INTERIM WORKING DRAFT

OPERATIONS TO SPLIT THE CASTRO REGIME

Review of this file leaves no doubt that CIA was being pressured by Higher Authority, as far back as early 1962, or earlier, to come up with an operational plan for actions against Cuba with the eventual aim of overthrowing the Castro regime. The following three documents of particular significance were surfaced. A Study of the Loci of Power, March - June 1962, and two policy papers:

1. A Study of the Loci of Power, March - June 1962, cites on page 5 the direction in which Task Force W (TFW) was moving in efforts to split the regime. CIA had already recruited or attempted to recruit certain individuals including the following:

a. Ambassador Gustavo ARCOS y Bergnes (201-205568).

A sustained effort by TFW to recruit him in Brussels was unsuccessful. Despite failure, ARCOS remained in close and friendly contact with TFW sources.

b. Major Rolando CUBELA Secades (201-252234), ex-President of the Federation of University Students, and an M.D. A Mexico City Station dispatch (HMMA-19325 - Att.) dated 10 July 1962, cites 11 defections and "recruitments" of Cuban officials in which Mexico City Station had been involved since about January 1960, and indicated that none of the agents was ideal from the standpoint of control. An unsuccessful "approach" was made to CUBELA.

no recruitment attempt 1962

COMMENT: CUBELA might have reported the initial approach in Mexico City to the GOC and consideration could have been given to running him back against CIA as a provocation agent. Several incidents tend to illustrate this view:

(1) CUBELA reportedly had let it be known for some time that he wanted to defect. Word of such inclination could have gotten back to the GOC. If it did, it is unlikely that the GOC would have let him continue to travel outside of Cuba under those circumstances.

(2) CUBELA reportedly had all the tools necessary to carry out an assassination of CASTRO, and probably some opportunities, had he really wanted to do so. Perhaps he was sent by the GOC to confirm whether the U.S.G./CIA would support executive action - or to confirm information possibly passed to the GOC/Soviets by Tad SZULC. (See biographic sketch of SZULC attached to AMTRUNK Operation report.) CUBELA also wanted to meet with a high-level policy making official.

(3) CUBELA, following arrest, was given a relatively light sentence, considering the seriousness of the charge. Upon incarceration he reportedly functioned as a prison physician, and drove around in a jeep unescorted. Such treatment by GOC is quite unusual and, if true, is an indication that he was trusted.

c. Juana de la Caridad CASTRO Ruz (201-218126), younger sister of Fidel and Raul, was recruited, trained, and returned to Cuba. She came back out in 1963 and functioned as a JMWAVE Station propaganda asset which included broadcasting into Cuba.

d. Wife of Major Raul Jaime DIAZ-ARGUELLES Garcia (201-269882), reported to CIA from Havana through Virginia Maria LETTAO de Cunha (AMSTRUT-1) (201-316646), the wife of the Brazilian Ambassador to Russia, who travelled to Cuba for TFW from Rio de Janeiro, where she lived. Raul DIAZ, a known terrorist, held an influential position in the Cuban Department of Technical Investigation of the Department of Information of the Rebel Army (DIER). He reportedly worked with former U.S. gangsters who were deported from the U.S.; was affiliated with the narcotics racket; and was believed to have been in complete charge of any activity contemplated by two Cubans, Aldo Pedro MARGOLLES y Duenas and Emilio ARAGONES y Navarro. MARGOLLES and ARAGONES were involved in a 1961 plot to enter the U.S., meet with Cuban agents, and assassinate President Kennedy. DIAZ allegedly was responsible for assassinations during the Batista regime, and was trained in the use of explosive bombs and automatic weapons. He is believed to have directed assassinations in the past from somewhere in Mexico. DIAZ was killed in Angola in December 1975 when a land mine exploded beneath his jeep. DIAZ was reported to be a good friend of Rolando CUBELA.

e. Raul ROA Garcia (201-170466). An effort to contact and recruit him in October 1962 failed; however, the brother of Mrs. Raul ROA, who resided in Miami, was recruited by and worked for TFW. At that time Raul ROA was Minister of Foreign Affairs.

