Third Agency
This is to secure authority for CG 7116-E to travel to North Vietnam on NONS-sponsored tour at cost of $260, and to permit Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) to interview informant regarding targets of foreign intelligence interest prior to and following travel.

Third Agency
CG 7116-E, who has assisted Chicago Office since 1966 furnishing information related to extremists (authorized $175 per month for services and $50 per month for expenses), received invitation from NONS, a new Philadelphia antiwar organization, to participate in expense-paid tour of North Vietnam, departing New York 11/20/71. Group of 13 in tour scheduled to visit North Vietnamese delegation in Paris and Americans imprisoned in North Vietnam with objective of exchanging antiwar views and to support North Vietnamese position. Chicago has requested expenses for informant in amount of $260, which includes transportation ($110) and lodgings, meals, and incidentals ($150) prior to departure from U. S. We feel this travel is excellent opportunity to develop intelligence relating to North Vietnamese influence on domestic extremists.

Third Agency
CIA has outstanding request for our assistance in developing sources who can visit North Vietnamese delegation in Paris and North Vietnam and has specific interest in location of American prisoners in North Vietnam. We believe Agency should be allowed to interview informant before and after his travel regarding its foreign intelligence interests.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE AND TRAINING SESSIONS FOR PRISONERS OF WAR TO BE RELEASED, JANUARY-MARCH, 1972,
HANOI, NORTH VIETNAM

Between November 12, 1971, and November 28, 1971, a confidential source, who has provided reliable information in the past concerning solely domestic issues, reported that he had learned second hand, without direct knowledge or independent confirmation, that approximately five to twenty United States prisoners of war, possibly all Black, are to be released by the Government of North Vietnam in January, 1972, and that a two/month educational and training session is to be conducted for their benefit by individuals from the United States. To date, this Bureau has no independent confirmation of the information furnished by this source. The source informed that a group of 15 individuals, 11 student leaders from the East and West Coasts, and four American Friends Service Committee (AFSC) staff members, were to leave on an eight/day Thanksgiving tour of North Vietnam to visit United States prisoners of war. They were instructed by AFSC Executive Director in Philadelphia William Moyer and Tony Henry, Head of the Tenants' Union, to attempt to learn the identities of the prisoners to be released in January. Upon their return, if successful in learning their identities, they were to inform AFSC, and Stoney Cook, Executive Director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), Atlanta, Georgia, was to direct background investigation in preparation for the planned educational and training session.

Source learned that of the twenty - twenty five individuals who were to be instructors during these educational sessions, "some ministers" were included, and a high official of the Urban Coalition had resigned, or was going to resign, in order to make the trip. The instructing group was to be composed of both Blacks and Whites, and they were to be paid, to some extent, by AFSC.

T.H.
D.C.
The source learned that the overall purpose of the January-March educational sessions is to prepare released prisoners of war for re-entry into American life, and to prepare them to obtain employment and to be self-sufficient. The sessions are to be coordinated overall by Stoney Cook. Albert Sampson, SCLC and Tony Henry, Tenants' Union, are to brief the prisoners of war of the availability of housing and on the availability of Government loans for the purchase of homes and for the establishment of small businesses. Reverend Ralph Henry, SCLC, is to conduct classes for the purpose of informing the prisoners of war of Government programs available to them for their rehabilitation and adjustment to civilian life, of employment opportunities available to them, either directly or via Government programs and on the avoidance of public relief rolls. Tish Young, the wife of the Reverend Andy Young, SCLC, is to discuss family economics, viz. how to live on a budget and the image of the Black woman in the United States today. James Orange, SCLC, is to discuss inroads made by Blacks into the trade union movement in the United States.

(Stoney Cook is quite active in organizing student groups in the peace movement. Cook has been in touch with United States peace movement individuals and North Vietnamese "counterparts" since 1967, when he attended a peace conference in Czechoslovakia, attended by approximately 40 United States citizens and a North Vietnamese delegation. Source believes, though it has never been confirmed, that Cook, after Czechoslovakia, traveled with five other Americans, including Tom Hayden and Rennie Davis, to North Vietnam.

The source informed that ~~Stoney~~ Cook, along with three other individuals in SCLC, Albert Sampson, James Orange and James Bevels, are active in foreign liaison on behalf of SCLC with governments and organizations promoting what they view to be similar objectives.)

The above group began preparation meetings for the January-March sessions on November 22, 1971, in a store front building at 14th and U Streets, Washington, D.C., which has been used by SCLC for other activities in the past. The group, as noted, is predominantly SCLC personnel, however; AFSC personnel were present during the beginning of these preparation meetings. However, it was not indicated that these AFSC personnel would be going to Hanoi for the January-March sessions. The January-March sessions will be sponsored, or at least co-sponsored, by the AFSC.

The above group left Washington, D.C. on November 24, 1971, for the Thanksgiving holidays, but planned to return to their preparation sessions on November 29, 1971, to be held in the above building at 14th and U Streets. The preparation sessions are to continue for the next three weeks, with departure for Hanoi planned for December 29, 1971.

The above instructor group appears to be associated socially with Representative Flauntroy (phonetic), non-voting member of the United States House of Representatives for the District of Columbia.

Re Chicago teletypes dated 11/15/71 and 11/26/71.

This airtel provides a detailed account, furnished solely by CG 7116-E, concerning a Thanksgiving tour of student leaders from both coasts, to Hanoi to visit prisoners of war, and of a proposed January - March educational session to be conducted by individuals from the US for the benefit of prisoners of war supposedly to be released in January, 1972. Information regarding these two tours has not yet been developed via other avenues and investigation along these lines is currently underway.

CG 7116-E informed that a group under the sponsorship of the National Organization for a New Society (NONS), an affiliate of the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), which was to be led by WILLIAM MOYER, AFSC director, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, was to leave New York on 11/21/71, for Paris, France, where it was to visit the Paris Peace Conference delegation of North Vietnam, and was then to travel on to Hanoi, North Vietnam. The group was to be given a tour of North Vietnam conducted by a North Korean magazine. The purpose of the trip was to visit US prisoners of war over the Thanksgiving holiday, and to exchange political views between antiwar Americans and North Vietnamese citizens, and to learn the location of North Vietnamese embassies and personnel throughout the world so that support for the legitimacy of the North Vietnamese and the North Vietnamese position in the war could be rendered. The source observed that the tour, which was to extend over eight days, was obviously a propaganda tool for the North Vietnamese Government.

A bulletin of a Philadelphia Quaker action group dated 9/2/71, reported that MOYER recently had led a Conference on the New Society in Maine. During the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice national conference in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, 6/25 - 27/71. MOYER presented a paper entitled, "From Radical - Liberal to Social-Transformationist, New Demands for the Movement," and signed by "BILL MOYER, 6/23/71, the Marco Non-Violent Community, 545 East Sedgwick Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania." The source gained the impression that the NONS has a director in Philadelphia, and that there are directors in other US cities. Among others, MOYER and Mrs. MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., are on the Board of Directors.

The group, which was to leave on a tour of North Vietnam, was comprised of four AFSC staff members and 11 student leaders from both the east and west coasts. The group met for planning sessions during the weekends of 11/13 - 14/71, and 11/20 - 21/71. The planning sessions were led entirely by MOYER. Approximately 25 - 30 people attend the planning session on 11/13 - 14/71, of which only 15 were to travel to North Vietnam. The rest of the group appeared to be members of the NONS but merely observed the planning session and did not participate.

The source gained the impression that all individuals invited on the tour, upon their return, will work as paid staff members for AFSC or NONS. The following individuals comprised the tour group:

- (1) WILLIAM MOYER, AFSC Staff Director, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania;
- (2) ANDRE (LNU), white male, Staff Worker, AFSC, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, age 25 - 26;

Source observed that although the participants were opposed to the war they did not appear to be pacifists.

During the planning sessions MOYER remarked that all tour participants were required to obtain receipts for any expenditures made on the trip because AFSC was not paying for the entire trip, and justification of expenditures was necessary. MOYER did not, however, indicate who the financial backer for the trip was.

The group was to spend approximately three days visiting with the North Vietnamese Paris Peace delegation and then to fly to Hanoi for four - five days in North Vietnam.

MOYER informed the tour participants that they were chosen because of their past involvement in the peace and antiwar movements. The source observed that none of the tour participants appeared especially radical or militant, but were, for the most part, "enthusiastic, energetic youths from upper middleclass families."

The group was to take no supplies or medicines to US prisoners of war and in response to a tour participant's suggestion that the names of prisoners of war be taken so that correspondence with their families could be initiated upon the group's return, MOYER responded that such was not the purpose of the trip and was not suggested. MOYER urged that the tour participants not deviate from the above limited purpose of the tour.

The source noted that in association with MOYER the trip was also being arranged by TONY HENRY, the head of the Tenants Union, New York City.

MOYER's address in Philadelphia is 4719 Cedar Street, telephone 215-724-7398.

USP
The source stated that he was instructed by STONEY COOK to look up one (FNU) KWAI (phonetic), while he was in Hanoi. KWAI is supposedly a student leader in North Vietnam, and possibly met with COOK during a peace conference in Czechoslovakia in 1967, or in North Vietnam when COOK presumably was there following the Czechoslovakian conference.

During the week of 11/15 - 19/71, STONEY COOK informed the source, while both were in Chicago that between January - March, 1972, a series of workshops and conferences were to be held in Hanoi. COOK informed that 20 - 25 people from the US were to take part in these sessions, and he encouraged the source to participate also since it would equip him to further advance in the civil rights and peace movements. He was encouraged by COOK to attempt to remain in Hanoi when the above tour returned to the US so that he would be there when the workshop group arrived in January. COOK stated that it would be too expensive for AFSC to pay the source's transportation on both the Thanksgiving tour and on the later January tour, and airplane fare could be saved if the source were able to stay in Hanoi. AFSC personnel were also knowledgeable regarding this tour since one DEBBIE (LNU), AFSC Chicago Staff Worker, also mentioned it to the source and encouraged him to attempt to remain in Hanoi rather than return in order to save costs.

STONEY COOK said that "some ministers" would be attending the January sessions, and a high official of the Urban Coalition has resigned or was going to resign to make the trip. The January group was to be composed of both blacks and white, and they would be paid, to some extent, by AFSC. STONEY COOK was to be the coordinator of the group, and for this period of time would be on a leave of absence from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

(The source was invited to attend the Thanksgiving tour through his association with the AFSC in Chicago and STONEY COOK, Executive Director of the SCLC.) COOK is quite active in organizing student groups in the peace movement. COOK has been in touch with US peace movement individuals and North Vietnamese "counter parts" since 1967 when he attended a peace conference in Czechoslovakia attended by approximately 40 US citizens and a North Vietnamese delegation. It is believed, though not confirmed, that COOK then traveled with five other Americans including TOM HAYDEN and RENNIE DAVIS to North Vietnam.

The source informed that STONEY COOK, along with three other individuals in SCLC, are active in foreign liaison on behalf of SCLC with governments and organizations promoting what they view to be similar objectives. The other three SCLC individuals are ALBERT SAMPSON, JAMES ORANGE, and JAMES BEVELS).

On 11/19/71, the source traveled to Philadelphia to attend what he thought was a final pre-departure planning session for the Thanksgiving tour. On the evening of 11/19 TONY HENRY of the Tenants Union informed him that it would be impossible for the source to attend both the Thanksgiving tour and the January - March sessions, and he encouraged the source to choose to attend the January - March sessions since that trip would be longer in duration and would be of more value to him in the civil rights and peace movements. He was informed that the majority of the people that would participate in the January - March trip would be SCLC personnel, people whom the source knew, and he was told this trip would be more enjoyable also for that reason, since the source did not know anyone on the Thanksgiving tour. The source was unable to make both trips because of the costs involved and the transportation expense.

While in Philadelphia the group was informed that there would be one further pre-departure planning session to be held in Canada. The Thanksgiving tour group left Philadelphia on the morning of 11/21/71, en route to New York's Kennedy Airport, where they changed planes for a city in Canada, not remembered by the source. The flight to Canada was approximately one hour in duration and upon arrival they were met by a bus which transported the entire group, including TONY HENRY and the source who was not to go on the tour to a farm/estate apparently owned by Hunt's Foods Company. The farm appeared to be a retreat of some type since it was located in a rural area about 50 - 60 miles from the airport, on which was located a lodge, housing accommodations, and a separate dining hall.

