Yes, in terms of -- well, yes, the answer to that is yes. Now, let me elaborate on it.

1 We had a jurisdictional problem. For instance, a Cuban
2 agent detected in the United States or being suspected of being
3 a Cuban agent would have been a case that we would have had 4 to have coordinated with the FBI, and essentially the FBI took 5 primary action on this.

6 I recall one case where we detected a Cuban agent in the 7 United States, and the case was transferred to the Bureau, and 8 it involved a fundamental jurisdictional issue, which was 9 clearly the Bureau's right to take that particular case over.
10 So in that sense, the primary responsibility in the Miami
11 area in the counterintelligence sense than you are discussing,
12 Senator, would have rested with the Bureau.

13 Senator Schweiker. Did you ever attempt to find a leak
14 by placing one of our agents into the system to plug a leak?
15 I mean, was it ever that magnitude of concern attached?

16  No, I don't recall that kind of a case. In 17 other words, I do recall cases where people came out of Cuba,
18 gave us a story that we did not necessarily believe, where 19 we would turn them back and send them back to Cuba, so that 20 over a longer period of time we could determine what it is that 21 they were really after, what they were trying to do. In other
22 words, were they trying to come into the United States to 23 penetrate and immigrate, were they trying to get in touch with 24 American intelligence, and if so, why. But it was all done
25 back into the Cuban context.

Senator Schweiker. This is a tough question to answer, but at that period of time, how successful in your opinion was the Cuban intelligence system in doing some of that penetration and I realize that we had a lot of Cuban exiles here, and it is pretty hard to tell the players from the scorecard we are in. It is a tough relevant question, but I wonder how you would analyze it.

[redacted] Well, I think it would be fair to say that given the Cuban propensity to talk -- in other words, you have to start off with a fundamental point of departure that if you get two Cubans that have got a secret, it is not going to be a secret, because they do talk, and therefore they all constantly talk.

Our biggest problem in maintaining security of our own operations, such as an infiltration operation into Cuba to put in a cache or run a commando raid or put a person back in was to maintain security. The only way we could do it would be to take all participants of that operation and take them out of the Cuban community and in fact isolate them for a week or ten days or more prior to the mounting of the operation so that they wouldn't talk, and we could know where they would be constantly, 24 hours a day. And within that milieu, I think it is safe to say that the Cuban intelligence service did have some agents and could be expected to have a general feel for the pulse of the community at that time.

Senator Schweiker. During that same time frame, or during the time frame that you were Station Chief, what are some other Cuban groups that you worked with that come to mind? I have mentioned DRE. I realize there were several different ones?

Any others particularly that were helpful and worked with you like the DRE?

[redacted] Well, the DRE was the main group because what had happened is after the war or prior to the Bay of Pigs there was a great collaboration between CIA and a number of these groups. After the Bay of Pigs, the dialogue with these groups sort of dried up, and during my tenure, the main group that we worked with in that sense as an organizational entity was the DRE because they had a lot of active, imaginative young student leaders who had contacts throughout the Western Hemisphere who were equally interested in using them in the propaganda and covert action sense in Central and Latin America as we were actually using them against Cuba itself.

Senator Schweiker. Where did Alpha 66 fit or not fit into that?

[redacted] We did not have an organizational relationship with Alpha 66. Alpha 66 was in being. We monitored their activities so that we would know when they were going to lead raids against Cuba. We may have had people who at one time or another were in our paramilitary teams who left us for

1 one reason or another and may have ended up in Alpha 66.

2 Senator Schweiker. We realize that one of the other
3 intelligence agencies might have had a liaison or working
4 operation with Alpha 66, not the CIA, is that correct?

5 [redacted] Yes, I think -- you know, in the back of 6 my memory I believe that one of the military services --

7 Senator Schweiker. Might it have been the Army
8 Intelligence?

9 [redacted] My recollection, it was probably a military
10 service, and it probably was the Army, but I would have to 11 check the record.

12 Senator Schweiker. We also were informed, and I just 13 wondered if this was your recollection, that at some point
14 some of the operations got a little bit overlapping and 15 duplicating, and that the boats would -- I'm simplifying it
16 of course, but that the boats weren't coordinated too well,
17 and at one point it got to be -- a problem with whoever else
18 was involved, and that finally an agreement was worked out
19 with Army intelligence that all the boats would be supplied
20 by CIA instead of having them sort of fly-by-nighting and 21 possibly mess up some things because of duplication or conflict.

22 Do you recall any of that at all?

23 [redacted] Well, I think there were periods when the 24 U.S. Government was putting a clamp-down on refugee groups
25 going out, and the whole apparatus of government, Coast Guard

1 Customs, Immigration and Naturalization, FBI, CIA, were working
2 together to try to keep these operations from going to Cuba.

3 In that context, the military did have some problems, but 4 my recollection of that, Senator, is that we put them into the
5 coordination mechanism that we had for getting boats out. I
6 don't recall our taking their people --

7 Senator Schweiker. I might have stated it wrong.

8 What do you mean by a coordination mechanism?

9 [redacted] Well, for instance, we had, let's say, for 10 the month of October 1963, we would draw up an operational 11 plan in September. In the course of that operational plan and 12 geared to the dark of the moon, we would have a number of 13 infiltration missions scheduled to put in caches. We'd have 14 a number of missions scheduled to put in teams or to take 15 people out of Cuba. We'd have a number of missions
16 scheduled to conduct commando raids against fixed installations.

17 So we would draw up the schedule and coordinate the 18 schedule with the appropriate agencies like Coast Guard or 19 Customs so that we could move our boats in and out and not 20 cause the U.S. Government to expend manhours and money in 21 pursuing our boats.

22 Senator Schweiker. I think that is what I had in mind.

23 [redacted] And therefore, on this schedule, when we 24 worked this out, we therefore would tack on the military
25 operations and work this out so that there was a central

1 clearinghouse, and the U. S. government had a grip on what it
2 was doing in this clandestine field.

3 Senator Schweiker. To your recollection, besides Army
4 intelligence, were there any other intelligence services that
5 were involved to any extent with that general picture?

6 [redacted] Well, with the mitstion of that, as I recall,
7 the Navy had some activities in and out of Guantanamo, and there
8 were some discussions at various times on how their people
9 in Guantanamo could be supported, and the people were going
10 in and out of Guantanamo.

11 Senator Schweiker. Were the Army operations very extensive
12 or not compared to yours?

13 [redacted] No. Compared to ours, they were infinitesimal.

14 Senator Schweiker. And Navy?

15 [redacted] Navy, as I think all of this was limited to 16 the perimeter all around Guantanamo, and Guantanamo.

17 Senator Schweiker. All right.

18 Mr. Wallach. I just want to ask you a couple of more
19 questions as I was going to before.

20 I realize this question is going to your expertise, and 21 if you have any trouble with definitional terms, let's get 22 them straight.

