On 6/16/59 Jose Paula, owner of Paula's Restaurant, 435 NE 1st Ave., Miami, Florida, advised that he was active in the July 26 revolutionary movement of Fidel Castro. He stated that in April 1958 William A. Morgan, a doorman at the Bowery Night Club, 1747 North Miami Ave., requested Paula's aid to facilitate his enlistment in Fidel Castro's army. Paul advised Morgan to go to Cuba and contact someone in the underground movement. Thereafter, Morgan went to Cuba, participated in the Cuban revolution and later emerged as one of the commanders of the Second Front in the Escambray Mountains. Paula stated that he had not seen Morgan since the spring of 1958 but two months ago Morgan had stopped at his restaurant to say hello. Paula stated he was not in at the time and could furnish no information concerning Morgan's visit to Miami. He said many Cuban exiles and revolutionaries frequented his restaurant but he had no information concerning any possible contact between the CP, USA and the CP of Cuba. He stated he could furnish no information concerning Paul Joseph Hughes. (105-72805).

On 10/15/59 Dr. Francisco Rodriguez Couceiro, a Cuban exile in Miami, and opposed to the Castro Government, furnished information concerning his part in May, 1959, in the plan to seize the Isle of Pines, Cuba. He stated that he had conferred with Generalissimo Trujillo and General Jose E. Pedraza of the Dominican Republic regarding arms to defend the Isle of Pines once it was taken but they turned him down stating that they had other plans. Rodriguez believed they told Major William A. Morgan of this plan because Morgan was dealing with them at that time. Rodriguez said that following his visit with Trujillo and Pedraza the entire military personnel was changed on the Isle of Pines which made his plan impossible.

On 4/7/60 Fredesvindo Bosque Cueto (105-79112) furnished information that about the middle of 1959 he attended a meeting at the DuPont Plaza Hotel, Miami between William Alexander Morgan, Dominick Bartone and Dominican Consul General Augusto Ferrando. Morgan wanted a sum of money turned over to him as an expression of good faith on the part of the Dominican Republic. Bartone stated that it was believed at that time that Morgan was planning to carry out a counter revolution against Fidel Castro. Bosque stated that Ferrando gave him $50,000.00 which he delivered to Morgan. (S)(U)

At another meeting (no date) between the same individuals Bosque had a disagreement with Morgan. Bosque reached the conclusion that Morgan was lying and was not going to carry out his revolutionary plan. He stated he had not seen him since. Bosque said money was subsequently delivered to Morgan which he believed had been brought from the Dominican Republic by Manuel Perez Sasa, an inspector of Dominican Consulates. Bosque admitted that at the two meetings he had been acting on behalf of General Jose Pedraza, leader of a group of anti-Castro Cubans in the Dominican Republic. (S)(U)

On 7/29/59 Comandante William Morgan, honorary major in the Cuban Revolutionary Army advised that he was acquainted with Richard Meredith Sanderlin (105-73703) and had recently seen him in Havana where Sanderlin resided. Morgan stated that Sanderlin was still in the Cuban Revolutionary Army but he did not know whether he had a specific assignment. He stated he was possibly instructing in some matter due to the bad condition of his arm which was wounded with gunshot during the revolution. Morgan stated that Cuban doctors wanted to amputate the arm but on specific instructions from Fidel Castro were still trying to save it.

Mariano Faget, former Chief of Bureau for Repression of Communist Activities in Cuba (protect identity) advised that William Alexander Morgan had been in Miami the latter part of July 1959 and had been in contact with Augusto Maria Ferrando. (109-64) Ferrando had taken Morgan to the Dominican Republic (no date) because Morgan had agreed to cooperate with the Dominican Republic in an attack on Cuba against Batista. It was alleged that Ferrando gave Morgan $152,000 cash to aid the Dominicans in the invasion of Cuba. $100,000 of this money had been delivered in cash in a paper bag on 7/29/59. Inft. advised that Morgan had duped the Dominican Republic into believing he was aiding them in their attempt to defeat Castro, while actually he was an agent for Castro. Policarpo Soler, a Cuban, was also involved in the plot to have Morgan assist the Dominican Republic Government. He had reportedly been killed by Generalissimo Trujillo. Inft. felt that Ferrando was in fear of his life although he claimed he had no responsibility in the Morgan matter. (X)(U)

On 11/23/59 Mariano Faget (protect identity) advised that he had not witnessed delivery of money on 7/29/59 to William Alexander Morgan. He stated that he had received information from Robert Ortega, former officer in the Bureau for Repression of Communist Activities in Cuba, that Augusto Maria Ferrando had sent money to Morgan in common paper bags. (X)(U)

On 12/3/59 Robert Ortega, 3031 Northeast, Flagler Terrace, Miami, advised that the only thing he knew about any of Morgan's activities was that a friend had told him that Morgan had bought $60,000.00 worth of arms in Tampa, Fla. and had taken the arms to Cuba.

