NO 91-2046:jas

Informant advised RUSSO hangs out at the Golden Slipper Tavern on St. Claude and is believed to live either nearby or possibly in the French Quarter. RUSSO is living with a New Orleans prostitute, name unknown, possibly JEAN, white female, about 25, with black hair.

Informant advised this woman contacted NOFIO PECORARO, Operator of the Tropical Court on Gentilly Highway, New Orleans, and told PECORARO that RUSSO pulled this job, that he had the loot hidden and never carries over four or five hundred dollars with him at a time. This woman is helping PECORARO try to steal the loot from RUSSO, and PECORARO has hired ABE COCHRAN (PH), a New Orleans pimp and strong-arm man, to try to find the loot and heist the loot from RUSSO.

Informant advised he has learned from other contacts in New Orleans that RUSSO pulled this job and states ABE COCHRAN told him personally on the night of 9/4/63 that he had been unsuccessful in finding the loot but is certain that RUSSO has it. Informant advised that COCHRAN, whom he believes to have a record with the NOPD, will probably talk if put under pressure, but requested that COCHRAN not be interviewed until RUSSO is either interviewed or picked up in order to avoid compromising informant. Informant returning to New Orleans 9/6/63, and states will make effort to ascertain exact address of RUSSO there.

On September 12, 1963, NO 1017-C telephonically contacted SA WILLIAM F. DUKES from New Orleans and advised that from information he has continued to develop he is more convinced than ever that NICK RUSSO (PH) robbed captioned bank. Informant stated he learned from ABE COCHRAN (PH), whom NOFIO PECORARO hired to try and heist the loot from RUSSO, that RUSSO and his girl friend had a fight recently due to the fact that she was trying to elicit from RUSSO the whereabouts of the loot. According to COCHRAN, the girl, whose name informant still knows only as JEAN, apparently obtained about $1,400 of the loot from RUSSO, which she turned over to COCHRAN.

Informant advised he had still been unable to ascertain