The group was informed that they were possibly to learn the identities of several prisoners of war to be released by North Vietnam early next year. A group of predominantly SCLC personnel are to leave for Hanoi 12/29/71, to conduct educational and training classes for these released prisoners of war, the classes to extend from January - March, 1972. If the Thanksgiving tour group is successful in obtaining in advance the names of these prisoners of war, STONEY COOK will conduct background investigation on them in order to prepare for the educational sessions beginning in January.

The educational sessions will be financed, at least in part, also by AFSC. It is hoped that between five and 20 prisoners will be released, and SCLC personnel and TONY HENRY hope that the majority, if not all, will be black. WILLIAM MOYER did not accompany the Thanksgiving tour as originally planned; the tour was under the leadership of ANDRE (LNU), AFSC Staff Worker from Philadelphia, and three or four other AFSC Staff Workers.

In addition to the above listed names, the Thanksgiving tour group was requested to question prisoners of war, if they were able to interview them, as to what the prisoners of war expected of government assistance and government programs when they returned to the US.

On the morning of 11/22/71, TONY HENRY and the source left the Hunt's Foods retreat en route for Washington, D. C. The Thanksgiving tour group was to leave Canada en route to Paris that afternoon or evening. In Washington at 14th and U Streets, in a storefront building previously used by SCLC for other activities, a group of predominantly SCLC people met to begin preparation of the January - March educational sessions. They met from Monday through Wednesday, at which meetings AFSC personnel were present but it was not indicated that these AFSC personnel would be going to Hanoi on 12/29. The source learned that the January - March session would also be sponsored or at least cosponsored by AFSC.

The source was informed that the overall purpose of the January - March educational sessions were to prepare released prisoners of war for reentry into American life, and to prepare them to obtain employment and to be self-sufficient. The sessions were to be coordinated overall by STONEY COOK. ALBERT SAMPSON, SCLC, and TONY HENRY, Tenants Union, were to brief the prisoners of war on the availability of housing and on the availability of government loans for the purchase of homes and for the establishment of small businesses. Reverend RALPH HENRY, SCLC, was to conduct classes for the purpose of informing the prisoners of war of government programs available to them for their rehabilitation and adjustment, of employment opportunities available to them either directly or via government programs, and on the avoidance of going on public relief rolls. FISH YOUNG, the wife of the Reverend ANDY YOUNG, SCLC, is to discuss family economics, viz., how to live on a budget, and the image of the black woman in the US today. JAMES ORANGE, SCLC, is to discuss inroads made by Blacks into the trade union movement in the US.

The above group left Washington, D. C. on 11/24/71, for Thanksgiving holidays, to return to their preparation sessions on 11/29/71, to be held in the above building at 14th and U Streets. The preparation sessions are to continue for the next three weeks, with departure for Hanoi planned for 12/29/71.

During the above three days, the SCLC group associated socially with Representative FLAUNTROY (phonetic), non-voting member of the US House of Representatives for the District of Columbia VICTORIA FL

On 11/26/71, the source returned to Washington, D. C. to resume participation in the preparation sessions. He informed that Reverend ANDY YOUNG was attempting to secure a monthly stipend from SCLC for the source during the period he was engaged in these planning sessions, and while in Hanoi. It is noted that the source has not currently been a paid employee of SCLC, having terminated that remunerative relationship in order to work solely on Chicago based projects during the past few months. On 11/28/71, source telephoned from Washington, D. C. informing that he was ordered by SCLC to report to Atlanta immediately. Source has not been in contact with this office since that time. While the source has been an extremely valuable asset in the civil rights movement, and in providing information regarding black militant groups in the Chicago area, he is very much a non-political individual and as far as ideology, dogma, or even intelligent political discussion is concerned, the source is quite naive. This lack of political inclination and education is well known to the individuals with whom he associates in SCLC and AFSC, and a question may have arisen in their minds regarding the desirability of including him on either of the above tours.

It is also possible that if the source has been put back on the payroll of the SCLC, he has become involved in the current ABERNATHY-JACKSON power struggle.

The source is extremely security conscious, consequently, it will be necessary to await his initiation of contact with this office in order to develop full details of the latest developments.

Meanwhile Philadelphia and WFO are requested to conduct investigation to confirm/develop details concerning the above Thanksgiving tour and the proposed January - March educational sessions. If the January - March session is confirmed, and identities of participants further determined, it is requested attempts be made to insert other Bureau sources into this group in order to provide us with coverage, since the presence of CG 7116-E on the tour has become problematical.

WF 4060-E(PROB) in a report received by SA DENNIS L. BIRTCHIL on 12/7/71, stated that if there is an organization known as NONS, it is unknown to those persons in the WDC area who would normally have knowledge of these things. Further, those church people in WDC who normally have profound knowledge of SCLC matters are unaware of NONS, as well as people who are affiliated with various Society of Friends groups.

The source additionally stated that TONY HENRY had not been seen recently and was thought to be traveling around the country.

WF 4060-E(PROB) advised on 12/8/71, it had been determined from BOB COREY, director of the William Penn House, 515 East Capitol Street, WDC, and a long-standing Quaker activist, that COREY had no knowledge of a group called National Organization for a New Society. COREY had stated that if there was such a group, it was not associated with the Society of Friends.

NEW SOCIETY PACKET

The Movement for a New Society grows from the recognition that the war in Indochina has been but a single manifestation of a disease pervasive throughout global society. To bring about real and lasting change, concerned people must confront this disease wherever it exists, suggesting by the very means we use and the alternatives we create the beginnings of a new society.

CONTENTS:

The MNS is a network of autonomous groups committed to radical nonviolent social change. Together we are developing an analysis of the present system, a vision of a better world, and a sustained nonviolent struggle. Training is an important part of our movement. The values of the new society can become a part of our lives now as we build community and alternative institutions.

THE MOVEMENT FOR A NEW SOCIETY IS a network of collectives working to bring about fundamental nonviolent change. These small groups often arise from already existing friendships or ties of workplace or religion.

The groups use a variety of names, depending on the basis of their affinity. They seek to live the revolution now, experimenting with simplified and shared lifestyles, even while preparing for the emergence of a mass revolutionary movement.

The small size of the groups helps to maximize individual participation and encourages individual and group growth; their participation in the Movement for a New Society network unites them with a larger movement.

Currently groups and individuals are experimenting with the Movement for a New Society approach in California, Oregon, Washington, Wisconsin, Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan, Kansas, Maine, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, North Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. An exchange of ideas and resources with the nonviolent movement in Britain, Japan, Northern Ireland, the Netherlands, and New Zealand makes MNS people hopeful of the prospects of a transnational network.

Sisters and Brothers,

With the election year come and gone, and the Indochina war changing its shape, where are movement people?

Where else, but working, innovating, reflecting, trying to build a movement for real change?

For many of us that's meant getting closer to the grass roots. The Movement for a New Society is doing that. But there's no sense in getting isolated. For one thing, that's an invitation to repression.

(We lost our non-profit mailing privileges because of a complaint about our newsletter, Dandelion, advocating war tax resistance. Last week Keith Miller of the Philadelphia Life Center was sentenced to two years for refusing induction. These things add to our sense of the repression potential in this society.)

One way to prevent isolation is to exchange information on what we're doing. Enclosed is our newest effort to say what we're into.

Innovation is pretty important to us. That's partly why some of us laid down A Quaker Action Group -- however useful it was in the 1960's, its structure and style didn't seem innovative enough for the 1970's.

So here you'll read where we are in our journey toward a more relevant, more attractive, more human, and more radical approach to change. That journey is long. So we're also into self-criticism, conscious learning and changing of ourselves, serious confrontation with our sexism and our old cliches which sometimes substituted for analysis.

We'd be glad for reactions and criticism from you, our comrades in the struggle. There's a whole lot more wisdom in the movement collectively than in the individual organizations and activists.

Let's share -- and grow, and struggle, and celebrate!

Bert Lekey Ann Lekey George Lekey

struggle

ON A TOUR OF THE UNITED STATES, Danilo Dolci, the famous Sicilian grassroots organizer, was asked what he thinks of nonviolence. He replied, "I don't believe in nonviolence." He paused, and there was time for the audience to wonder if Dolci had abandoned the nonviolent approach after so many years of commitment to it. Then he said, "I believe in nonviolent action; I believe in nonviolent revolution."

Too often the call for "nonviolence" has been a call for peace at the cost of justice, an effort to suppress the conflict instead of waging it. If we acknowledge the gross injustice and the powerful vested interests in this country, we must also admit that conflict is necessary for fundamental change.

Struggle begins in a variety of ways. Conflict may result from building an alternative institution which becomes so threatening that an Establishment agency tries to harass or destroy it. Or it may come when you stop paying your war taxes or carrying a draft card. Your group may experience repression as it acts in solidarity with a local union strike or joins in a boycott action. Conflict nearly always comes when you carry out a deliberate nonviolent campaign for change.

CAMPAIGNING FOR CHANGE

The first step in building a campaign for change is to choose a goal which is consistent with your analysis of the "big picture" of social forces. There is little point in working on reformist goals which have no relation to a long-range strategy for fundamental change.

Second, educate! Focus on the groups most likely to respond, and the groups whose action can bring about the change. Street speaking and other dialogue methods can test your approach to see if it is sectarian or irrelevant.

Those who profess to favor freedom, and yet depreciate agitation, are men who want crops without thunder and lightning. They want the ocean without the awful roar of its waters. This struggle may be a moral one; or it may be a physical one; or it may be both moral and physical; but it must be a struggle. Power concedes nothing without a demand. It never did, and it never will. Find out just what people will submit to, and you have found out the exact amount of injustice and wrong which will be imposed upon them; and these will continue till they are resisted with either words or blows, or both.

- Frederick Douglass, 1857

Third, organize! Connect the forces on your side to each other; catalyze new relationships which go beyond the one-dimensional politicking of the Old Order. Launch a constructive program, preferably connected to the issues you are raising.

Fourth, negotiate! You need to meet the opponent face-to-face really to know where things are; role-play beforehand, of course. This step can really clarify the situation for all parties.

Fifth (if your goal has not been reached), confront! Reduce the problem and solution to picture form, so that no words are necessary in order to explain what the confrontation is about. (The 1960 sit-ins in the U.S. South were a good example of that.) The picture should show the gap between a widely-held value and the particular injustice. Take group action which paints the picture in vivid colors. The campaign should build to a crisis, in which the authorities are put in a dilemma; if they allow the demonstration to go on, fine because the action is dramatically pointing up the situation of injustice. If they repress the demonstration, all right, because their repression further reveals the violence on which the institution rests. If they accept the demand, you celebrate.

FACING REPRESSION

The government's own force can work against itself, as in jiu-jitsu, when it is met indirectly. Instead of pitting guns against repressive violence, meeting the opponents on their superior ground, the movement responds nonviolently. This often has two effects: it begins the process of demoralization of the police and troops, and it discredits the government in the eyes of the public.

Voluntary suffering is dynamic when we can stand it without fleeing. For most people that requires preparation. The repression we may experience in struggle is sharing in the suffering already experienced every day by millions of people, but doing it for change instead of suffering because one cannot get out of the way.

By changing our ideas about ourselves, by developing a strategy we have confidence in, and by training in direct action tactics, we can get ready for open struggle. By joining others in small affinity groups we develop the solidarity necessary to face repression. The MNS is a network of groups such as NRGs (Nonviolent Revolutionary Groups) which practice mutual aid at the "crunch" -- at the time when it is most needed.

Campaigns for specific change frequently fail to achieve all their aims. Campaigns, like alternative institutions, take part of their meaning from the larger strategic context. While Rosa Luxemburg may have been exaggerating when she said that revolutionists would lose every battle except the last, her point is still sound: when we have an overall strategy for fundamental change, we need not be discouraged when we do not reach all our campaign objectives.

