LEE HARVEY OSWALD

In connection with the book entitled "The Sinners" written by Wolodymyr Nemyliwskyj, a copy of which was forwarded to the FBI in an envelope bearing the return address Wolodymyr Nemyliwskyj, 71 Elm Grove Ave., Toronto 3, Ontario, Canada, a confidential source abroad advised that WOLODYMYR NEMYLIWSKYJ, 71 Elm Grove Avenue, Toronto, has come to its attention on numerous occasions in the past. The source said NEMYLIWSKYJ, who is also known as NEMYLIWSKY, has been the author of several letters to the source during the period between 1956 and 1964, and described NEMYLIWSKYJ as a self-styled detective and undercover investigator. The source advised that on receipt of the first letter from this individual, he had been interviewed at his residence and had been found to be mentally disturbed and suffering from a persecution complex.](C)

The source cited several instances of material received from NEMYLIWSKYJ to substantiate the above information and said it was felt that any undertaking to have him interviewed concerning comments set forth in his book concerning LEE HARVEY OSWALD would prove fruitless and would only serve in provoking his mental disturbance further.

The source advised further that on March 23, 1964, NEMYLIWSKYJ appeared in police court in Toronto, Ontario, charged with unlawfully being in a dwelling house and impersonating a police officer. Charges were withdrawn on the charge of unlawfully being in a dwelling house; however, he was convicted and sentenced to 15 days on the charge of impersonating a police officer. (C)