23 [redacted] Right.

24 Mr. Wallach. Did JMWAVE itself as an entity have the 25 capability to conduct an investigation to determine whether or

1 not there had been Cuban involvement in the assassination of
2 President Kennedy in 1963?

3 [redacted] I don't think there would have been a real
4 world capability. I mean, if you're talking in my terms of 5 conducting an investigation of this type in Cuba, which would 6 have been professionally sound, that people could have put 7 confidence in, I think the answer to that is probably no. I'm
8 giving you an opinion. That is my opinion.

9 Mr. Wallach. Let's go back to terms, then. I'm not talking
10 about an investigation where you could obviously have the 11 freedom to go up and interview anyone you wanted to interview.

12 [redacted] No. We are talking about through clandestine
13 resources. In other words, to conduct this kind of investiga-
14 tion, you know, in my view, you would have had to have had 15 a penetration of one or more of the Cuban intelligence service.
16 The penetration would have had to have been in the 26th of July
17 Movement, and had enough rapport with the top leadership that 18 it could have moved freely in and out of a specific circle.
19 It would probably had to have been at the level of a Comandante.
20 We did not have that kind of resource in depth to conduct
21 that kind of investigation.

22 Mr. Wallach. Were there ever any discussions at that time
23 that you remember between yourself, Fitzgerald, Helms,
24 anyone, as to whether or not the CIA did have the capability
25 to conduct such an investigation?

[redacted] I don't recall such a discussion, but again, the reason for it was, it was essentially felt at that time, as name traces were done, the whole mood and the whole atmosphere was that this was a case that was being investigated by the FBI. It was their jurisdictional problem.

Mr. Wallach. Did the FBI, to your knowledge, have the capacity to investigate or to conduct any sort of investigation inside Cuba?

[redacted] Inside Cuba? No, I don't think they did.

Mr. Wallach. Did you have direct contact with anyone from the Bureau on a continuing basis from the FBI?

Mr. Johnston. Let's restructure that whole area.

What was the liaison relationship between JMWAVE, the Bureau and Florida?

[redacted] There was a direct liaison on a daily working basis, if this was required, between JMWAVE and the Miami Field Office, I think it was called, as a separate field office.

Mr. Johnston. At what level was this liaison conducted, directly with you?

[redacted] No. This was conducted at at least three levels that I can recall: periodically the Chief of the Field Office and I would meet to review problems, if we had any particular problems, or frankly, just to get together just to make sure that we did not have any problems. There was

1 direct liaison on a working level between the people in the 2 Counterintelligence shop of the Station and what I think the
 3 Bureau used to call the Tamale Squad, which were former 4 Bureau agents who had been down in Havana, who had left when 5 Fidel came into power, and were still working in Miami. And the 6 third liaison was essentially with people who were working
 7 specific cases, where the name trace mechanism between ourselves
 8 and the Bureau would show some mutuality of interest in a
 9 particular case.

10 For instance, as an example, the Bureau might call up and 11 say, look, what do you know about Juan Jose Gonzalez of the 12 Second Front of the Escudra? We'll say, okay, we'll take 13 the question, we'll do a trace, prepare the answer, and somebody
 14 would go down and talk to them. So it was close. I would 15 say it was close.

16 Mr. Johnston. Did you ever do the reverse? Did you ever
 17 ask the Bureau for information?

18  Yes. We traced specific people with the 19 Bureau.

20 Mr. Johnston. In November, after the assassination of 21 President Kennedy, did you personally meet with anybody from 22 the FBI regarding the investigation?

23  I don't recall meeting on that specific
 24 subject.

25 Mr. Johnston. Do you know whether anyone in INWAVE met

1 with the FBI in regard to the FBI investigation in Florida?

2 [redacted] My recollection is that this name trace
3 procedure was working, whatever they were working in relationship
4 to their investigation, was being run through us. In other
5 words, how many traces, who was being traced, I couldn't answer
6 that.

7 Mr. Johnston. Well, name traces are one thing. I guess
8 I am talking one step above that. Did anyone in JMWAVE to 9 your knowledge discuss with anyone in FBI in Florida the 10 CIA's capability to assist the FBI investigation?

11 [redacted] I have no way of answering that. I don't
12 recall that. I don't recall that kind of thing. You know,
13 this is -- you know, we're talking about 1961. This is 13
14 years ago, and I keep telling you, you know, I've had a busy,
15 active life.

16 Senator Schweiker. You are doing so far very well.

17 [redacted] I feel you are pressing me on something that 18 is almost unreasonable. I mean, I don't recall each and 19 every conversation. I mean, I had a 300 man station.

20 Mr. Johnston. I agree with you on that, but you are 21 describing name traces, which you do seem to recall, but I'm 22 saying was there anything beyond name traces that you recall?
23 Was there any assistance given beyond name traces?

24 Senator Schweiker. Was there any higher level investigation
25 that you can recall?

[redacted] The reason this name trace thing sticks in my mind, frankly, is because of the name traces that were conducted on Oswald when we got the hit, and I recall, the hit was made on the fact that there was the discussion and debate between Oswald and the DRE fellow, and we were tracing a lot of names at that time, and in conjunction with this particular event, once people were arrested and detained and there was some reason to expect that there was what I called an investigative follow-up, you know, you've got to start from some fact. What was the fact? You had a name, an address, a telephone number, that kind of tracing was going on. That is what impacts on me, what is this, you know, 13 years later.

Senator Schweiker. In connection with that, the group, the DRE group, there was some allegation that Oswald, I guess part of it is reality for sure, that he tried to penetrate the group himself by coming in when he was in New Orleans and infiltrate it on his own, which I guess is known, and what is in doubt, there was an allegation that while he was doing that, that he possibly talked of assassinating Kennedy or he paid money to assassinate Kennedy.

Does any of that conversation strike any bells or recollection with regard to DRE?

[redacted] No, it doesn't, Senator, and I think I've got to explain this to you as to what was the nature of our relationship with the DRE. In other words, we had a

1 relationship with the DRE where we gave them a monthly
 2 subsidy. In other words, this would make them in our category
 3 like independent contractors. In return for this particular
 4 subsidy, they were to collect intelligence for us on the island
 5 of Cuba where they still had people. They were to be a symbol
 6 of a certain amount of resistance, therefore they had to engage
 7 in certain activities, propaganda, radio broadcasts, correspon-
 8 dence to their friends and associates on the inside to show
 9 that there was a spark on the outside, around which people could 10 rally.