Which is more important--national or local action?

Which is more important in a book--the paper or the ink? Obviously there will be no revolutionary nonviolent movement in this country without strong grassroots organization and national struggle. No city can be transformed unless the nation changes drastically. Our society cannot be changed neighborhood by neighborhood.

The false dilemma results from short-sighted strategy, which either projects a confrontation somewhere (e.g., Washington, DC) and then urges us to drop everything for that, or digs into a neighborhood somewhere and forgets about national impact.

Sound strategy links the levels in a multi-level movement. The strategy underlying the NRG's connects national struggle to grassroots organizing.

As an NRG nears the crunch on a significant issue, resources from the network of groups and communities can join the struggle to make it successful. Sometimes, the struggle can achieve national or even international proportions. As Martin Luther King Jr. found in Birmingham and Selma, a national struggle can grow out of local work, shaking the federal government from a thousand miles away.

MOVEMENT FOR A NEW SOCIETY

NEW THREATS TO HUMANITY are coming faster than old threats are resolved. War, racism, dictatorship, sexism, exploitation, and hunger are still with us. But now there is ecological breakdown.

Shall we try to escape, or to act? In the long run there is no escape. The problems will not go away. But the first reaction may be only a complaint, a protest, or a scream of anger and pain.

These spontaneous reactions are like the symptoms in a body's nervous system which reflect disease or injury. They alert the social body that something is wrong. They do not necessarily tell us what is wrong or what to do about it.

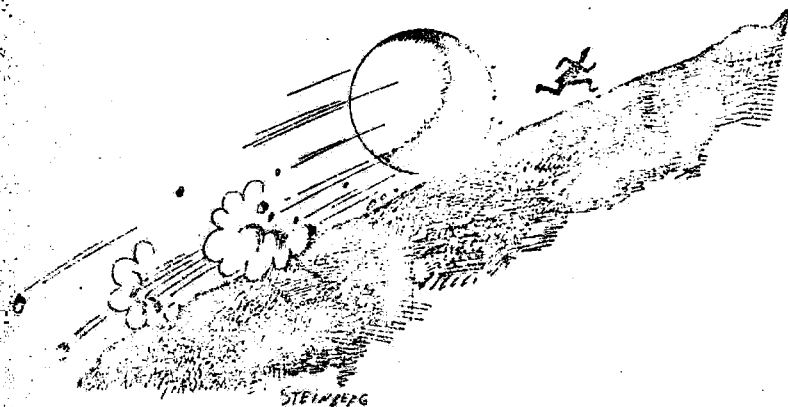

To discover what is wrong requires analysis. To discover what to do about it requires, first, vision, and second, strategies for change. From analysis, vision, and strategy will come actions which are more than cries of pain, actions which are steps in our liberation.

Analysis is a continuing process. Action based on analysis tests our understanding and puts new questions to us. Action and analysis should go together. If we insist on having a near-perfect analysis before we act, we are likely not to act at all; such is the liberal paralysis often found among academics.

In the summer of 1971 an Education and Action Seminar meeting in Philadelphia studied U.S. aid to dictatorships. The Seminar soon found itself leading a campaign against supply of arms for Pakistan's repression of the Bengalis. Stimulated by the group's blockade of the harbor by canoes and sailboats, the longshoremen refused to load materials for Pakistan.

In these Seminars (which were developed by the MNS' Macro-Analysis Collective), each participant shares the reading she or he does with the other participants. In this way each individual profits from a much larger amount of material than he or she could cover in individual study. The seminar stresses not only the major elements in the present world crisis, but alternative possibilities and strategies of change. Thus the groups get ready to develop campaigns out of a common analysis. (The manual, "On Organizing Macro-Analysis Seminars," is available for 75¢ from the MNS, 4722 Baltimore Avenue, Philadelphia 19143.)

We believe in participation in developing analysis, vision, and strategy. The Movement for a New Society has no party line, no leader who tells us what to think. On the other hand, the MNS is not a coalition which reflects the lowest common denominator of everyone who is concerned about change. A consensus has been emerging among MNS groups on at least the outlines of a common analysis.

OUR VIEW OF IT

At least six overarching forces shape this world with an impact felt even on the neighborhood level: the ecological crisis, corporate capitalism, militarism, statism, racism, and sexism.

Modern technology appeared, until recently, to be an unmixed blessing. After only a hundred years of rapid industrial development, however, we find that for the profit of a privileged minority the planet has been plundered of its precious resources and the ecosystem on which our very life depends is befouled with industrial pollutants. Economic growth is the altar before which much is sacrificed. High consumption is offered as the condition for happiness. The American middle class level of consumption is the goal for much of the world.

That goal cannot be reached. Non-renewable resources in metals and fuels are too limited to allow such a consumption level. Food production cannot be increased indefinitely. The ecosystem cannot tolerate the resulting levels of pollution. The population of the world is already too large and is growing at an alarming rate.

The major organizers of exploitation in the West are the corporations. Wealth and power are concentrated in relatively few hands, even in many societies which call themselves democratic. The huge multi-national corporations are already more powerful than all but a few nations, and are still growing. They are responsible to no public; profits for their owners are their first priority. These corporations, most of which are linked to the American super-rich, dominate and impoverish the Third World. Despite the immense wealth which flows into the U.S. from overseas, a ghetto dweller can tell us how little trickles down.

Support for such a system requires a huge military machine. It is not an accident that the United States is first in military might, and trains and equips most of the armies and police forces of the world. Militarism in the U.S. adds to corporate profits at home as well as preserving corporate access to markets and raw materials abroad. Military contracts, most of which are awarded without competitive bidding, provide lucrative profits for industry. Whole communities, large portions of certain industries, and a vast labor force have become dependent on the maintenance of the military apparatus.

Exploitation and militarism are not confined to capitalist countries, of course. Huge armies are massed at the border of China and the Soviet Union, presumably not under the orders of the bourgeoisie. Moscow has, in the name of the proletariat, ruled harshly over its own workers and those of Eastern Europe; more than one workers' revolt has been quelled by Russian tanks. The disease of statism -- whether the bureaucratic centralism of the Soviet Union or the fascism of Spain, turns upside down the principle that the state should serve the people.

" Racism and sexism deny us the benefits of equal life chances, deny us a common dignity, and foster conflict among peoples who should be allied against the power elites of military-industrial societies.

Racism in the United States is strengthened by unequal opportunities for education and training. Minorities are at a disadvantage in competing for jobs in a high unemployment economy; that, in turn, reinforces patterns of segregation in housing, churches, and schools.

Rigid sex role definitions trap both men and women. Women work hard and are supportive to children and men, at a high cost to themselves. Women are expected to defer to male initiative and to limit their horizons to home and child care. Men are expected to be competitive, stoical, eager to leave the nest each morning to earn the bread. Persons of either sex who do not fit easily into these definitions have hard going, and if they grow to love members of their own sex, the discrimination against them is compounded.

Corporate capitalism, militarism, statism, ecological crisis, racism, sexism -- these are some of the pervasive realities of present society. They invite the disintegration or sudden destruction of this society within a few decades. Whether a new society can emerge depends on our ability to envision new institutions and develop life-centered strategies for building them.

SOCIAL CHANGE MOVEMENTS OF THE LAST DECADE have often spelled out some specific goals for a better society: racial equality, peace in Vietnam, women's rights, clean air. But their vision has rarely broadened beyond a single issue.

In the short run, there are advantages to the single-issue approach. But a new society cannot be built that way. The problems are connected to a structure of power which strongly resists meaningful change. The goals are connected to each other in a way that reduces the chance of reaching them one at a time. Further, there is the force of nihilism -- of cultural emptiness -- which cannot be countered by tackling one institution at a time. The ideas for changing particular institutions need to come together in a vision which offers hope and life. Without a vision, the people perish because we need a vision to sustain us through the hard times of struggle.

You need men and women with years of experience—in farming, small business, teaching, city planning, recreation, medicine, and on and on—to start discussing and writing about ways to organize that part of society they know best. . . . You need to provide outlets via forums, discussions, papers and magazines for the pent-up plans and ideals of literally millions of well-trained, experienced, frustrated Americans who see stupidity and greed all around them but can't do a thing about it.

You need to say, for example, "Look, Mr. and Mrs. City Planning Expert, trapped in this deadly bureaucracy controlled by big businessmen, draw up a sensible plan for street development or park development in your town of 30,000 people." "Look, Mr. Blue Collar Worker, working for this big corporation, how should this particular plant be run in a sensible society?"

William Domhoff, "How to Commit a Revolution," speech given in 1968.

The Movement for a New Society stresses what sociologist Alvin Toffler calls "anticipatory democracy:" the people should participate in developing visions of a human world. In MNS study groups an important section is devoted to readings and discussion on alternatives to existing institutions. We have also developed "The vision gallery," an exercise which makes lively use of the imaginations of people who are concerned for change.

By these and other methods people can build on human values the pictures of society which can actually support our liberation. The pictures will not be static, for widespread discussion among people of many cultural backgrounds will criticize and enrich the sketchy outlines of today.

HOW WE SEE IT

There is among MNS people a growing consensus on some of this outline. We see a new society not as a rigid utopia free of conflict, but a place of life and joy and movement. It should value women and men, blacks and whites, adults and children, intellectuals and manual workers equally. A variety of life-centered cultures will exist rather than a homogeneous mass. Access to knowledge and art will be a right. Celebration and self-discipline will have new meaning in a milieu which serves human liberation.

Human beings must live in harmony with the earth. This probably means a zero growth rate in the near future for both industrial production and population, with the utmost use of recycled materials and non-polluting sources of energy. This will mean a decreased level of consumption for most Americans, who have been using far more than our share of world material and energy resources.

Economic enterprises should be socially owned, decentralized, and democratically controlled. Workers control is feasible when the enterprises are not enormous; participation by consumers in decision-making is also important in some productive units. The object of production will be social use rather than private profit. Alienation from labor will be minimized by sharing routine, repetitive work, by participating in decisions about the product, and by co-ownership of the enterprise.

The spread of incomes will be reduced, perhaps to a ratio of 4 to 1 for maximum-to-minimum incomes. In other words, there will be no rich as well as no poor. Basic needs for food, shelter, medical care, education, and mass transport will be met free or at low cost. Income must be earned; it cannot come from the labor of others.

Decisions would be made by participative, democratic means. Politics would be based on the face-to-face community of citizens, extending upward to the global level. Transnational institutions will deal with humankind-sized functions (such as the development of the sea-bed), but the emphasis will be on decentralizing all possible activities for the sake of democracy. Nation-states as we now know them will cease to exist.

There will be less cause for mass, organized violence when wealth is redistributed and racism rooted out of institutions. Conflicts will inevitably arise, however, and when they break into the open will be fought with nonviolent means of struggle such as noncooperation and bodily unarmed intervention.

THE QUALITY OF LIFE WILL INCREASE for nearly everyone, even while the sheer quantity of appliances and gadgets will decrease. The crime which is spawned by poverty and cultural emptiness will no longer haunt our streets. The consumer goods we do own will not wear out quickly. The air and water will be clean; stars again will be clear in the city skies. We will not be torn apart by war. The possibility of inflation and unemployment will not worry us. Assured health care will free us of much anxiety. Work will regain its meaning, and leisure will be more creative because of increased access to cultural goods and to each other.

training for nonviolent social change

LEARNING IS NOT NEUTRAL. It serves either to domesticate us, or to liberate us. Nonviolence training is a learning process. Its goal is to facilitate human liberation -- to bring about fundamental and empowering change.

Essential to this learning for change is the process of "consciousness-raising," which involves a radical change in the way we view ourselves as individuals in the present society, and as participants in the historical process. For reality is not a set of conditions which surrounds us and controls us, and to which we must resign ourselves, but reality is an ever-transforming process which we are creating. Until we recognize this power and this responsibility, we cannot bring about any fundamental change. But once we come to this realization and begin to live our new awareness, action to change the world becomes a necessity.

