Reference is made to your communication dated June 7, 1974, your reference HEP:WSL:GS:DR:jec 123-66, captioned "Intelligence Request - Parole Check," requesting information on captioned individual.

Enclosed is a copy of FBI Identification Record Number 152 585 B for Norman Rothman, which record is identifiable with captioned individual.

The central files of this Bureau reveal that Norman Rothman, born December 26, 1914, New York City, was known as a booksaker in New York during the 1930's. After World War II Rothman allegedly gained interests in Mother Kelly's, one of the most notorious hang outs for hoodlums in the Miami Beach, Florida, area and in a cocktail lounge known as the Snake Pit, also a popular hang out of the hoodlum element in the Miami area.

In 1951 Rothman became manager and director of Sans Souci, night club and gambling casino in Havana, Cuba; however, it was reported that Rothman was a front man at the club for the Mannarino gang in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, which allegedly was the source of the money for this club.

In January, 1957, it was reported that Rothman was managing a new gambling casino at the Copacabana Night Club at Camaguey, Cuba, and that he allegedly placed slot machines in various bars and night clubs in the Camaguey Province. In October, 1958, it was reported that the Mannarino brothers had slot machines set up in Cuba and that they achieved this through Norman Rothman. (62-9-210)

In addition, our files reveal that Rothman furnished information of value to this Bureau in 1965. In 1966, Rothman allegedly was an associate of an organized crime syndicate out of Miami following his release from the Atlanta penitentiary in 1965 after serving time for a violation involving interstate transportation of stolen property.
