Reference Havana letters dated March 13 and March 24, 1959, and Havana cables dated March 18 and May 6, 1959.

Since receiving permission to resume their activity on February 19, 1959, the various gambling casinos in Havana in which Americans have interests have been experiencing numerous problems. Fundamentally, most of these problems have been traced to lack of customers in the casinos. The anti-American sentiment expressed publicly by some Cuban leaders, the searching of tourists as they enter Cuba, and the slow tourist season have, for all practical purposes, brought the tourist industry to a halt in Cuba. In addition, Cuban labor unions continue to make demands for back pay and increased pay for casino and cabaret employees. Many casino operators have attempted to renegotiate their rental contracts in an effort to reduce overhead expenses. Nonetheless, the Sans Souci night club has closed; the Comodoro casino is alternately open and closed; and the St. Johns, Plaza, and Sevilla Biltmore casinos have been unable to reopen because of financial problems.

Many of the top hoodlums associated with gambling have disappeared from the Cuban scene, at least temporarily. These are MEYER LANSKY, WILLIAM GUSTO BISCHOFF, CHARLES TOURINE, JOSEPH SILESI, and JOHN WILLIAMS. There is no definite indication that any of them will return. On May 6, 1959, JACK LANSKY, Miami Top Hoodlum, and DINO CELLINI, Manager of the Havana Riviera casino, were arrested by Cuban police. It appears possible they may be deported from Cuba.

PCI ARTHUR NEWMAN (CONCEAL), Credit Manager, gambling casino, Hotel Nacional, advised on May 7, 1959, that MEYER LANSKY had issued instructions that, if JACK LANSKY is deported to the United States, they are to lock the doors of the Havana Riviera Hotel and "throw the key away."

The March 14, 1959, edition of "Informacion", Spanish language newspaper in Havana, Cuba, carried an article reporting the arrest of MIKE McLANEY, operator of the gambling casino in the Hotel Nacional, and one XENIA THOMADAKIS. THOMADAKIS reportedly arrived in Havana with $37,000 in Cuban pesos and had indicated this money was destined for the Hotel Nacional casino.

KESSLER, Citizenship Protection Section, American Embassy, Havana, advised that on March 13, 1959, he had interviewed MIKE McLANEY while McLANEY was under arrest. On March 26, 1959, PCI NEWMAN, mentioned above, advised that MIKE McLANEY was trying to work out a "deal" with the owners of the Hotel Nacional in order that he might obtain a reduced rental and in order to induce the hotel to assume part of the cost of the shows.

On April 1, 1959, Hav-31 informed that the principal backers of MIKE McLANEY in the gambling casino of the Hotel Nacional casino are LOU CHESLER, an individual named (FNU) ROSENBLUM, and a prominent Italian hoodlum from New York whose identity is unknown. Cuba Cuba

On April 13, 1959, PCI NEWMAN informed that McLANEY had made a new "deal" with the Hotel Nacional management by which the hotel will bear a larger share of the expenses in connection with the cabaret and floor shows.