Nonviolence training can have a number of different emphases:

1. PREPARING FOR DIRECT ACTION PROJECTS. Historically, this is how training is best known. Participants in integration sit-ins organized by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) in the 1940s were required to attend evening workshops, including discussions of fears and feelings and roleplaying of anticipated experiences. In the 1960s "marshals" were trained in methods of nonviolent crowd control for large anti-war demonstrations in Washington, D.C. By 1972, the emphasis had switched to "participant training" -- preparing as many participants as possible to take responsibility.

Training for nonviolent direct action can now include choosing tactics, working out logistics, and preparing participants. Preparation can include roleplaying, brainstorming, guerrilla theatre, and other exercises.*

2. BUILDING A MORE SUSTAINED MOVEMENT. The People's Blockade of arms to Indochina began when a small group of individuals came together to translate their concern about the war into an envisioned action. Brainstorming and strategizing were especially helpful as they developed a campaign. Training for larger numbers of participants took place during the actual campaign, and helped it to grow nationally. Other groups have found scenario-writing important in developing long-range strategy.

3. EXPLORING ALTERNATIVES TO VIOLENCE IN OUR LIVES. Nonviolence training has played an important role in the development of neighborhood block safety programs in West Philadelphia, the highest drug crime rate area in the city. Through workshops, many residents found alternatives to calling on police and to responding to violence with violence. The new ways were not only morally more desirable, but also enabled them to feel more confident about neighborhood safety. The workshops also served an important community-building function.

*For a fuller description of these exercises, see

Olson and Shivers, and the Trainers Kit (bibliography).

It is important to be aware that "nonviolence" cannot assure a safe escape from a volatile situation (nor can violence!), but many positive nonviolent responses can present themselves if we insist on relating to others as human beings, in spite of our fear or anger.

4. RAISING OUT LEVEL OF AWARENESS ABOUT OURSELVES AND THE WAYS IN WHICH WE INTERACT. Observation and group dynamics exercises make us more aware of the dynamics operating in groups, and more sensitive to group task and maintenance needs. Role-playing can make us more aware of our own behavior tendencies. Listening exercises and trust games sensitize us. A careful evaluation and discussion bring out possibilities for change.

Alienation often results from rigid role expectations based on sex, race, or age. Training processes can be helpful in enabling us to identify these feelings of alienation, understand them better, and change them.

Nonviolence training has learned much from re-evaluation counseling, transactional analysis, and sensitivity training as reaffirmation of individual worth is incorporated into training workshops.

5. LEARNING ABOUT NONVIOLENT THEORY AND STRUGGLE. Past nonviolent struggles can inspire us to action, and suggest approaches to change. Use of nonviolent direct action case studies (of such actions as the Montgomery bus boycott or Gandhi's salt campaign) have been important ways of learning about nonviolent history in workshops and discussion groups. In Japan recently, training groups tried developing their own strategy given an historical situation, and then compared it to what actually happened. Training exercises help to introduce nonviolent theory in the context of a real conflict situation.

6. SHARING SPECIFIC SKILLS. This could include learning to facilitate training workshops themselves, as well as running a mimeograph machine, chairing a meeting, changing diapers, taking pictures, baking bread, and others. These tasks are a valuable part of building a movement and a new society. When knowledge and responsibility are shared, the likelihood of drudgery or "meaningless labor" are lessened greatly. In this sense, training is a democratizing process.

Training for nonviolent social change occurs through involvement in all aspects of the Movement for a New Society. Life Centers, which are now taking form in several places, offer not only participation in a series of workshops dealing with various aspects of social change, but also involvement in direct action, community, and alternative institutions. Training structures often become a regular part of sharing and decision-making processes. Shorter-term workshops are facilitated by several training collectives, with areas of concern and amount of time depending on the interests and needs of the group. Groups which have participated in nonviolent training have include university groups, anti-war groups, organizational staff, high school students, church groups, and even a group of volunteer nursing home visitors.

People who are working for radical social change often feel insecure in our present day world. Our values and priorities are being challenged and changed. Institutions are crumbling. The ecological crisis is closing in on us. Nuclear weapons are proliferating. Political repression is around the corner. It is all so overwhelming and confusing.

Activists need to come together to guard against despair -- to help each other to cry and to find the occasions for laughter. We need to stimulate each others' imaginations of what the future can be and of how we can get there. We need to simplify and organize our life together so there is time for confrontations that are needed if the old order is to fall.

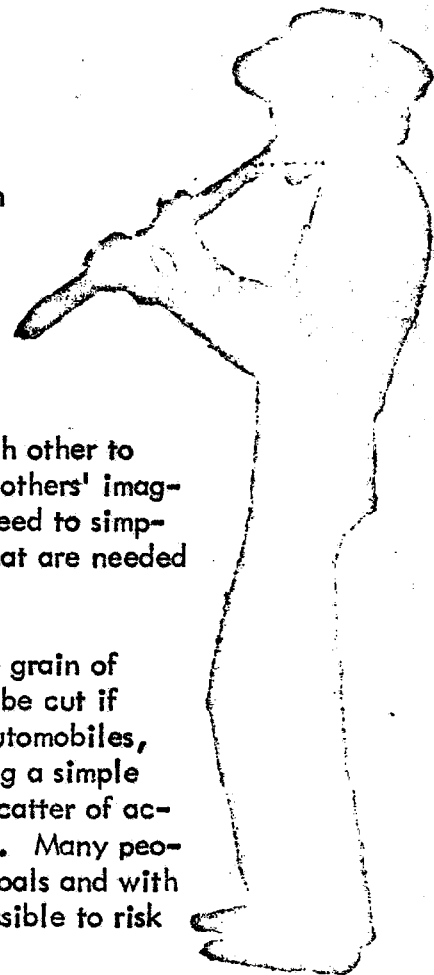

Learning to live contentedly without high consumption goes against the grain of our culture, but is possible in the context of community. Incomes can be cut if every family does not have to have its own laundry facilities, tools, automobiles, houses, etc. Concern for the ecosystem adds to the need for developing a simple yet adequate life style. Simplifying our lives also means pruning our scatter of activities to focus energy and to provide time to be present to each other. Many people are finding their present occupations incompatible with their life goals and with the way they like to live. As part of a community it becomes more possible to risk making radical changes in employment.

Several forms of community are developing within the Movement for a New Society network. In some groups individuals continue to live in separate houses as before, but interact with each other on many levels. They study together and try to form a common analysis and vision out of which will grow common action. At the same time individuals often share personal experience, problems and joys. They offer practical help to each other (food-buying, child care, transportation) and may even move into the same neighborhood.

Other people in the MNS are sharing homes together. A family finds another family, or they may prefer to share with people who have no children of their own. Single, young people may fill a house, or the commune may be composed of people of various ages. One house we know has ten people ranging from age 16 to 58, with one married couple, one couple that is not married, and six singles.

In some places clusters of communes and individuals form a wider community of people moving in the same direction. When such clustering is deliberate the community can have a rich variety of special interests, talents, temperaments and lifestyles -- and yet maintain a feeling of belonging and common cause.

It is not easy to build a community, of half a dozen people or of many times more. Most of us are reared to be individualistic and rather egocentric and have trouble coordinating our daily routines with those of other people. We are used to making decisions on our own and find it hard to remember to check important matters out with our community. Some of us find it difficult to be open about our financial situation or about the fact that we need help with personal as well as practical prob-

We struggle to find ways to express disagreements and annoyances in honest but helpful ways. For those who live communally there are the inevitable questions of housekeeping standards, child care, expenses, and time devoted to development of a close community as opposed to time devoted to the world "out there." And then, of course, there is the question of intimacy. As people learn to share on a deeply personal level, it is safe to assume that sexual feelings arise.

CONFLICT IS NATURAL

The first step toward solving problems in a community is to recognize that conflict is natural and inevitable. It may even be desirable in order for the community to grow in depth and commitment. However, most communities that we know find it necessary to establish procedures for dealing with problems as they come up. Regular meetings (e.g. weekly housemeetings in communes) are essential to prevent annoyances from growing into problems. Also, without common planning there will be misunderstandings and uneven sharing of work. Before community members feel comfortable enough with each other to express negative feelings, short periods set aside for "gripes" can be useful. In addition to providing a safe way to express conflict, communities find it useful to do things together that bring out their common joy and a sense of belonging.

We are excited about struggling to find the answers that are right for us at this time. Our vision of a new society is helpful as a framework for finding better ways of relating to each other now. Since our vision of the future includes egalitarian and decentralized decision-making structures, MNS communities do not develop around "gurus." Rather, conscious efforts are being made to encourage full and free participation by everyone. Training in nonviolent action and knowledge of group dynamics give us useful ways of dealing with problems of leadership, reticence, ambiguity of goals, etc. People with leadership qualities are a valuable asset to a community, but such ability should not carry any special privilege.

Since we are working toward a non-sexist society it is clearly impossible to divide the work of the community along traditional sex lines. We are not trying to reverse the roles of men and women or to erase leadership abilities or to suppress individual differences. We are, however, pressing for equal sharing between men and women of family maintenance tasks, of community participation and of breadwinning.

Communities often last only a short time, but then longevity is not necessarily a sign of success. A community will have succeeded if the participants leave each other as more integrated people than when they came together, more able to cry and laugh and struggle with others, and with more skills and inspiration to carry on the revolution.

alternative institutions

Nonviolent revolution is a meaningless concept as long as the present institutions have such a stranglehold on our lives. Protesting I. T. T.'s interference in the affairs of Chile while continuing to buy Wonderbread, calling for academic freedom while allowing the universities to be funded by big business and the Department of Defence, and talking about socialism while not struggling to take control over working conditions, are futile gestures.

The majority of us through working and consuming actively build the system as it exists today.

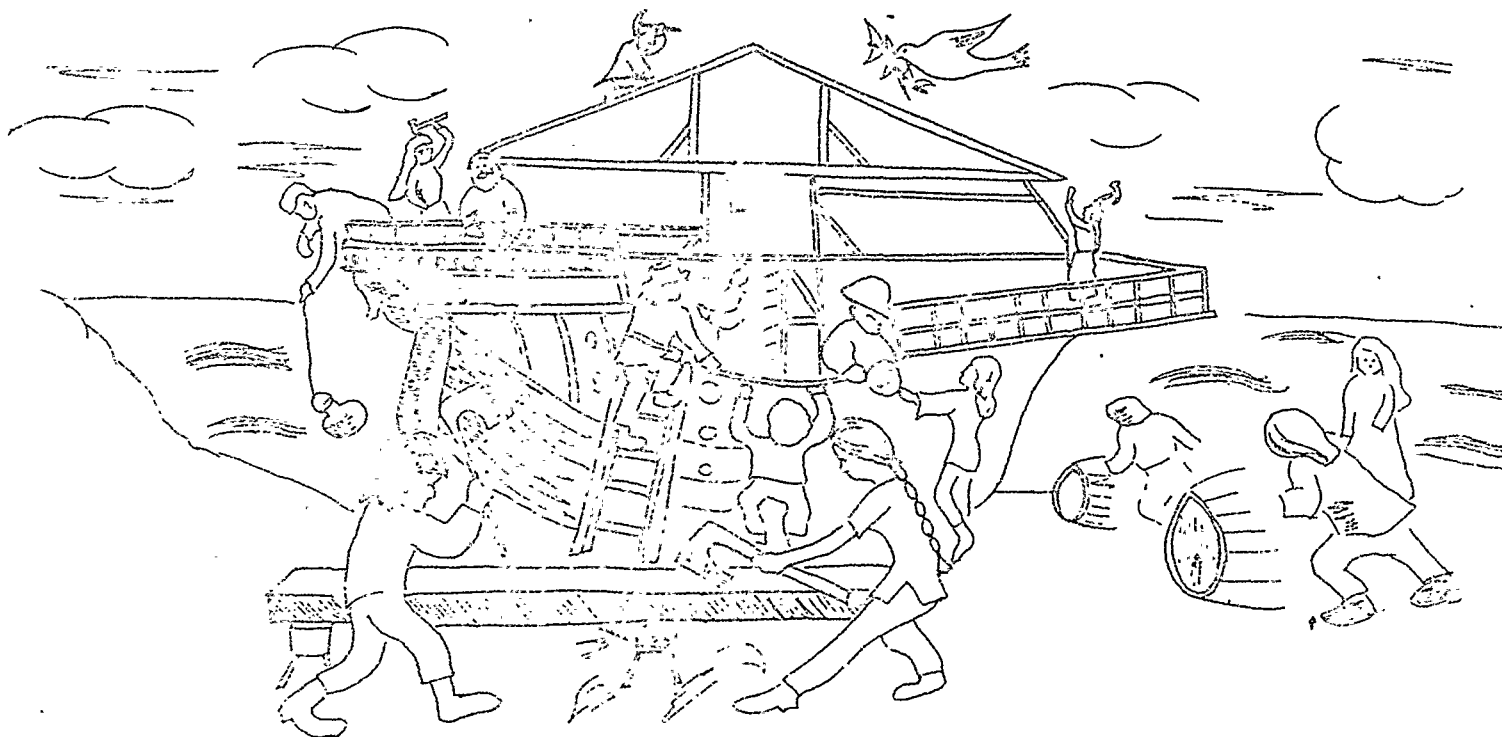

Alternative institutions provide us with a way of breaking this stranglehold, enabling us to take power into our own hands. At their best they also provide us with working models of what life in the new society can be like.