11 They also wanted to have a boat to move people inside
 12 and out of Cuba, and the money, the subsidy that we gave them
 13 helped them do all of these things. And we got an accounting
 14 from them. But we did not control each and every action that 15 they took, so that if they chose, you know, not to report
 16 something to us, we wouldn't necessarily know it, and not 17 every little detail of their organization did we know. If 18 they met somebody --

19 Senator Schweiker. Well, I can understand that because 20 there were a lot of groups like that, I'm sure.

21  But that particular one was one with which 22 we had a subsidy relationship.

23 Senator Schweiker. Do you recall who your control

6 [ ] You mentioned the name, and to be honest, the 7 name doesn't ring a bell. But is he also known as Fatty?

8 Senator Schweiker: Well, you've got me now.

9 [ ] Well, every Cuban has an alias, like, they
10 call him El Gorde or something like that.

11 Senator Schweiker: Well, it might be. He fits it.

12 [ ] Well, you might be able to answer this. Was 13 he the fellow that was on the DRE boat that raided Havana?

4 My question is that this allegation that he lived in

16 Senator Schweiker. Well, does the fact that he might

1 [redacted] No, I don't know. We would have to go back
 2 to them and their criteria for carding might not coincide with
 3 ours. In other words, many of these Cuban groups were prone
 4 to act on rumors. They were prone to publicize things that
 5 were not true. The DRE had a record of publicizing, embroidering, 6 elaborating on things, and therefore we treated a lot of their
 7 material with caution.

8 Senator Schweiker. Right.

9 Go ahead, Paul.

10 Mr. Wallach. Generally, now, and I'm not asking for 11 specific conversations at all. I think it is entirely true,
 12 it is a caveat throughout this entire thing, we are talking
 13 about 13 years ago, millions of matters ago. But generally, do
 14 you recall whether or not the FBI, the people you dealt with 15 had any general knowledge of the CIA's capability inside
 16 Cuba to get information?

17 [redacted] Well, I think it would be fair to say that 18 the FBI knew the kinds of operations that we were running, and 19 I think they could have drawn certain conclusions about, you
 20 know, what our capability might have been. That is, let me

4 specific sources, I doubt it.

5 Mr. Wallach. In other words, you would doubt whether or 6 not anyone in the Bureau would have known whether or not you
7 had an extremely high level source in Castro's entourage.

8  I doubt that they would know that.

9 Mr. Wallach. At any time, do you recall after the assassi-
10 nation anyone from the Bureau, even from the Miami field office
11 or from headquarters, through Wapich, through your headquarters
12 contacting you to determine whether or not you had the capability
13 to conduct investigations on Cuba?

14  No, I don't recall that.

15 Do you want me -- can we go off the record for a minute?

16 Senator Schweiker. Yes.

17 (Discussion off the record.)

18 Mr. Wallach. Let's go back on the record.

19 Were you known to the FBI under your real name or under 20 an alias?

21  No, I was known to the FBI under my true
22 name. If you are wondering about whether the name is going to 23 show up in the FBI records, I think they always would, in the 24 writing of reports, do not use the true names. In other words
25 they say, you know, source or confidential informant, or A-

whatever it was called, and that is the way they write their reports.

Mr. Wallach. Let me ask you this. I realize this was a subject matter that was covered in your previous testimony. I deem it of relevance, and I would like to ask you here, were you aware on November 22nd, 1963, that the CIA had at some point in time prior to that date itself engaged in attempts to assassinate or used others in attempts to assassinate Fidel Castro?

[redacted]

No. I think the basic answer to that question is no, but if you looked at my previous testimony, I previously said that in the case of this Cuban commandante over the years, I had acquired some knowledge of the fact that he existed and he was being run by my colleagues in Washington, but that case was not known to me as a clearcut assassination operation. In other words, at one point in time I knew that Bob Fitzgerald was going to meet this fellow. I knew at one point in time there was going to be a meeting in Spain. I knew at one point in time that we were putting caches in to support this particular fellow. I never knew whether the caches were recovered. And things like that. But the fundamental answer is no.

I have also previously testified that on some of the activities that were being engaged in by Mr. Harvey, that I was not knowledgeable on, you know, the thrust of those activities.

Mr. Wallach. Did your own sources in the Cuban commandant

1 tell you that the, what we call the underworld, the Mafia,
2 was engaging in attempts to assassinate Fidel Castro?

3 [ ] I don't recall any such reports, but I've
4 explained this, and let me go again on this, that assassination,
5 the word "assassination" was part of the ambience of that
6 time. In other words, every Cuban that you talked to, nobody
7 could be involved in Cuban operations without having had 8 some sort of a discussion at some time with some Cuban who 9 said, gee, we ought to knock this guy off, or I'd shoot him if 10 I had the chance, or the way to create a revolution is to 11 shoot Fidel and Raul, and then go down through the whole
12 proposition. So the fact that somebody would talk about 13 assassination just wasn't anything that was really out of the 14 ordinary at the time. It was part of the climate. There
15 were professional revolutionaries in some cases, men who had 16 been in the 25th of July movement and left, and come in and 17 become exiles, and had been exiles two or three times.
18 Revolution and assassination was a way of life for them.

19 Mr. Wallach. Did you have any doubt in your mind that 20 Castro was aware in November 1963 that the CIA was supporting 21 these revolutionaries?

22 [ ] Supporting revolutionaries.

23 Mr. Wallach. Right.

24 [ ] Yes, I think Castro knew that the United
25 States was in touch with groups like the DRE, that people

1 were being infiltrated by CIA into Cuba, because they apprehended
2 some of them.

3 Mr. Wallach. Groups that were trying to overthrow
4 Castro.

5 [redacted] But he had to assume that if they were coming
6 in, they were setting up guerilla forces in places like
7 Oriente Province, and Pinar del Rio, that yes, they were going 8 to work to overthrow him, and he had to know that.

9 Mr. Wallach. Were you aware of any other country that 10 the United States Government was at that time attempting to 11 overthrow the government of, and we can get your answer off
12 the record if it is positive.

13 [redacted] Well, wait a minute. Would you rephrase
14 that? I'm not sure I follow that particular one.

15 Mr. Wallach. You came back to me with the word assassi-
16 nation, said it was part of the ambience of the times, that 17 that might have been discussed at one time or another. My 18 belief, as a layman, had been I don't see that much of a 19 distinction between sending someone in who is going to try to 20 foment a revolution, the result of which would probably be 21 the death of Castro as opposed to sending someone in to --
22 I don't want to get into this, but I think that may have been 23 something that you were touching on.

24 In any event, are you aware of any other country that 25 the U.S. at that time was directing attempts to overthrow the

1 government of?

2 [redacted] No. Off the top of my head, no, but I
3 do want to come back to your point. I do think there is a
4 difference in the Latin American revolutionary sense of plotting
5 a revolution against somebody as opposed to plotting a
6 specific assassination operation against a particular individual.
7 You know, maybe we have an honest difference of opinion on that
8 point, but my view differs from yours.

9 Mr. Wallach. All right, let me continue on.

10 You also mentioned before that some of the people, the 11 people that you felt were making general policy, were Helms,
12 Bobby Kennedy, at one point Ed Lansdale.