PSI Richard B. Jaffe (protect identity) advised that according to Rolando Masferrer, Dominick Bartone, Aero Dynamics Corp., had deposited $180,000.00 in a Miami Bank and that Bartone was the contact man between the Dominican Republic and William Alexander Morgan. Inft. stated that Morgan had contacted certain leaders of the anti-Fidel Castro revolutionary movement and representatives of the Dominican Republic, to form a force to invade Cuba, and he, Morgan, would aid them on their arrival in Cuba with members of the Cuban revolutionary army under his command. Inft. explained that on about 8/10/59, when the Dominican Republic sent three plane loads of guns to Cuba prior to the proposed invasion, Morgan deceived the Dominican Republic and captured and killed occupants of the planes. According to Inft., one Nelson (FNU) was involved with Bartone in the political intrigue between Cuba and the Dominican Republic. (S)(u)

General Manuel Benitez, 20 Palermo, Coral Gables, Fla. (protect identity) advised that Francis John Nelson (105-82088) served as a contact man between William Alexander Morgan and Augusto Ferrando, Dominican Consul General in Miami. Nelson made two trips to the Dominican Republic where he arranged to supply Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo one million dollars worth of arms made in Belgium, however he was unable to deliver the arms. On 11/3/59 AT-1372-S* furnished information concerning a meeting between Marcos Jose Diaz Lanz and Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo (105-82298) in Atlanta, Ga. on 10/30/59. Menoyo suggested to Diaz that he align himself with forces in the Dominican Republic to overthrow Castro and to attempt to kidnap Esteban Ventura, former Lt. Colonel in Cuban National Police. Inft. stated that Diaz did not trust Menoyo because of his association with William Alexander Morgan. Menoyo told Diaz that he was arranging for the escape from jail of individuals arrested in Cuba, who were exposed in their counter revolutionary attempts by Morgan during the first part of Aug., 1959. On 11/24/59 Eddy Farfante (105-80803) advised that in Aug. 1959 while on a vacation he was arrested by Cuban authorities on suspicion that he was involved in the plot against Castro. He was put in prison at Camp Libertad, near Havana, Cuba. While there, Paul Hughes, one of the prisoners, told him that he had been in Cuba flying for Castro and had been arrested for refusing to carry out an order given him by the Castro people. While there, William Alexander Morgan came to see Hughes. He talked briefly to Farfante but apparently did not believe Farfante's account of how he happened to be in Cuba and in prison. Farfante stated that Morgan spoke Spanish fluently. Farfante said he later read an account of the alleged plot against Castro wherein Morgan had pretended to go along with the plotters and thereafter brought about their arrest. This had involved a plane which landed at Trinidad near Cienfuegos.

(X)(u)

On 9/11/59 Justo Luis Pozo advised in connection with the revolution that he had understood that Morgan who was believed to be spearheading a counter revolutionary movement in Cuba had a radio in Trinidad, Cuba and had sent a message to the Dominican Republic saying that tanks were believed to be in Santos Spiritos, and that group of bazooka experts were needed to combat them. Consequently Pozo and approximately thirteen others arrived in Trinidad from the Dominican Republic where they were captured. They then learned that Morgan was actually aligned with Fidel Castro and not opposed to him as previously believed.

American Embassy, Havana, Joint Week No. 36 report dated 9/9/59, set out counterrevolutionary activities in Cuba. The report stated that on Sept. 2 the home of Major William Morgan had been fired on by two unknown assailants who had the word "MOAC" written on their car as well as the name of ex-senator Rolando Masferrer. The guard at the house had forced the attackers to abandon the car.

It was noted that the attack was no doubt related to threats of revenge against Morgan for his betrayal of the leading conspirators of the abortive coup d'etat several weeks before.

On 9/28/59 Camilo Padreda Vasquez who claimed to have been a member of BRAC in Havana (protect identity) furnished information to the Legat at Madrid, Spain. He stated that the Movimiento De Recuperacion Democratica (MRD) (105-81376) had received a set-back in August since William Morgan (William Alexander Morgan), who allegedly had been working with the movement, proved to be a double agent working for Fidel Castro. Padreda was of the opinion that Morgan had been sincerely on the side of the Movement at the outset but was forced to assist Castro only after his activities had been discovered by the Castro Government. He based his belief on the fact that Morgan had been working with the Movement for six months, whereas, Fidel Castro at the time he publicly announced that Morgan was a double agent, stated that Morgan had been working for the Movement for two months. This led Padreda to believe that Morgan had been working with the Movement legitimately for four months before his activities were discovered and he was forced, through fear for his life, to cooperate with Castro. He stated that he believed that Morgan would be assassinated by the Castro Government in the not too distant future. (X)(u)

Y. Zaragosa told him that William Alexander Morgan, who thwarted the invasion of Cuba, was definitely under arrest and under guard at all times. He was living at the Capri Hotel in Havana. The reason for his arrest was due to the fact that the Cubans had learned that Morgan had failed to turn over all the money to the Cuban Government which he had received as his share in the plot to invade Cuba by the Dominican Republic in Aug. 1959.

On 5/31/60 WFO advised that Robert Ridgway Rodenberg, 2356 Massachusetts Ave. N.W. ^{Washington, D.C.} advised that he had heard Dominican officials express their feeling that they would welcome news of the death of Major William Morgan or would like to get their hands on him but he knew of no offer made to or by the Dominican Republic in that regard. Rodenberg stated that he had definitely never attempted to recruit anyone to assassinate Castro or Morgan.