Recent years have seen a great proliferation of alternative institutions. There are few areas of either production, distribution, or service in which experiments are not being made.

Free universities in both the United States and Europe offer courses the established universities do not, and experiment with different methods of learning. An interesting alternative school is the Scotland Road Free School in Liverpool, England. It is operated by the children and community, and attracts truants from the regular schools.

The Community Associates Printing Collective is an MNS group in Philadelphia. Members of the collective share skills and make decisions by means of consensus. The Scott Bader Commonwealth is a worker-controlled chemical factory in England with gross sales in the millions. The managers are elected by the workers; important decisions are made by the whole factory.

There can be few cities now without at least one food co-op. At the Whole Earth Learning Community in Madison, Wisconsin, the small paid staff is rotated every six months so that more people can learn the skills. Former staff are encouraged to carry the store's philosophy to other areas.

The Neighborhood Repair Group in Philadelphia offers home repair and decorating services to the community as well as income to its members. Both skilled and unskilled members go out on each job so that skills are shared. Vocations for Social Change groups give guidance to people who want to work in alternative institutions and in other non-exploitative types of work. In Britain, Uncareers provides the same type of service.

Among the many other types of alternative institutions are: child care co-ops, skills co-ops, alternative pharmacies and health care clinics, land trusts and credit unions, crafts collectives and book co-ops.

To make work more human and satisfying, alternative institutions must experiment seriously with organizational forms, collective working and skills sharing. To avoid hierarchy and outside financial control only those who work in them should take part in decision-making. In food co-ops, for instance, each member should share the work as well as the benefits. Otherwise the co-op is merely a money-saving club; this happened to many of the older co-ops both in Britain and U.S.

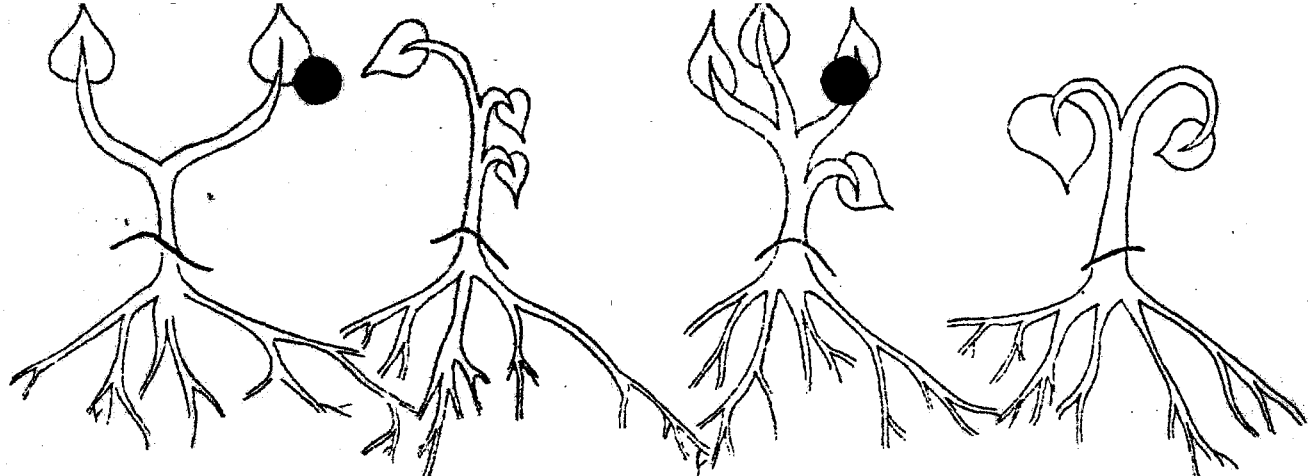

To be politically relevant alternative institutions need to develop an analysis of established institutions and a programme to challenge them. Alternatives people need to join others in a movement for revolutionary social change. Wherever possible alternative institutions should relate to activist groups involved in immediate confrontation campaigns and should be flexible enough to free members to take part in these. During the People's Blockade, the Ploughshares Co-operative Restaurant and Bread Company in Washington State released a member to take part in the Blockade and supplied those taking part in the action with food.

Our ultimate vision is one in which alternative institutions are able to produce, transport, and distribute all necessary and useful goods. They will meet more and more of our social needs. In that way existing institutions lose their grip on us. Long before we reach this stage the existing institutions will feel threatened and will try to repress the alternatives. To prevent this repression from being effective, alternative institutions need to cooperate and support each other. This is beginning in Madison, Wisconsin, where cooperatives have set up a sustaining fund.

The Movement for a New Society strengthens this community of support and solidarity by connecting alternative institutions with other important aspects of the social change movement.

mns structure

What kind of structure should a nonviolent revolutionary movement have?

Surely the traditional forms of organization, from ITT to the PTA, will not do. They exhibit the authoritarianism we seek to cure. The goals of the revolution must be incorporated into the very way it is organized. Thus, the movement we build must be egalitarian and decentralized.

The Movement for a New Society is building a network of small groups working for radical nonviolent social change. It is an association of participating groups rather than individual members. All power within the MNS is based in these groups; all groups are striving to become internally egalitarian.

Although each group is autonomous, it is responsible to the others in sharing ideas and experiences, making decisions that affect the whole network, and mutual aid in times of crisis. The criteria for participating groups is acceptance of these responsibilities, egalitarian internal structure, agreement on strategic nonviolence, participation in developing an analysis of the present system and in projecting revolutionary goals.

The small groups, or collectives, are the basic units in the Movement for a New Society. They are groups within which participants share their lives as well as work, often living communally. These groups can arise out of shared interest in a particular issue, existing friendships, or other commonalities. Six to twelve people is a good size. When a collective becomes too large it can divide, aiding the proliferation of MNS groups.

Several different kinds of collectives have emerged:

NONVIOLENT REVOLUTIONARY GROUPS, commonly called NRGs. The primary function of an NRG is to develop nonviolent direct action projects. Research and analysis provides the basis for sustained campaigns. NRGs can work on a variety of problems on local or international scale.

MOVEMENT TASK COLLECTIVES perform functions in building, maintaining, and nourishing an effective movement. Functions include research, analysis, training, communications, and outreach.

ALTERNATIVE INSTITUTIONS are experiments in creating, serving, and consuming without exploitation. Examples are child-care centers, alternative schools, food co-operatives, industrial collectives.

LIFE CENTERS are larger communities with the primary purpose of preparing effective social change agents. The intensive learning experience involves workshops on various aspects of the revolution, participation in direct action projects, and the experience of living in a community based on changed lives and changed values.

OTHERS: Innovative forms of collective organization are being developed to suit the function and needs of particular groups.

The Movement for a New Society is still in formation. The network is being developed on several levels -- local, regional, and continental -- with each small group participating in the discussions and decision-making at each level. Two ways this happens is in the network meetings and in the more informal gatherings sometimes called celebrations.

Celebrations are times of sharing joys and sadnesses, music, food, dancing, and discovering and strengthening the spirit of community. They occur both locally and on a larger scale.

The first continental network meeting, involving MNS people from California to Maine to Florida, was held in Madison, Wisconsin, in November, 1972. Regional and local network meetings are either functioning or foreseen. Although the meetings are open to anyone, delegates from each MNS group are expected.

Decisions in the network are made by consensus, a decision-making process that depends on a group reaching general agreement rather than voting. By using consensus, people explore issues more carefully and are more sensitive to each others' feelings; the decisions are more likely to be mutually satisfactory.

The "office" of the continental Movement for a New Society is presently in Philadelphia, and is maintained by the Continental Movement-Building Collective. This group has the particular task of facilitating communication throughout the network, but also it promotes MNS ideas, stimulates new groups to form, and raises funds. MNS groups are working to share the responsibilities of the Continental Movement-Building Collective. We hope that the collective's members will be representative of the whole network, both geographically and in range of interest and experience.

Groups wanting to join the Movement for a New Society are referred to the MNS group geographically closest to them, for exploration of what is involved in joining the network.

Discussions on our structure are continuing within the MNS; we are mindful of how we grow and the influence of structures on us as persons. In common with others working for social change, we seek to plant the seeds of democratic work and life now to increase the chance of an egalitarian new society of the future.

Re Denver letter to the Bureau and Philadelphia, 5/18/73, furnishing Philadelphia literature concerning the MNS obtained by a Denver source and advising that Denver was not conducting active investigation as there is no indication that a chapter of the organization exists in the Denver Division.

For the information of Indianapolis, to cover the possibility that Indianapolis has received no previous data concerning MNS, the MNS describes itself as a "network of autonomous groups committed to radical non-violent social change. Together we are developing an analysis of the present system, a vision of a better world and a sustained non-violent structure. Training is an important part of our movement. The values of the new society can become a part of our lives now as we build community and alternative institutions."

Institute Mountain West (IMW), 2096 Emerson Street, Denver, Colorado, self-described as a group living a non-violent revolution which has engaged in non-violent civil disobedience in the Denver area in the past, publishes a newsletter periodically. SJ 588-S (reliable) completed the "Personal Information Form" and returned it to the AQAG in Philadelphia advising that he desired to make the trip to Cuba. On 11/22/69, SJ 588-S received the enclosed letter from the AQAG which appears to be a mimeographed letter and was not a personal letter directed to him. Inasmuch as Philadelphia is Office of Origin in instant case and the information appears to be basically the same as information previously furnished by Philadelphia, any dissemination of the contents of this letter is being left to the discretion of Philadelphia.

September 30, 1969

Dear Friends:

The trips to Cuba planned for the past summer were postponed when the Cuban government asked us to delay application for the visas until late fall or early winter. The reason stated was that there were already too many Quaker groups coming to Cuba in the summer.

A Quaker Action Group's Latin America Committee has decided not to proceed with the plans for the summer workcamp idea but we are still planning to approach the Cubans with our proposal for a project to challenge the economic boycott on Cuba. While the specific arrangements and details of the project may change during the negotiations with the Cubans, the general idea is for a team of about 8 people to sail to Cuba with a gift of medical textbooks or some other desired item. Possibly, these Cuban people's organizations will send a gift to the poor people of the United States. The team would bring the gift back to be distributed by a poor people's organization here. As you can tell, the plans are not detailed but are open to discussion and change when meeting with the Cubans.

The boat, LAVENGRO is now in Florida ready and waiting for the plans for the economic boycott project to proceed. The captain, Robert Wilson is keeping the Lavengro ready to sail. In the next week or so, representatives from AQAG plan to meet with our Cuban contact to reopen negotiations on the project.

I am presently doing research on Puerto Rico and the Guantanamo Base as these are two places where other Latin American projects would be affective, and where the United States plays an obvious role. Your ideas concerning future projects in Latin America would be appreciated,

There has not been much communication about Latin America recently because I have been in Mexico for 6 weeks, studying Spanish and traveling. I hope to keep you better informed of developments concerning our Latin America program in the future.