13 [redacted] Oh-huh.

14 Mr. Wallach. Did the Cubans know that? Did the Cubans
15 know that Bobby Kennedy was involved?

16 [redacted] I don't know that they were at that point in 17 time, but clearly at later points of time when the Brigade 2506
18 returned, yes, they knew that Bobby Kennedy was in the Cuban
19 policy affairs. Leaders of the brigade like Artimo, Oliva,
20 the San Juan brothers and others were brought to Washington
21 for lunches, dinners with, I guess at that time it was the 22 Attorney General, because there were various phases in this 23 thing.

24 Yes, they knew he was involved in Cuban affairs.

1 in I think it was the September 7th issue of the New Orleans
 2 Times-Picayune, among other newspapers, which reflected an
 3 interview Castro had with Daniel Barker of the AP, within which 4 he said in substance that U.S. leaders would be in danger if
 5 they continued in their attempts, I think he used the word
 6 "eliminate".

7 [redacted] Yes, I'm familiar with the general article,
 8 yes, but I can't tell you with certainty that I was aware of 9 that article at the time that it appeared. In other words,
 10 you're asking about 1961, did you say it appeared?

11 Mr. Wallach. September 7, 1963.

12 [redacted] I cannot swear that I knew about it in 1963.
 13 I since know that that article has been referred to a number of 14 times.

15 Mr. Johnston. Let me just state for the record that I
 16 did not bring the WAVE cable on it, but WAVE did pass to head-
 17 quarters the gist of that article as it appeared in Miami
 18 articles, passed that information to headquarters either on 19 the 23rd or 24th of November because the FBI was inquiring
 20 about exile groups claiming that Castro had threatened Kennedy
 21 anyway, so that at least WAVE had knowledge right after the 22 assassination of that article.

23 [redacted] All right. The reason I qualify my response
 24 that may have been a cable that would have been released by 25 some member of my staff. It didn't necessarily follow that

1 was a WAVE cable, that I personally released it. I don't happen
2 to recall it, but I am familiar with the article and the thrust

4 Mr. Wallach. I realize again you may not have been familiar
5 with it at that time, or even before the assassination, but 6 what -- and I'm not asking specifically for what facts, but
7 you have testified previously that -- I don't want to paraphrase
8 your testimony, it speaks for itself -- that you had no reason
9 to believe that the Cubans were involved in the assassination
10 of President Kennedy.

11 [redacted] Yes, at the time that the incident occurred,
12 and when Oswald was apprehended, I had no reason to believe
13 that the Cubans were involved.

14 Mr. Wallach. Taking the other side of the coin, what 15 evidence was there in your mind that they were not involved?

16 [redacted] Well, because we didn't have any evidence
17 that they were.

18 Mr. Wallach. Did you conduct any investigation at all to 19 determine if there was any involvement?

20 [redacted] I didn't have any charter for that. I mean,
21 people were distrustful. The FBI and the authorities in that 22 particular, in Dallas, were pursuing the case. I had no
23 charter to pursue that.

24 Mr. Wallach. Did you ever ask Mr. Helms whether or not you that you could or could not?

[redacted] No, I answered that, that I don't recall any such conversation where Helms told me I could or could not. I mean, this was not a subject that was being discussed.

I think the frame of reference at the time was that this was not a jurisdictional case for the CIA to pursue.

Mr. Wallach. You mean, the President of the United States is murdered, and it is not within the jurisdiction of the CIA to determine if a foreign country is involved?

[redacted] Not if the investigation is run by the FBI and a person is apprehended, and one is going to assume that he is going to be interrogated, investigative leads are going to be obtained from it, and a particular agency has got the action responsibility. Under those circumstances, my perception of the various rules is that CIA performs a support function. In other words, if you are asked for a name trace, or traces on telephone numbers, physical descriptions, you know, license plates, whatever it may be, you respond.

Mr. Wallach. Who gave you those instructions, that CIA was only going to have a support function?

[redacted] That is my perception.

Mr. Wallach. Who told you that?

[redacted] Nobody has to tell you that. You're an intelligence human being. You're allowed to think for yourself and you can come to logical conclusions.

Mr. Wallach. Did somebody tell you that the FBI had primary jurisdiction?

[redacted] No, but the FBI has primary jurisdiction, this is something we are taught in our training courses, in the United States, you know, for cases in the United States. For instance, my explanation of this -- I gave you an explanation of the counterintelligence case in the States where we found a Cuban agent in the United States, and the jurisdiction of the case reverted to the FBI.

Mr. Wallach. September of '64.

No. No.

Mr. Wallach. Do you have any reason today to believe that there was Cuban involvement in the assassination of President Kennedy?

I have no hard information on that.

Mr. Wallach. Do you have any hearsay information?

No. I mean, hearsay information, what constitutes hearsay? Urial wrote an article in the Washington Post, you know, suggesting that there is some -- is that hearsay evidence? I mean, I don't happen to believe his thesis.

Mr. Wallach. I am asking you if you have any belief as an expert?

As an expert I only deal in facts, in other words not -- what I consider hard intelligence, I don't have any hard intelligence.

Yes, I did.

Mr. Johnston. Did you have an investigative relationship with the U.S. Customs Department, specifically a Customs agent who was on detail to CIA?

Yes, we had a relationship with a Customs

1 agent by the name of [redacted] was
2 detailed on an arrangement between CIA which was in being when
3 I came to the station. His primary function was to be
4 stationed in Key West, Florida. He generally covered the area
5 from Key West to either Marathon or it could have been --
6 either Marathon or El Marado, and his tasks were, one, to 7 find Cubans who were coming into the United States in small
8 boats, and to ensure that he took a quick look at them to 9 see if any one of them could be turned around to be used as 10 intelligence sources. If they couldn't be used as intelligence
11 sources, he skimmed off the perishable information that was 12 really critical, and then put it into our system. He also 13 flagged the knowledgeable people for further exploitation by 14 us when they went to the Opa Laca briefing center. He also 15 picked up equipment, that is documents from these people,
16 weapons, clothing, so that we could use authentic clothing to

18 Mr. Johnston. Did he also stay in contact with certain

20 [redacted] He did stay in contact with Cuban exile
21 groups because it was part of his job to know when they were 22 going out so that we didn't have these uncoordinated problems.
23 In other words, at one point we tried to stop them. He also

2 Cubans were already working.

3 Mr. Johnston. And did he -- let me back up. First, have 4 you participated in the Agency's response to the Committee's
5 written inquiry about this?

6 [redacted] Well, to this extent, somebody in the Agency
7 called me and said the Committee had a request in for some
8 data on a Customs officer. Nobody could remember his name. I
9 happened to remember his name. I said [redacted] was the 10 guy's name. I don't remember how to spell it. Phonetically
11 I think it is as follows, and try to find a file on it. And 12 so to that extent, yes, I am aware that there was some sort of 13 a response being prepared. I did not see the response. I
14 don't know what it says.

