October 29, 1970

On September 1, 1970 N.C.N.A. representative PU Chao-min told a reliable source he had been contacted by Rita PHIPPS of New York who was then visiting Ottawa, Ontario, and, at her request, PU had agreed to meet PHIPPS at the N.C.N.A. premises the following morning at 10:00 a.m. PU also mentioned that he had a particularly busy schedule for the following day with appointments commencing at 7:30 a.m.

On September 2, 1970, prior to Rita PHIPPS' 10:00 a.m. appointment, PU was visited by a male individual named Mr. LIE (phonetic) who, although he spoke a few words in Chinese, conversed with PU almost entirely in English. LIE was evidently from the U.S.A. and although he didn't mention his address, he did say he was in the process of moving to Seattle where he hopes to return to graduate studies. He mentioned further that about five years ago he was working towards a Doctorate in Theoretical Physics and did a lot of research work for the National Science Foundation in America. He claimed to be the only scientist in his field to have obtained a grant from that institution.

LIE said that during those years he was essentially apolitical but had developed a dislike for China because of what he read in the bourgeois press. Then, when "they" started blaming the Vietnam war on Chinese aggression he started studying about China and formed a completely opposite opinion. This prompted a decision on his part to convey the results of his research in Theoretical Physics to China rather than to the capitalist U.S. Government, so he wrote a letter to Dr. NEEDHAM, a professor in England, requesting NEEDHAM's assistance in obtaining entry to China with his research material. (COMMENT: Dr. NEEDHAM is almost certainly identical to Dr. Joseph NEEDHAM, a prominent British Sinophile who heads the Society for Anglo-Chinese Understanding).

Our source advises that at this point in the LIE/PU meeting their discussion was interrupted by the scheduled 10:00 a.m. arrival of Rita PHIPPS. PU introduced Mrs. PHIPPS to N.C.N.A. Translator LO Yi-ching and LO's wife, and to Mr. LIE. Their subsequent conversation was dominated almost entirely by LIE with only occasional remarks from Rita PHIPPS, and almost no comment by any of the others present.

LIE related how he had once met David CROOK, a British subject who spent many years in China teaching at a foreign language institute. He said the meeting took place in the Chinese Embassy, London, England, when LIE was at the Embassy seeking an entry visa to China. The visa was not authorized because of the disruption in China resulting from the Cultural Revolution. Although LIE has not met CROOK since then, he has heard that CROOK returned to China where he was arrested. He said that he heard Anna Louise STRONG was also arrested during the Cultural Revolution as were many other foreigners.

LIE then asked those present whether they were acquainted with a revolutionary group in the San Francisco Bay area to which Rita PHIPPS remarked being familiar with the Bay Area Revolutionary Union; and its publication, "Red Paper". Within this context LIE mentioned knowing Susan WINE (or WONG) (or WARREN) (phonetic) in New York and also Marg RUSSEL, two Americans who are associated with China. Marg RUSSEL is about 77 years old and used to live in China but for the past ten years has been travelling across the U.S.A. "telling the truth about China" to universities, church groups, etc. She is editor of a paper called Far Eastern Reporter and, in LIE's opinion, is a very advanced communist.

According to LIE, Marg RUSSEL told him about this San Francisco Bay area group and invited him to go out to the West coast not realizing that he planned to go there anyway. "They" are forming a communist party on both the East and West coast, and Marg RUSSEL told LIE that people from China or people who visit China are assisting in the formation of this party so as to ensure it has a correct political orientation. Marg RUSSEL also told LIE this new party would be more advanced than the Black Panthers or the American Communist Workers movement.

LIE mentioned that he and his wife are also acquainted with Sterling NEWBERRY and his wife, NEWBERRY being another political activist in the U.S.A. He recalled that about four years ago the NEWBERRYS lost their jobs as teachers because of their political activities and although they were not then pro-Maoist, they did profess to be socialists. Later, they wrote to LIE from Cleveland saying they intended to go to New York, and that they now believed in Chairman MAO's thought.

LIE met them in New York and took them to "our" friend Susan WINE (or WONG) (or WARREN) (phonetic) to talk about the political situation in America. We also talked about Sterling NEWBERRY's newspaper, "The Workers Advocate", which has since been changed to "Mass Lines". LIE expressed the view that "Mass Lines" is not really a mass paper, the masses don't read it, and haven't even heard about it. It is too theoretical and doesn't try to understand the problems of the people whereas the Black Panther paper, although not as elevated in political content, is far more to the point and has a circulation of about 250,000 weekly as compared to about 1000 for "Mass Lines". LIE considers NEWBERRY to be sort of arrogant, and easily angered by any form of criticism; he also feels that NEWBERRY is prone to exaggeration about his own power and influence.

Conversation was interrupted at this point by the arrival of a Mrs. Dora TONG and Mr. TONG whom LIE introduced as his friends. At another point he referred to his friend TANG Ying-shen (phonetic), who may be identical to one of the TONGs. LIE remarked that he would have to leave soon to take his friends to the airport because they are flying to Toronto for a brief visit before going "back to work". It seems the TONGs had onward reservations from Toronto to Amherst (possibly Amherst, Massachusetts) and they had to be back in Amherst by the following evening.

Rita PHIPPS' husband arrived next with their two daughters, Anna and Jessica, and Rita introduced them to PU Chao-min and his wife, to Mr. TONG and his wife Dora TONG, to LIE and to Mr. and Mrs. LO Yi-ching.

The gathering broke up shortly afterwards with the TONGs departing by taxi to the airport, and LIE departed with the PHIPPS family. LIE mentioned that he had a Volkswagon bus and that "they" (presumably he and his family) would be travelling in it in their move across country to the West. Arrangements were made for LIE and the PHIPPS to meet PU Chao-min for dinner at a local restaurant later that same evening.

Before leaving, LIE provided PU Chao-min with a telephone number for Susan WINE (WONG) (WARREN) (phonetic) in New York at 212-CH2-0021. He described her as an ardent Maoist.

Another reliable source confirmed that on the evening of September 2, 1970 PU Chao-min and LO Yi-ching, and their wives, dined at a restaurant in Ottawa together with a caucasian couple and their four children. We presume this was the PHIPPS family referred to above but there was no indication that Mr. LIE accompanied them as planned.

Attempts locally to further identify Mr. LIE (phonetic) and Mr. and Mrs. TONG were non-productive.