Peace,

Sally Willoughby

Re Washington Field letter with enclosure,
11-24-69.

On 1-9-70. U. S. Customs, Miami, advised that the boat "Lavengro" is a 47' schooner moored at Summerfield's Boat Yard, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and is owned by ROBERT D. WILSON, P. O. Box 201, Tascagoula, Mississippi. WILSON lives aboard the boat, is about 60 years old and is originally from Connecticut. He is described as a new convert to the Quaker peace movement and has offered his boat to be used by them.

WILSON is reportedly visited by hippy and beatnik types but enjoys a good reputation at the boat yard. He pays certain boat yard expenses with checks given to him by a Quaker group and drawn on the Girard Trust Company, Philadelphia, and the checks are signed by a WILMER J. YOUNG. WILSON reportedly said that he was going to take a group of Quakers to Cuba. They wanted to go in July, 1969, but the Cuban Government said it was not convenient for the Cuban Government and instructed them not to come at that time.

Re Miami letter to the Bureau dated 1/14/70.

On February 19, 1970, U.S. Customs, Miami, advised that the boat "Lavengro" continues to be moored at Summerfield's Boat Yard, Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, and under the control of ROBERT D. WILSON.

Customs advised that WILSON is a close friend and associate of SCOTT HERRICK, owner of the yacht "Mondcivitano." The "Mondcivitano" is also at the same boat yard and is scheduled to go in drydock for painting and repairs in the near future.

It is noted that SCOTT HERRICK is a member of the executive committee of Committee for Non-Violent Action and is an active pacifist..

Customs feels that WILSON would not go to Cuba without HERRICK but, if they did go, it is not known at this time if they would take one or two boats. Customs feels that, inasmuch as HERRICK's boat is going into drydock, neither boat would depart from the U.S. for at least a month or so.

At that time AQAG advised its adherents that the Cuban Government requested a delay in the application for visas by potential participants.

AQAG originally planned to sponsor the trip of a group to Cuba during October, 1969, and appropriate instructions were issued to the field to determine circumstances surrounding this travel. At the request of the Cuban Government, the AQAG postponed its proposed travel as there were too many quaker groups going to Cuba last summer. Re Miami letter, 2-27-70, and Bulet, 4-2-70.

U. S. Customs, Miami, advised that that agency continues to be aware of SCOTT HERRICK and ROBERT D. WILSON and their boats at Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Customs said that HERRICK and WILSON apparently have no immediate plans to go to Cuba in the near future.

Sources familiar with New Left activities, which include peace marches and demonstrations, advised they have no information concerning any proposed trip to Cuba by any pacifist group.

Established sources and informants active in Cuban revolutionary matters, advised they have no information concerning any plans of HERRICK or WILSON to visit Cuba.

U. S. Customs, Miami, advised that that agency continues to have an interest in the boats owned by HERRICK and WILSON, has placed stops on these boats, and Customs will know if and when these boats attempt to leave Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Miami will maintain contact with Customs concerning this matter and will keep the Bureau advised.

THEAT ON WASHINGTON SPREAD THE STRIKE TO THE CENTERS OF DEATH

A campaign against chemical and biological weapons production herbicides, CN and CS gases, napalm and other products of Fort Detrick and Edgewood Arsenal (both near Baltimore) have been used extensively in Vietnam. Now Cambodia and Laos are being devastated.

We urge students on strike to join with us in the following nonviolent action:

July 1

10:00 AM -- mass demonstration in front of White House
1:00 PM -- mass demonstration on Capitol steps
3:00 PM -- start walk to Baltimore, planting trees for the green revolution as we go

July 2-4

Walk to Baltimore

July 5

Mass meeting in Baltimore

July 6-9

Separate walks to Edgewood Arsenal and Fort Detrick -- demonstration at Edgewood on 7th and demonstration with civil disobedience at Fort Detrick on 9th

PROMOTION AND ORGANIZING

From May 25 until July 9 we will be doing extensive organizing in Washington, Baltimore, Frederick, Edgewood and all points in between -- street speaking, leafleting, guerilla theatre and a weekly direct action project at White House, Capitol or Pentagon. All this will be tied directly to the demand for withdrawal from Cambodia and Vietnam as well as CBW weapons.

We need volunteers. Pay your expenses if you can; we will try to find subsistence if you can't.

SUPPORT FAST AND VIGIL

Brian McDonnell started a fast in Lafayette Park on Sunday, May 3 when he was arrested with Dr. Spock and others. He and supporters (students on strike) maintain a daily vigil in the Park. He says, "I will continue my fast until that time when President Nixon withdraws all U.S. troops from Cambodia." He deserves your support. Join him in his vigil and demonstration directly across from the White House.

ARRANGEMENTS

The campaign is sponsored by A Quaker Action Group, 20 S. 12th St., Philadelphia, Pa. 19107. We will be setting up project offices in Washington and Baltimore. Until we get those offices established, telephone us at 215-LO7-3150.

Yes, we use nonviolent action as a means. We sailed the small Phoenix through the midst of the Seventh Fleet to deliver medical supplies to North and South Vietnam. Our groups were arrested 13 weeks in succession at the Capitol and Pentagon last summer. We do intend to convert Fort Detrick to a World Health Center and Edgewood Arsenal into a World Environmental Center. Power to the People.

On 5/18/70, SJ 588-S advised that he has had no personal communications from AQAG since he submitted the "Personal Information Form" to AQAG back in the fall of 1969. He stated that he has received from time to time mimeographed forms from AQAG requesting funds and also receives an AQAG newsletter. SJ 588-S advised that the most recent newsletter he has received from AQAG was #23, dated February-March, 1970. SJ 588-S advised that in all of the communications he has received, nothing further has been said about the trip to Cuba. SJ 588-S advised that if he should receive any information concerning the proposed trip to Cuba, he would immediately notify the SJO.

For the information of the Bureau, Philadelphia, and Miami, SJ 588-S turns over the mimeographed forms which he receives from AQAG to the San Juan Office and they are entered as exhibits to the file. CAMPAIGN AGAINST CHEMICAL AND

JULY 1 - 9, 1970, SPONSORED BY QUAKER ACTION GROUP

A QUAKER ACTION GROUP (AQAG)
PLANNED DEMONSTRATION AT PENTAGON
ON FRIDAYS, BEGINNING JUNE 12, 1970

On June 25, 1970, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, made available the following leaflets relating to a schedule of events and sponsors thereof in connection with a Campaign Against Chemical and Biological Weapons Production and Weekly Actions to demand the U.S. military withdraw from Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam. The source advised that as of June 25, 1970, there was no apparent interest among the peace groups in Philadelphia, Pa., for a mass support of these campaigns to take place in Washington, D.C. This source stated that although individuals from the peace movement have traveled and will travel to Washington, D.C., to participate in these events, there has been no indication that this participation is sufficient to warrant chartering of buses. The support for these actions are coming mainly from peace groups and sponsoring organizations in Baltimore, Maryland and Washington, D.C. According to this source, the entire campaign is being organized and co-ordinated from 515 East Capital Street, Washington, D.C. A Quaker Action Group, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa., has transferred some of its office equipment and employees to its temporary office located at 515 East Capital Street in Washington, D.C.

PROMOTION AND ORGANIZING

From May 25 until July 9 we will be doing extensive organizing in Washington, Baltimore, Frederick, Edgewood, and all points in between -- street speaking, leafletting, guerrilla theatre, and a weekly direct action project at the White House, Capitol, or Pentagon. All this will be directly tied to the demand for withdrawal from Cambodia and Vietnam as well as the abolition of CBW weapons.

ARRANGEMENTS

Orientation for the Weekly Actions will be at 9:30 AM the day of the action at 515 East Capitol Street, Washington.

Promotion offices:

Washington:	515 E. Capitol St.,	(202) 544 - 1282
Baltimore:	5116 N. Charles St.,	(301) 433 - 8212
Philadelphia:	20 S. 12th St.,	(215) 107 - 3150

Overnight accommodations for volunteer organizers and participants. Bring sleeping bag or cotroll, if convenient.

SPIRIT OF THE ACTION

We believe that nonviolent action has great possibilities for revolutionary change. In this period of repression and attempts to stifle dissent we intend to exercise our full civil liberties of freedom of speech and assembly. The project is open to civil disobedience against immoral laws and practices in harmony with a group discipline of non-violence.

WHAT IS CBVV?

JULY ACTION

GASES--banned by international law, perfected at Edgewood Arsenal through experiments on human volunteers. An accidental leak of stored nerve gas in Ogden, Utah killed 6000 sheep.

HERBICIDES AND DEFOLIANTS--used extensively in Vietnam to destroy food crops. Civilians suffer most from this weapon of starvation--especially the very young, the elderly, and pregnant women. Cumulative doses of these "non-toxic" chemicals through food and water cause illness and death. A recently discovered side effect: 90% birth deformities.

SMELLED "TEAR GASES"--like CS, used in Vietnam to drive people into the open, where they are bombed; or they may stay in tunnels, where high concentrations of "non-lethal" gas has resulted in severe poisoning and death. Last year enough CS was purchased to cover more than the entire area of Vietnam. And at home, CS is increasingly used against dissenters.

TERROR WEAPONS--disease-producing agents of anthrax, plague, Q-fever and other diseases stockpiled, researched at Fort Detrick. Blister gases, vomit agents, others being perfected at Edgewood Arsenal.

WE DEMAND:

- * An end to research, production and stockpiling of chemical and biological weapons
- * Conversion of Fort Detrick to a World Health Center and Edgewood Arsenal to a World Environmental Center
- * Immediate withdrawal from Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia

ACT NOW

Meet on Washington!

NIXON: We will not be the first to use chemical or biological weapons.
FACT: Since our 'Vietnamization' program began, use of gases and defoliants has stepped up 100%.
Every other nation considers this chemical warfare.

On June 26, 1970, a second confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, made available the following information relating to captioned matters which information was sent to all names on the mailing list of a Quaker Action Group, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.:

THE CBW CAMPAIGN IS GOING STRONG. VOLUNTEER ORGANIZERS HAVE DISTRIBUTED ABOUT 10,000 FLYERS AT STUDENT STRIKE CENTERS: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE WHITE HOUSE, MAY 30, AND CAPITOL STEPS, JUNE 5 ALERTED SEVERAL HUNDRED PEOPLE AND THOUSANDS WERE REACHED BY RADIO, TV, AND A PICTURE STORY IN THE WASHINGTON POST; A MAILING HAS BEEN SENT TO ALL SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES AND PERSONAL CONTACT MADE WITH MANY.

THE ENCLOSED FOLDER OUTLINES NONVIOLENT ACTION EVENTS OF THE CBW CAMPAIGN IN THE WEEKS AHEAD. ADDITIONAL SPONSORS HAVE JOINED: WOMEN'S INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE FOR PEACE AND FREEDOM, FRIENDS PEACE COMMITTEE, MID-ATLANTIC COMMITTEE ON FORT DETRICK, AND WOMEN'S STRIKE FOR PEACE.

THINGS TO DO

1. Come to the demonstration at White House or Capitol on July 1. Or, come to one of the evening rallies at Washington, July 1; Baltimore July 5; or Frederick, July 8.
2. A little more strenuous: Join in the walk from Washington to Edgewood Arsenal and Ft. Detrick (via Baltimore). Or, support the expense of a young person from your church or town who wants to join the walk.
3. Join with those attempting to walk into Ft. Detrick on July 9; or support them in a demonstration at the entrance gates.
4. Join with others in other parts of the country in demonstrations at Chemical Corps bases or at industrial places which have contracts. On the enclosed sheet are some of the U.S. Chemical Corps bases involved and a sampling of some industrial firms with chemical or biological contracts.
5. We have eight volunteers working on the project at this point. Others want to work and we need them, but lack funds. The volunteers live together in Washington or Baltimore and we provide subsistence but no salary. (Just as most of our staff in Philadelphia are paid.) Can you adopt a volunteer for one to ten weeks at $30.00 per week? That adopted volunteer would then write you regular reports of his or her activity, possibly go to your home and become personally acquainted if you don't live too far from the mid-Atlantic region.