15 Mr. Johnston. Do you know whether he was asked either by 16 you or by anybody in WAVE to contact Cuban exiles after the 17 assassination to see what knowledge they might have?

18 [redacted] Well, let me try to clarify that. I was 19 not his contact point. In other words, I was a manager of a 20 large operation.

21 Mr. Johnston. I understand that. So did anybody under 22 your control contact him?

23 [redacted] His point of contact was in Key West. Period-
24 ically he would either come to Miami or meet with one of our 25 people, and once every three months or something like that.

1 would have a meeting with him to review broad trends, either
 2 in Key West or in Miami. I never talked him with this type of
 3 thing. I don't recall anybody else in the station tasking him
 4 to conduct an investigation of Cuban groups relative to the 5 President's assassination. But as we were putting together
 6 mood cables -- you showed me an example of one there -- it is 7 conceivable that he is the kind of person that we would have
 8 talked to to find out what was going on in the Cuban community
 9 at that time.

10 Mr. Johnston. Do you know whether he did in fact contact
 11 Cuban exiles about it? Do you have any knowledge of his contact
 12 Cuban exiles?

13  I don't have any firsthand knowledge.

14 Mr. Johnston. Do you have any knowledge whatsoever?

15  I would have to say firsthand, I don't 16 recall any information of any subordinate of mine reporting to 17 me that he had done that.

18 Mr. Johnston. You testified earlier that you met with 19 Mr. Fitzgerald at some point, and that he told you at that 20 time that he made contact personally with a Cuban agent, code-
 21 named AMLASH?

22  I think my testimony was something along the 23 line, that I had a conversation with Fitzgerald, that he was 24 going to meet a Cuban source. My recollection was that the 25 name may have come up, that he was asking my opinion and advice.

 3 I would find this conversation interesting, but I didn't think
 4 it was worth his doing because he had too high a profile, and 5 it would not be a good thing to do from the point of view of 6 attribution in relationship to a clandestine agent.

7 Mr. Johnston. And let me go through what you have just 8 told me.

9 First of all, was this agent, when he used the true
 10 name, was it the agent whose cryptonym is AMLASH?

11  Yes. Subsequently I have concluded that that 12 is who it is.

13 Mr. Johnston. Did he tell you or indicate that a meeting
 14 between him and AMLASH was proposed?

15  Well, he was considering a meeting with 16 AMLASH, with this particular person.

17 Mr. Johnston. Do you have a recollection as to what 18 timeframe your discussion with Mr. Fitzgerald was?

19  No, I don't.

20 Mr. Johnston. Knowing that Mr. Fitzgerald met with 21 AMLASH on October 29th, 1963, does that refresh your recollection
 22 as to whether the conversation took place earlier in 1963?

23  I am sorry, I can't narrow that down for

[redacted] Right.

Mr. Johnston. You were knowledgeable, I take it, of the Agency's dealing with AMLASH from time to time, as part of JMWAVE.

[redacted] Yes. I mentioned to you earlier that we had put in caches which were scheduled to be retrieved by AMLASH or his people, so yes, I knew that we were providing support to an agent in Cuba, but that was not unusual because we were putting in a large number of caches for a wide variety of people who were being run out of Washington, over and out of other stations.

Mr. Johnston. And you may have testified about this before but was it common to drop caches of rifles or telescopic sights for agents?

[redacted] I would not necessarily have known what was in each cache.

Mr. Johnston. Well, was it common to drop, to your knowledge, to drop rifles with telescopic sights?

[redacted] Well, I think the thing that would be common would be telescopic sights. Many of our caches were weapons caches. A large bulk of the caches were rifles of one kind or another. We put in the FAL, the Belgian FAL, we put in M-1s. We put in carbines, we put in Springfields, we put in Thompson submachine guns. 6 Mr. Johnston. Do you recall on or about 7 or 8 December
 7 1963 a stop being put on operations, certain operations that
 8 went into Cuba?

9 [redacted] I don't recall that specific timeframe, but
 10 there were periodic ups and downs in the number of operations
 11 that could be run. We would get policy guidance to stand
 12 down for a period of time, that once one of those things came 13 out, I think that we had a series of discussions, I think, in 14 Washington, and appeals, that if there was a standdown, and 15 we had to say something, who were dependent on us in Cuba
 16 for food and a continuing flow of weapons, that we couldn't

should provide basis for decision."

[redacted] I don't recall your specific dates or your timeframe, but the point I would like to leave with you is that there were several periods like that where we had ups and downs, and yes, I do recall standdowns on operations.

Mr. Johnston, you don't recall a standdown within two weeks of the assassination of President Kennedy.

[redacted] I am sorry, I don't. You know, I accept that it occurred, but you know, there were so many of those during the three and a half year period of time that I don't recall that specific one.

Mr. Johnston. What does the phrase "higher authority" generally mean in Agency cables?

[redacted] Well, at that particular point in time, I think higher authority was a euphemism for the President and top level policy decisionmakers at the NSC 40 Committee level.

Mr. Johnston. And again, you don't recall knowing in the same time period, December 1961, that you were cabled that the headquarters procedure was to present the infiltration procedures to higher authority.

[redacted] Well, I have forgotten the date when this transition took place. As of a fixed date, in the course of this operation, we had to supply all of our infiltration operations a month in advance. I'm sorry, I just don't recall when that went into effect. Prior to that time we were

1 pretty well scheduling these ourselves, but then a request
 2 came in that we put these in a month in advance. So as I
 3 told you before, if I wanted to run a schedule for October, I
 4 had to have it in in Washington with all of the Ops plans
 5 by I think the 15th of September.

6 Senator Schweiker. Did a former ambassador William
 7 Pauley, a man called William Pauley, who at one time owned
 8 properties in Havana and now living in Miami, did he ever
 9 finance some of the operations that you are aware of out of 10 Miami, William Pauley?

11 [redacted] Yes, I know Bill Pauley. He was involved in 12 in my time, in one specific operational activity. I don't 13 think it would be proper to say that he financed it, however.

14 Senator Schweiker. This is the one where people were 15 killed in a boat raid?

16 [redacted] Well, we don't know what happened to them.
 17 My recollection of the operation is that Bill Pauley was 18 approached by Life Magazine, and this was involved with an 19 individual by the name of John Martino, because this has come
 20 up recently. The Committee has asked me about this before I
 21 told them at first I couldn't remember the name, and I had 22 to go back and conduct a file search, and I came up with 23 John Martino's name, who had been involved in gambling casinos
 24 in Cuba.