f. President Osvaldo DORTICOS Torrado (201-260268). An October 1962 approach to him in New York failed. He became so irked that the agent who pitched him was forcibly removed from DORTICOS' hotel.

g. Jose LLANUSA Gobel, at that time Director of Sports in Cuba and one time "Mayor" of Havana; recruitment attempt failed.

h. Major Jose Ricardo RABEL Nunez (AMLEO-3) (201-249386) then Chief of Rural Housing in Cuba. He refused to work in place but was willing to defect. Defected to the U.S. in an INRA plane in December 1962, and was recruited by JMWAVE Station. He returned to Cuba on his own in 1965, reportedly to attempt the exfiltration of his family. He allegedly was arrested upon return to Cuba, imprisoned, and set free in 1967. His file reflects that he might have cooperated with the G-2, at least after his return to Cuba.

COMMENT: RABEL was interviewed by JMWAVE Station in February 1963 in relation to the AMTRUNK on-island target personalities. He could have been forced to reveal all he knew to the GOC when he was arrested, or he could have been a provocation.

One, some, or all of the foregoing individuals could have reported to the GOC, Agency attempts to recruit them. Further research is necessary, and indeed recommended, to determine whether those who did agree to cooperate were run back against us. Knowledge by the GOC of such recruitment attempts against some of their highest level officials, together with GOC knowledge of other CIA activities targetted against Cuba, might have prompted CASTRO to consider taking retaliatory action. The retaliation concept increases considering the possibility that Tad SZULC might have been reporting White House policy to CASTRO, and the GOC and/or the Soviets all along.

Of interest is the fact that on the heels of the aforementioned recruitment attempts, (between 1960 and 1962, to split the CASTRO regime), came a request to CIA from the State Department, in early 1963, for an operation to do just that. Proposal for the operation was made to Mr. Hurwitch by Tad SZULC. It appears that pressure was exerted on CIA to support the activity and it became the AMTRUNK Operation. (See the separate memorandum on the AMTRUNK Operation.) In view of SZULC's involvement, this could have been a political action operation (by the Soviets/Cubans) against the U.S.G./CIA.

2. A Secret-Sensitive draft memorandum from William Harvey to the DCI, dated 27 November 1962, which outlined on-going operations and suggested proposals for continuing activities. Page 12 made clear that an intensive program would be continued to take advantage of any possible opportunity to weaken, subvert, or split the regime in any possible fashion, which was recognized as a long term effort. Page 16, para V. B, recommended that the plan be discussed with the Special Group (Augmented) for concurrence.

3. A memorandum to the DCI from Desmond Fitzgerald, undated, attached to a buckslip dated March 1963, which outlined a program to exacerbate and stimulate disaffection in the Cuban Armed Forces. The DCI had requested that TFW submit a plan to split the military establishment from the CASTRO/Communist regime with a view to replacing the existing regime with one acceptable to the U.S. The CIA proposal was to identify and seek out disaffected officers and attempt to convince them that their future lay in disposing of CASTRO and establishing a new government which could be returned to the OAS. (This appears to be the AMTRUNK Operation. See separate memorandum.) Pages 9 and 10 cite a statement made by President Kennedy in his speech at the Orange Bowl in Miami, Florida on 29 December 1962 [to the approximately 1,150 Bay of Pigs prisoner returnees. Kennedy's statement reportedly had a favorable impact on the Cuban populace which might have bothered CASTRO.] Fitzgerald stated that CIA would also explore leads to dissident elements in Cuba from journalists such as Tad SZULC of the New York Times, et al.

Fitzgerald assured the DCI that the highest priority had been assigned to the above program within SAS.

COMMENT: See the AMTRUNK Operation paper and attached biographic sketch on Tad SZULC, a possible foreign agent. SZULC claimed to have had direct access to President Kennedy, Attorney General Kennedy, and McGeorge Bundy on a continuing basis concerning Cuban matters since early 1961. If true, that would have placed him in a position to be used as a possible channel by which policy information on CIA operations and activities conceivably could have gotten to the Cuban Government or to the Soviets.