I plan the following participation in or support for the CBW Campaign:

WHATEVER HAPPENED TO ARTICLE I?

The founding fathers recognized that wartime circumstances could dangerously encourage the concentration of power in the chief executive, eroding the intended control by the people's representatives. So Article I gives Congress alone the power to declare war, and both Houses must concur. Congress likewise is given control over war-supporting appropriations, principally as a check to Executive authority.

CONGRESS HAS BECOME A RUBBER STAMP

- By giving its power to the Executive Branch
- And becoming the "Silent Minority"

WHO MAKES DECISIONS FOR WAR OR PEACE

IN THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH?

It seems the Generals make most of those decisions with the consent of the President. But it isn't just the Generals in the Pentagon. Generals Thieu and Ky seem to make many decisions with the consent of the Pentagon Generals.

President Nixon said all U.S. forces would be withdrawn from Cambodia by June 30

Ky called this "a silly argument by silly people"

Then President Nixon said he would provide military support for the South Vietnam Army in Cambodia after June 30

ANOTHER CONGRESSIONAL RUBBER STAMP?

USE OF CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS

We believe the Vietnam war is primarily a war of independence by a people trying to rid themselves of colonial domination. Such guerilla warfare depends on the support of the people - like fish swimming in the sea of people. The military tactic of the United States has been to deprive the guerillas of the sea of people. That is a deliberate genocidal policy against civilians resulting in a daily body count of the dead and in great civilian suffering and extensive refugee camps of injured and starving women and children and old people.

In addition to conventional weapons the United States has been using chemical and biological warfare. Herbicides kill thousands of acres of the peasant's crops. Defoliants not only kill large sections of jungle growth, but also trees in villages and along streams. The whole ecology of Vietnam is being dangerously changed.

The so-called tear gases - CS, CN, DM are used to flush whole villages out of their shelters where they can be bombed or herded into refugee camps and their ancestral homes destroyed.

On the site research has revealed that some of these chemicals do permanent damage to the human bodies absorbing them in water and food.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS PRODUCTION, JULY 1-9, 1970,
SPONSORED BY QUAKER ACTION GROUP

A QUAKER ACTION GROUP (AQAG)
PLANNED DEMONSTRATION AT PENTAGON
ON FRIDAYS, BEGINNING JUNE 12, 1970

On June 23, 1970, a third confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, made available a leaflet which had been distributed by means of a mailing list by a Quaker Action Group, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa. According to this source, this leaflet contains information pertaining to the July 1 - 9, 1970 action as well as the Washington Weekly Action Group. On the reverse side of this leaflet, the organizing centers, Washington, D.C., Baltimore, Md., and Philadelphia, Pa., for the weekly actions and the CBW campaign are set forth:

WHY we are against CBW:

We see the military effort of the United States in Southeast Asia as a deliberate genocidal policy against the Vietnamese people. Herbicides and defoliants have killed a large percentage of crops resulting in starvation mostly among civilians. Gases- CS, CN, DM- are used to flush whole villages out of their shelters where they can be bombed. Studies have shown that poisoning and extreme birth defects result from some of these chemicals.

WASHINGTON WEEKLY ACTION

Each Friday at noon we plan to engage in Nonviolent Direct Action at the centers of death in Washington. These actions will involve civil disobedience as we seek immediate withdrawal of U.S. military forces from all of Indo-China. In particular, we will be focusing our actions against the arsenal of Chemical and Biological Weapons which allow the United States to continue this war. CBW is especially important to our country's imperialist foreign policy, as the United States could not continue its program of limited wars in this atomic age without Chemical and Biological Weapons.

We must keep the heat on Washington. On June 5 we demonstrated with street theater on the Capitol steps the horrible reality of CBW as used in Vietnam. On June 12 we will demonstrate with leafletting, teach-ins and corridor theater inside the Pentagon.

There is an action orientation session each Friday at 9:00 A.M. at 515 East Capitol St., Washington D.C.

THE JULY ACTION

July 1-9 will be a major focus of a national campaign against Chemical and Biological Weapons production. July 1 will begin a walk from Washington to Baltimore. A demonstration will be held at Edgewood Arsenal on July 7 and another involving civil disobedience at Fort Detrick on July 9. Edgewood should be converted to an Environmental Center, Fort Detrick to a World Health

RE: A QUAKER ACTION GROUP,
DEMONSTRATION AT EDGEWOOD ARSENAL,
BALTIMORE, MARYLAND, 7:00 A. M.
AUGUST 4, 1970

On August 3, 1970, Mr. Horace Hood III, Assistant Vice-President Times-World Corporation, Roanoke, Virginia, furnished to a Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation a leaflet entitled "Action Memo #3", which was issued by a Quaker Action Group, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This leaflet reflects this group is starting to organize demonstrations at chemical weapons military bases and corporations with chemical corps contracts across the country, because chemical weapons, such as defoliants and herbicides, have become one of the key factors in suppressing the fight for freedom against Imperialism. According to the leaflet, the group intend to keep a presence and a pressure at Edgewood Arsenal and Fort Detrick through an office and subsistence staff at Baltimore. According to the leaflet, the group considers the Chemical Biological Warfare Campaign against the use of chemical weapons in Viet Nam an effective way to stop the genocidal war in Viet Nam. The leaflet states that this campaign costs money for the volunteer staff, postage, printing, telephone, and so forth, and pleads for a contribution to "A. Quaker Action Group". The leaflet also states that the recipients of the leaflet should write to senators in support of the Nelson-Goodell Amendment to the Military Authorization Bill for procurement, which bill would prevent all use of anti-plant chemicals, stop all supply to other countries of such agents, and stop their production in the United States. Also that this bill could force a non-military solution in Viet Nam and the poisoning of the people and land of Indochina.

The leaflet states that a demonstration would be held at the Edgewood Arsenal gate on August 4, 1970, at 7:00 a.m., which is the date of the trial of 29 persons who were arrested previously for demonstrations.

~~100-446453-223X2~~

The leaflet further stated that this group has participated in the following:

July 1, a tree was planted at the Ellipse at the White House.

MD. July 5, a rally was held at Fort McHenry with Stuart Meecham and Pete Seeger.

July 9, a tree was planted outside the gate at Fort Detrick, and fourteen people were arrested at Edgewood Arsenal.

July 10, fifteen more people were arrested in attempts to bring life to Edgewood's death machine.

July 16, a rally was held in Baltimore and a tree planted outside the Edgewood Arsenal.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

On September 15, 1970, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, made available two pieces of literature obtained at the office of the Quaker Action Group, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The first item was a memorandum from LAWRENCE SCOTT, Executive Director of a Quaker Action Group, to peace workers in Urbana, Champaign, Terre Haute, Lafayette, and West Lafayette dated August 26, 1970. The second item was a leaflet concerning a chemical and biological warfare project September 29 through October 4, 1970. Nota

This past summer we have engaged in a nonviolent action project against chemical and biological weapons at Edgewood Arsenal and Fort Detrick. For September 29-October 4 we are trying to initiate projects at six or eight CBW centers all the way from San Francisco to Boston.

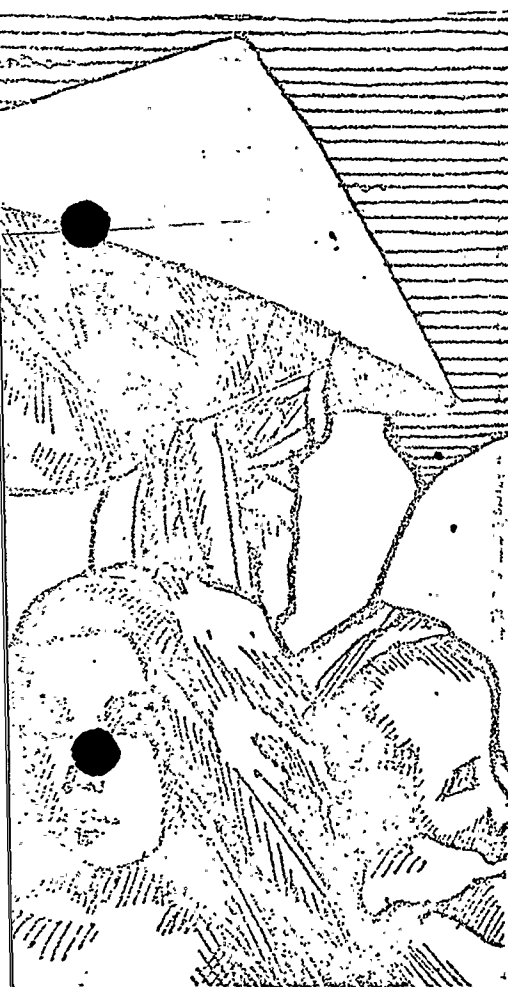

Would any of you in the general area of Newport, Indiana, be interested in helping organize or participating in a project at Newport Chemical Plant where nerve gas is made and stored?

Two of our field workers, Doug Brown and Surrey Kent, are now on a trip from San Francisco to Philadelphia helping initiate action at Dugway Proving Grounds and Rocky Mountain Arsenal. They could stop in Urbana-Champaign for a day or two about September 8-15 if that would be advantageous.

Please write me at this address of your interest in a project at Newport. I think it likely that the Nonviolent Training Center at Chicago will be giving some help on organizing

THE WAR IN VIETNAM MUST BE ENDED

Total withdrawal of U.S. military forces from Indo-China is a necessity.

CHEMICAL WARFARE MUST STOP

U.S. chemical warfare is a major force in the Vietnam war arsenal. Defoliants herbicides, gases (CS, CN) and napalm are used extensively as genocidal weapons against the whole population.

CHEMICAL WEAPON production and use must be stopped.
GENEVA PROTOCOLS against chemical weapons must be ratified by the US.

THE TREE IS COMING

The first phase against the chemical war in Vietnam took place on July 1-16, when 50 people walked in protest from Washington to Edgewood Arsenal and Fort Detrick, in Maryland.

Two pine trees, symbols of life and non-violent revolution, were carried on these walks and planted -- one near the White House and another at Fort Detrick. At Edgewood Arsenal, both the people and the tree they carried were arrested at the entrance for trespassing. Finally the Arsenal officials agreed to plant the tree inside the gates, which they later did.

Baltimore news media covered the project extensively and favorably, and some GIs at Edgewood Arsenal joined with us to support the action: an even higher number indicated approval of our project. All participants developed an unusual spirit of non-

A STRATEGY FOR CHANGE

Democratic processes in the United States have deteriorated and the power of the military-industrial complex has increased. Conventional means of protest and change have proved inadequate without an added power. Some have turned to violent means for that added power.

It is our conviction that non-violent action of a Gandhian character, which includes civil disobedience and non-cooperation, can provide the moral thrust and power to end the Vietnam War and stop the production and use of chemical weapons. Nonviolent action has the power to change men's hearts and minds and change outworn institutions which perpetuate the war in Vietnam. It has that power when those engaged hold openly and firmly to truth, have a spirit of non-injury to the opponent, and are willing to take suffering on themselves.

A CALL TO ACTION

September 29 through October 4.

We call upon those near CBW military bases and CBW producing corporations to organize nonviolent actions. Plant a pine tree of life and revolution: open up the base for public inspection or close it for the public welfare. If a vigil or public witness be organized that will also value as part of a national. Please let us know.

On September 24, 1970, ^{MRS} ~~Roscoe~~ Barger, Chief Security Officer of the Newport Army Ammunition Plant, Newport, Indiana, advised Barbara Norman and her husband, Charles Norman, contacted the Newport facility and advised that she was representing both the Quaker Action Group and the Terre Haute Chapter of the Womens International League for Peace and Freedom in a proposed tree planting exercise to be conducted on the property of the Newport Army Ammunition Plant assuming permission could be granted by the United States Army. Norman requested permission and directions concerning what she termed a "tree of life" sometime towards the latter part of the week September 28, 1970 - October 2, 1970. On the occasion Norman contacted the Newport facility, she tentatively advised that her group was desirous of planting the "tree of life" at approximately 6:30 pm on October 1 or 2, 1970.