25 Martino was in touch with a number of Cubans who

TOP SECRET

1 claimed that they had access to two Soviet missile technicians.
2 Pauley brought this operation to the Agency, and the Agency
3 agreed that we would cooperate with them in pursuit of this 4 operation.

5 Senator Schweiker. And Time-Life did some funding for 6 it, too?

7 [redacted] Well, they were involved, but they did not
8 fund it. My recollection is Pauley made the boat available,
9 the Flying Tiger, which was his yacht, we paid for the gas and 10 oil for that particular boat, and we provided all of the other 11 equipment that went into the operation. Pauley went on that 12 vessel down to the launch point. The men were launched in a 13 small infiltration boat. It took off, went off toward the 14 Cuban mainland, and were never seen or heard from since then.
15 We never had any reporting on them.

16 Senator Schweiker. Was Pauley involved with other
17 operations with you folks, or is that the only one?

18 [redacted] That is the only operation that he was 19 involved with the Agency. He, however, was very helpful in 20 terms of providing advice on various people that he had known
21 from his long involvement in Cuba. He was useful in providing 22 introductions to various people that we wanted to meet. I
23 recall on one occasion he introduced me to a prominent Cuban
24 that I wanted to meet. He brokered that.

25 Pauley, on his own, gave money to various Cuban groups.

4 Senator Schweiker. Here is an article -- rather than me read
5 it, I'll give you a chance to read it. It is Claire Booth
6 Luce. As you know, she is on the Foreign Intelligence Advisory
7 Board, and has been for some time, and Bill Colby was her
8 chief of station when she was ambassador to Italy. This 9 story came to me not through the paper, frankly, but from 10 Mrs. Luce personally, expressing her concern. It subsequently 11 did appear in a paper and I did not release it. Mrs. Luce
12 specifically released it to Betty Beale, and the reason it is 13 relevant here is that from what I read here, the group she 14 is referring to is probably the DRE group or some part of 15 the DRE group in New Orleans, and while that is not too clear,
16 she did associate Mr. William Pauley with it. But that is 17 somewhat confused, because you said he wasn't involved in any 18 other operation other than the one you mentioned.

19 [redacted] Well, I'm -- Mr. Pauley, I know Mr. Pauley
20 and Mrs. Luce are friends. They see each other, or they used to 21 I haven't seen them in a number of years, but they used to 22 be in the same social circuit, so I am sure that Mr. Pauley
23 recounted a war story in his contacts, so she is probably 24 aware of the general operation to get the two Soviets out of 25 Cuba. That is the only operation that he ran with us during

Senator Schweiker. There is a vast difference of recollection between the two on what happened. She very strongly recalls that in addition to the thing that you described, which is a matter of record, by the way, with the Senate Committee, it is a matter of Committee record, in addition to that, that this is in it also.

Rather than read the whole thing, you might read the paragraphs I have outlined. She feels very strongly about it. She has called me several times about it. She is absolutely certain of her information, and her Cuban source doesn't want to talk for fear of his life.

(The Witness reads the document.)

[Redacted]

No, that doesn't ring any bells. I cannot put that in any context.

Let me go back to this Pauley business. I think at one time, one other thing that Pauley did for us, I think he provided an opportunity for us to pick up some cargo in the Dominican Republic to provide cover for one of our vessels that we were using at that time for infiltration operations in the area but those are the only things that I can remember off the top of my head.

Senator Schweiker. You see, where he says here that he had contact with a group, the story goes on to say that this group supplied a tape and pictures of that contact, and that

5 Mr. Bolten. Which one?

6 Senator Schweiker. The case officer for the DRE group.

7 It would have to be the one at the time when Oswald was 8 in New Orleans, which is -- when was that?

9 Mr. Johnston. The fall of '63.

11 Senator Schweiker. Going on, I didn't follow the final
12 question on DeEstada, your detail man to Customs.

13 Were you aware that he was doing some investigating
14 after the Kennedy assassination?

15  No, I don't have any firsthand recollection
16 of that.

17 Senator Schweiker. And the way you were structured, would 18 he be the logical person to, if somebody asked for either a
19 name check or some follow-up --

20  He would have been the logical person if we 21 had something specific to pursue or he would have been the 22 logical person to put a question to if we were looking for

Senator Schweiker. He's the sugar king there.

Did he assist with any of your operations, either financially or in terms of his people or in terms of his organization?

[redacted] My recollection of that, there was no direct contact between us and Julio Lobo. We did have various Cuban investigative and research groups that we were working with. My belief is that one of these groups must have been tapping Lobo for his knowledge of the sugar market, because we were constantly making projections of where the sugar crop was going in Cuba, because that impacted on the stability of the Cuban economy. In other words, when it was a good crop, you could figure that Castro's going to have 2 millions of dollars. When he didn't have a good crop, this was going to impact on where he wanted to go with building the revolution.

Senator Schweiker. There is another name that I believe had some relationship with him, maybe businesswise, James Cogswell, or Caldwell.

Senator Schweiker. Maybe I'm not pronouncing it right.

V-g-c-l-a-n-a-s.

[redacted] I think that's the fellow who used to run the restaurant called Las Violinas, and he was involved with a number of Cuban exile groups. I think he was connected with the second front of the Escudero, but that is off the top of my head. We'd have to do a trace.

Senator Schweiker. Did David Phillips, during your tenure there, have any assignment in Cuba?

11  Yes.

12 Senator Schweiker. To your knowledge, did Howard Hughes,
13 Intertel or any of his other groups or associations assist
14 or work with you in the Cuban operation?

15  Not with the Miami station that I am aware 16 of.

17 Senator Schweiker. Well, I'm not talking about --

18  Well, back here in Washington that could be,
19 but I have no knowledge of it. I can only answer it out of 20 the Miami context.

21 Senator Schweiker. At one point in time, probably when 22 you first came aboard, there was a Lt. Colonel Samuel Kahn,
23 who was military attache to the Havana embassy.

24 Does that name ring a bell?

25  Yes, it does.

1 Senator Schweiker. What role was he playing when you came
2 aboard?

3 [redacted] He either came about the same time that I
4 did or shortly after I arrived in Miami, and he was in fact
5 the number two fellow at the Opa Locka debriefing center. We had
6 inter-agency debriefing center set up at Opa Locka. The head
7 of the center was a CIA officer. His principal deputy was 8 Kalc. He was the general administrator of the program and he 9 supervised the military personnel who were on detail to the 10 center, and there were debriefing people there for positive
11 intelligence, and when they found someone who was particularly 12 knowledgeable or had some operational exploitation, they were 13 telling them to us.

14 Senator Schweiker. Was he ever detailed to CIA or was 15 he strictly Army intelligence?

16 [redacted] No, at that time he was an Army officer
17 working on a joint project that wasn't a detail assignment.
18 It was just assigned to Opa Locka.

19 Senator Schweiker. Purely Army, but working with you
20 cooperatively.

21 [redacted] Well, I think what happened, unlike what
22 would go on overseas, a table of organization was drawn up
23 for the Opa Locka center, and it was agreed that the head of 24 this center would be CIA, so we assigned that man to that.

2 to receive his pay, quarters, and other allowance through the
3 military establishment.

4 Senator Schweiker. What about when he was at the Havana
5 embassy?

6 You are talking about, I guess, after he left the Havana
7 embassy.

8 [redacted] Yes. I am talking about the period 1962
9 forward, and as I recall, he must have been there up to the 10 end of my tenure there. I have forgotten when he left. I have 11 no knowledge of his activities in Havana. That was before my 12 time. I simply know that he served in Havana, that he was 13 a social acquaintance of a number of the officers that I hear
14 in the station, but I had no firsthand knowledge.

15 Senator Schweiker. How about Robert Brown or Colonel
16 Nichols, the same question, Robert Brown?

17 [redacted] Senator, you'll have to give me something
18 more than Robert Brown. That doesn't give me anything. I'm 19 sorry. The other was what, Colonel Nichols?

20 Senator Schweiker. Colonel Nichols. He was also at the 21 Havana embassy at some point in time.

22 [redacted] I would have no knowledge of his.

7 Senator Schweiker. Go ahead.

8 Mr. Johnston. Do you recall Director McCone visiting the 10 [redacted] Mr. McCone made a couple of visits to 11 Florida. I'm not sure it would be fair to say that he 12 visited the station. My recollection of that is he came to 13 Florida. He was put in the property that we had, we had 14 conversations with him out at that property, but he didn't

15 come out to the physical plant, that is, our station premises,
16 and in most cases he was usually en route to or coming back
17 from somewhere.

18 Mr. Johnston. Do you recall such a visit in December of 19 1963?

20 [redacted] I can't pin it down to that timeframe. In 21 other words, my memory is McCone came to Miami several times.

22 Mr. Johnston. Well, let's put it in the timeframe of a
23 short period after the assassination of President Kennedy.

Mr. Johnston. Let me show you the cable that you looked at previously before we went on the record, which is WAVE cable 8130 of 24 November 1963, and the copy we have is barely legible. The gist of that in the last numbered paragraph reports information WAVE obtained on an individual named Rodriguez in Dallas, and also, I think, reports, if you can read through the poor Xeroxing, that Rodriguez was thought to be anti-Kennedy.

My question being, where would you have gotten that kind of information?

HAVE traces, now, that indicates to me that whatever was done here was based on the material that was passively in the files.

Where did material that was in our files. We got material that was in these files from agent reporting, we got it from refugee debriefings, we got it from our, you know, from sources in the Cuban community who were reporting on Cuban groups. We got it on a monitoring of the Cuban press, and the Spanish press in Miami, we got it from monitoring radio broadcasts and so forth. So that it was this kind of a conglomerate of information.

Now, let's take a name, you know, like Rodriguez. A name like Rodriguez in the card file, there might be two inches of Rodriguezes. You know, if you were looking for a specific Rodriguez, Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, you know, something like that, then you'd have to pin it down, in other words, age, what his membership was in the party and things like that. So that indicates to me that we found this material in the file.

Who the source is, I can't know. We'd have to look in the crypt and find the true name, and maybe even then I couldn't tell you.

didn't have all 750 penetrated, if you really want to know the answer to that. We'll have to get the book, look up the dates, and try to see who the leadership were.

Mr. Johnston. Does that book contain the names of the leadership?

[redacted] Yes. In most of the cases it contains the names of the major leaders.

Mr. Johnston. Did you have that book at approximately the time period of November '63 through December '63?

[redacted] The book was put out and revised several times. I just have trouble coming into specific dates.

Mr. Johnston. I appreciate that fact. I understand it.

[redacted] There is just a mass of information on these things now coming out, and the only way I know to answer you in a prudent manner is to say that there was such a group. steer you to the information. You know, we can look it up for you.

Mr. Johnston. Did you know who Dr. Portelli-Villa was, perhaps Portelli-Villa?

[redacted] Portelli-Villa or Portelli-Villa?

Mr. Johnston. Portelli-Villa.

[redacted] Portelli-Villa, yes, I do not.

Mr. Johnston. Are you a member of a subcommittee of ARMB and I will show you the different sub committees WAVE cable 0450, 1/7/1963.

(The Witness reads the document.)

[redacted] No, I don't. You know, the cryptonym AMKROB rings a bell with me. I am familiar with the cryptonym. Who specifically AMKROB 1 is I can't tell you. Reading the contents of this message, you know, this is a message dated 4 December '63, I would say that we got a message in secret writing via the mail from some source in Cuba, and he is giving this information.

Who he is, what reliability we placed on a particular source --

Mr. Johnston. That's what I'm asking you.

[redacted] what access he had and so forth, I couldn't tell you. We'd have to, you know, get the file. I would like to read it and see what the file says.

Mr. Johnston. And in connection with the assassination, President Kennedy, when you get information like that, you viewed your responsibility as what?

[redacted] Essentially putting it to headquarters, that was the focal point for pulling together all kinds of data that were dealing with the source and others.

Mr. Johnston. And again the substance of this is a source in Cuba reporting to you on possibly seeing Oswald, possible Cuban assassinations.

[redacted] That is the substance I come to by reading their message. I don't want you to hold me to this, and you

1 Will get the file and it says that this was an EW message
2 from a guy in Mexico or something. I'm just reading a message
3 and deductive analysis of what I know the case to have been 4 at the time.

5 Mr. Johnston. Well, that's a correct statement of the 6 message, is that right?

7 [redacted] Yes, I'd have to go on the basis that we
8 recorded material accurately. Therefore, by the way this 9 message is written, by analysis I am having to conclude that 10 it was a source inside Cuba.

11 Mr. Johnston. Then I put to you the question in regard
12 to your previous testimony about tapping sources in Cuba, and 13 though you were getting messages out of Cuba, you recall
14 no action being taken through the WAVE station to tap sources
15 in Cuba.

16 [redacted] Now, with a message like this it is conceivable
17 you'd have to look back at the file, and where there are 18 additional questions, you know, like who are these people,
19 you try to clarify the referring that you are receiving, but 20 I can't clarify that off the top of my head. The only thing
21 I could suggest is to go back to the file.

22 Mr. Johnston. Let me show you also Director Cable 511
23 which WAVE got, dated 30 November 1961. WAVE got an 24 message at 16.

25 Do you have any recollection of either receiving that

1 or of receiving that information?

2 [redacted] I would have to say because of the indicator
3 on here, the communication system was very reliable, that
4 this message was received, because that's what it shows, but I
5 personally have no recollection of this message.

6 Mr. Johnston. Could WAVE have made a contribution to that 7 report?

8 [redacted] Well, again, I have to go back in the file.
9 It says the above is from a KNUSSER diplomat. I assume 10 that that was from a Mexican diplomat. Italian?

11 Then that would determine whether we could have made 12 a contribution. There was a time when we in WAVE had as 13 recruited agents [redacted]

14 that cryptonym doesn't ring any bells with me. Now you have 15 to go back and look it up, look in the file, and that would 16 tell you whether we were running the guy or not.

17 Mr. Johnston: Is that the only evaluation you could have 18 made?

19 [redacted] Yes, looking at this, I'd say that's the 20 only evaluation we could make, but there is one other
21 possibility. There is a Chinese diplomat. It might be that 22 some of the monitoring or communications that we had in the 23 exile groups being that we... it may have been some contribution
24 to take to us.

25 Mr. Johnston. How significant the flight?

Or what was the message, how was it sent, what was the text of the message.

Senator Schweiker. What was your relationship with a group called the Free Cuba Committee that I believe was organized through the Muller Company here in Washington?

[Redacted]

Could you give me some additional information. Was this Bethel, Paul Bethel, the Free Cuba Committee?

Senator Schweiker. Well, again I believe Mrs. Luce was involved with this Committee as well, and there were some others.

Who is Paul Bethel?

[Redacted]

Paul Bethel was an American who had been employed by a group called the Free Cuba Committee, and later came to Cuba and was very active in one of these Cuban --

Senator Schweiker. Well, I'm not sure. It might have been. I don't have all the names.

[Redacted]

Well, the Free Cuba Committee, as such, with someone to go with it, doesn't strike a response.

Senator Schweiker. Well, would you, as the spokesman, could you recall, would you have any association with that group?

[Redacted]

Yes, I have to say no, and the reason I have some of these other names, we were conducting certain types of work, and we were not involved in any way with that group.

Senator Schweiker. And there were all kinds of Cuban Committees.

[redacted] That's right, and therefore, unless there is a name that goes with it, I have trouble dredging it out.

Senator Schweiker. All right.

I meant, did your work involve any working relationship to the [redacted] in Washington?

Did you use them in any relationship at all?

[redacted] No, my knowledge [redacted]
[redacted]

Senator Schweiker. Okay, I'll let somebody else handle that.

Now about the Fair Play for Cuba Committee? What, under your program, what role or relationship forgetting Oswald did you have with them since they obviously had some foreign intelligence relationship?

[redacted] None. In other words, we felt that that was an organization that really of interest to the FBI.

Senator Schweiker. However, you did have a counterintelligence section.

[redacted] Yes, we did have a counterintelligence section, but not directed against these kinds of groups, and counterintelligence work was primarily conducted at the foreign level of things, collecting the intelligence of Cuban agents on those boats and other forms, like the Pan

American flight coming into the United States, and the refugees coming to identify agents on that, identify agents who might be trying to penetrate our paramilitary teams or one of our collection of operations.

We also were looking at Cuban intelligence officers who were stationed overseas, in other words, could our debriefing of knowledgeable people result in our identifying, let's say, the OGI guy in Mexico City or in Madrid? We could then mount an operation on the basis of that to recruit him, to maintain him in place as a source within the Cuban intelligence service. So it was that kind of counterintelligence approach.

You know, on the head of the Cuban service, BARBAREJA at the time, you know, people would come out and say I know him, we would look at that and see whether we could use it.

Senator Schwicker. I have just a few small ones, and then I'd like to ask you for some advice off the record, would you just give us some guidance.

On the record here, how about an organization called CUSA, Conservatives, U.S.A. I believe they were an anti-Castro group, and they did own some assets in paramilitary units.

[redacted] had something to do with it.

Senator Schwicker. Of one of the wings or part of the units was called the CUSA.

Does that ring any bell at all?

[redacted] I don't know that they were, you know, well,

2 No, that doesn't ring any bells with me.

3 Senator Schweiker. Then there is a [redacted]

4 [redacted] He's a --

5 Senator Schweiker. Florida banker. He was involved in 6 paramilitary or some kind of operations.

7 [redacted] Well, there were two phrases. [redacted]

8 was involved in the Bay of Pigs operation, in cleaning up some 9 claims that the families of one or two of the pilots had who 10 crashed involved in the Bay of Pigs. And I would have known
11 that through the file.

12 [redacted] later was in touch with us at the time when 13 I was in the Miami station, and he provided, as I recall,
14 he had real estate interests, banks, and he helped us create 15 some cover companies through which we bought or leased such 16 things as dock space at marinas for boats and items like that.

17 Senator Schweiker. Okay.

18 Do you have anything else on the record?

19 Sr. Schweser. Just one more thing.

20 How major a role did you have with [redacted] and 21 any personal contacts did you have with him?

22 [redacted] My recollection would be that I probably
23 only met him once or twice personally, but you know, you
24 had to understand this, at that time, our major cover in 25 Miami was a commercial company. I was a vice president of

At that point we had one of the larger covert payrolls in South Miami, and I was a member of a number of clubs, and people like Helowell I would meet at cocktail parties or dinners, you know, or the yacht club that I belonged to or whatever, but officially, in terms of business sense, I only recall talking with [redacted] twice, I think.

Senator Schweiker. Would he look anything like that picture?

(The Witness looks at the sketch.)

[redacted] No. At that time he would have been much heavier.

Mr. Johnston. Did you ever discuss the Kennedy assassination with him?

[redacted] No, I wouldn't have. I wouldn't have talked about that. My recollection of the kind of things that I would have talked about with [redacted] would have been the formation of some cover company, the purchase of a boat, the rental of temporary lease of you know large pieces of acreage for training areas and things like that. That's about what I recall of [redacted] relationship with him at the time.

Mr. Johnston. I guess I just have a little bit of trouble, and that is with your recollection of conversation with him, but you don't recall whether you talked

8 And he's a name that sticks out.

9 Mr. Johnston. I thought that Mr. Helms and Mr. McCone
10 would also make an impression.

11 [redacted] Well, McCone, yes, you know, I went to three 12 meetings with McCone in Washington and other places, and I don't 13 I don't recall this to stand alone, but a visit of the Director
14 to a place you recall, but you don't necessarily recall the 15 exact magnitude of it. I've had lots of visits at stations
16 that I've been in from Hanoi, I've been involved in 17 Presidential visits and Vice Presidential visits, and you know
18 I can't tell you when the President came to Vietnam or something 19 and you tell me we had the trip down in [redacted] date, and 20 I can't remember it.

21 Mr. Johnston. I guess I wasn't asking you to pin
22 down the exact date of a meeting with Mr. Helms or Mr. McCone

24 the relationship between the assassination of President
25 Kennedy and the covert operations against Cuba.

Senator Schwabker. All right, that's all we have. We appreciate your cooperation and your testimony. I do want to ask for some guidance off the record.