Source #1, who is an established source, having furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the Terre Haute Chapter of the Womens International League for Peace and Freedom is composed chiefly of the wives of Indiana State University Professors. Barbara Norman is the wife of Charles Norman, an instructor in Sociology on the Indiana State University faculty at Terre Haute.

Roscoe Barger, supra, again on September 24, 1970, advised that Norman had stated that students from Indiana State University would possibly be involved in the proposed planning of a "tree of life" on the Newport Army Ammunition facility grounds. The last telephonic contact on this date that had been had with Norman indicated she had altered time of her proposed demonstration at the Newport facility to approximately mid-afternoon of October 4, 1970, in order to draw a larger crowd. Inasmuch as Norman had stated to Barger that a state-wide peace rally had been scheduled Terre Haute, Indiana, on October 3, 1970, in conjunction, at least in spirit, with the Newport tree planting exercise, Barger assumed that the larger crowds spoken of by Barger and Norman was meant to possibly include some of the demonstrators from the October 3, 1970, rally in Terre Haute, Indiana.

On September 29, 1970, Chief of Police Ted Melvin, Terre Haute Police Department confirmed that the Womens International League for Peace and Freedom had applied for a parade permit and park use permit for October 3, 1970. In conversation with Norman, Melvin learned that the Womens International League for Peace and Freedom intended to cooperate with several Indiana State University student organizations sponsoring state-wide peace rally scheduled for October 3, 1970. Tentatively planned was a picnic and rally in Fairbanks Park and a later march for downtown Terre Haute.

On September 29, 1970, Roscoe Barger, supra, advised that Headquarters, United States Army, had this date authorized the Womens International League for Peace and Freedom to plant a "tree of life" on the Newport Army Ammunition Plant grounds. Barger stated that the Newport facility is one in which the jurisdiction is entirely Federal. He also noted that the contracting operating company, E. I. Dupont, who controls the guard force, does not desire the guard force to make arrests of demonstrators for infractions of trespassing regulations, in event demonstrators overstep their restricted area. At this time, Barger stated he was making arrangements to contact United States Attorney, Mr. Stanley B. Miller, Indianapolis, Indiana, and advise him fully of the situation in order that protection of the facility might be handled through the use of United States Marshals.

On September 29, 1970, a second source, with whom insufficient contact has been made to establish reliability but who was in a position to know, volunteered that an organizational meeting of the Indiana State University Student Mobilization Committee had been held at 7 pm on September 29, 1970, on the Indiana State University Campus. Approximately 131 individuals were in attendance. Although organization was attempted, it was unsuccessful as too many different diverted views were proposed by those attending. No leadership was actually elected or established at this meeting. This source further advised that three to four unknown students from Indiana University at Bloomington, Indiana, were in attendance at this meeting and also sought unsuccessfully to organize Student Mobilization Committee at Indiana State University. The various speakers attending this organizational meeting openly advised the gathered group that it was the proposed plan to make Terre Haute, Indiana, a focal point of anti-war activity in Indiana on October 3, 1970. The same speakers expressed knowledge that supporting students from other Indiana Universities and Colleges had vowed their participation along with Indiana State University students, in this demonstration. At this time, the plans of the anti-war rally included picnics, speeches, music, and a door-to-door canvass of Terre Haute residents concerning their feelings towards the Vietnamese war. Hopes were also expressed by these speakers that the residents of Terre Haute, Indiana, would include their signatures on anti-war petitions to be circulated in the city on that date. Literature distributed during this meeting indicated that the Womens International League for Peace and Freedom, Student Mobilization Committee, the Indiana Peace and Freedom Party, and Hopper's Bizarre were the acknowledged sponsors of this peace rally on October 3, 1970. No violence was advocated during this initial meeting.

On September 30, 1970, Roscoe Barger, supra, advised Barbara Norman had been notified of the United States Army's decision September 29, 1970, to allow the planting of a tree "of life" on the Newport Army Ammunition Facility grounds. During this contact, Norman agreed fully to comply with rules set forth by the Newport Facility in the conduct of this demonstration. At this time, Norman stated she proposed to plant "tree of life" at 1:30 pm, October 4, 1970.

On September 30, 1970, the established source mentioned in this memorandum, advised that the "street sheet" distributed on the Indiana State University campus during the afternoon of September 29, 1970, advised that the Terre Haute Peace Rally scheduled for October 3, 1970; was to have large delegations from other Indiana Universities and Colleges present. It was further stated in this "street sheet" that these other institutions contacted were in agreement with the proposed demonstration. This same paper also alleged that a few members of the Chicago Conspirators were to be among those scheduled to speak at the peace rally. Although this paper indicated potential demonstrators numbered 6,000, this source felt that the maximum number which would probably attend the October 3, 1970, rally in Terre Haute would not exceed 600 individuals. It was further noted by this source that the "street sheet" dealt largely in unsupported fact and rumor.

Between 10 am and 1 pm on October 3, 1970, 50 to 75 individuals gathered at Fairbanks Park, Terre Haute, Indiana, where an information booth had been established on this same date in order to serve as a coordinating point for the anti-war activities to occur in Terre Haute on this date. Individuals who gathered at this booth during this period of time proceeded into the Terre Haute residential area with literature of anti-war nature and also attempted to canvass Terre Haute residence in reference to their opinions towards the Vietnam War.

At 1 pm, approximately 125 to 150 individuals again gathered at Fairbanks Park for a picnic and speeches. The speeches, according to Detective Richard Setliff of the Terre Haute Police Department were largely anti-war but were non-violent. The only individuals specifically remembered by Setliff as a speaker was Finley Campbell of the Indiana Peace and Freedom Party.

At 3:30 pm on this same date, approximately the same number of individuals gathered about, proceeded from Fairbanks Park into the downtown Terre Haute area. This group proceeded down the main street, Wabash Avenue, and turned South on Seventh Street, again proceeded out of the downtown area on Ohio Street, eventually terminating march at Fairbanks Park. By 5 pm, this date, this group was virtually entirely disbanded. As a parade permit and park use permit had been provided by the City of Terre Haute, the parade was marshalled and preceded by units from the Terre Haute Police Department. Although the crowd chanted anti-war slogans throughout its march, no violence or incidents occurred. The entire day's activities appeared well marshalled by group leaders.

According to Ted Melvin, Chief of Police, City of Terre Haute, Indiana, there was no indication that there were large number of students from other Indiana Universities present for the activities on the October 3, 1970. It was further stated by Melvin that if petitions had been circulated in the City of Terre Haute in an attempt to secure signatures of Terre Haute residents, this operation had been of such small scale that it had been totally unnoticed by his department. Complaints had not been received from citizens and no arrests were made throughout the day's activities. There was also no indication that any members of the Chicago Conspirators had been present during the peace rally as speakers.

On October 4, 1970, at 1:30 pm, eleven individuals, including in this total two children, arrived at the Newport Army Ammunition Plant, Newport, Indiana and announced themselves as representatives in the Quaker Action Group and the Womens International League for Peace and Freedom. Barbara Norman was in charge and she, along with the other individuals present, proceeded to plant two small trees in a pre-arranged location on the Newport Army Ammunition Plant grounds located approximately 200 yards inside these grounds and 40 yards north of the main access road. A small blue Spruce tree and a second unidentified tree were planted. Nearby rocks in the surrounding soil were arranged in a peace symbol and figuration along side these trees.

On September 29, 1970, an individual named Ron Ross, who claimed to be a representative of the Quaker Action Group, Salt Lake City, Utah, telephonically contacted the Public Information Officer, Dugway Proving Grounds, Utah, requesting permission to plant a tree and hold a meeting on Dugway Proving Grounds. He was advised to make this request in writing.

(Mr. George Hackenyos, 115th Military Intelligence Group, Fort Douglas, Utah, on September 30, 1970)

On October 2, 1970, Ross, who identified himself as Coordinator, Utah Citizens Committee on Chemical and Biological Warfare, 633-4th Avenue, Salt Lake City, Utah, forwarded a letter to Colonel Max Etkin, Commanding Officer, Deseret Test Center, Fort Douglas, Utah, which stated in part:

"In coordination with events across the United States, a group of interested citizens wish to dramatize the need for a change in our country's military attitude, especially toward chemical and biological weaponry.

"We are requesting permission to enter Dugway Proving Ground and plant a small tree in the residential area or the administration area. We are also requesting permission to (hold) an information dispensing meeting in which employers and personnel will be given the opportunity of asking questions concerning Dugway and C.B.W. which they probably have not had the opportunity to ask before.

"I want to emphasize that although I personally am opposed to our involvement in South East Asia, we are not trying to "close Dugway down". We do however, want to bring to fuller understanding that the U.S. Army has been committed by the President to further development of only defensive techniques in CBW. Although you may feel a note of antagonism, I assure you that our group does not want to tear our country down, but rather to maintain it's original idealism.

"The date we are requesting to come on base is Tuesday, October 13, between 11:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. We would appreciate the use of a large lecture auditorium for our use during that time."

(Mr. George Hackenyos, Supra,
on October 5, 1970)

On October 6, 1970, a reply was sent to Ross by mail advising that his request had been forwarded to higher headquarters for consideration and suggested the requested date of October 13, 1970, may be premature.

(Mr. George Hackenyos, Supra,
on October 6, 1970)

On October 9, 1970, the Commanding Officer of the Deseret Test Center, was advised by higher authority that Ross' request would be denied and that Ross should be so advised.

B. APPROX

A meeting was held September 2, 1970, at the Quaker Action Center, which is directly across the street from the University of Utah. The person in charge of the meeting was named Doug Brown, who is approximately 25 years old, medium height, slender, and having brown hair. It was alleged that he and his female traveling companion were from somewhere in the East and traveled around the country organizing demonstrations. They mentioned that on one occasion they were trying to plant a tree on Government property in Washington, when the Army came in with guns and made the public think the "hippies" were being brutally treated. The main topic of conversation was chemical and biological warfare. They discussed Dugway Proving Ground and indicated they wanted to have a demonstration against Dugway Proving Ground sometime in the future. An individual who claimed to be a representative of an underground newspaper published at Dugway Proving Ground was in attendance. They also discussed the possibility of demonstrating against the Deseret Test Center at Fort Douglas, Utah. The demonstration was tentatively planned for the week following September 28, 1970.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS PRODUCTION
SPONSORED BY A QUAKER ACTION GROUP (AQAG)

A source who has provided reliable information in the past advised on September 30, 1970, that approximately twenty five people connected with A Quaker Action Group (AQAG) departed on foot from the elipse at Washington, D. C. to march to the Pentagon.

The group was led by LAWRENCE SCOTT, Executive Director of AQAG. They arrived at the Pentagon at approximately 11:30 AM and went to the River Entrance where they distributed flyers protesting Chemical and Biological Warfare (CBW). The group was young and both black and white. Some members attempted to enter the Pentagon to plant a small pine tree in the center court as a symbol of life. General Services Administration (GSA) Police denied them entrance and nine were arrested for leafleting inside the Pentagon when they refused to leave. Others planted a tree outside the Pentagon in front of the River Entrance in an area approved for the purpose by Pentagon Officials. Leafleting also continued at other entrances.

Members of AQAG returned to the Pentagon 10/1/70 and fourteen of them entered the River Entrance, again led by LAURENCE SCOTT, in an attempt to plant a pine tree in the inner court of the Pentagon. After refusing G.S.A. officials' requests to leave, five people were arrested for refusal to disperse and blocking the doorway. The remaining demonstrators planted another pine tree in front of the Pentagon. Others handed out literature against Chemical and Biological Warfare.

RE: CAMPAIGN AGAINST CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WEAPONS PRODUCTION SPONSORED BY A QUAKER
ACTION GROUP (AQAG)

On October 2, 1970, ten members of AQAG again appeared at the River and Mall Entrances to the Pentagon and distributed literature against Chemical and Biological Weapons Production. Again, LAWRENCE SCOTT led the group. They planted four trees in front of the Pentagon and there were no arrests.

Those individuals arrested on September 30, 1970 and October 1, 1970 were taken before the United States Magistrate at Alexandria, Virginia, where they were released on twenty-five dollars bond each. On October 19, 1970, Assistant U. S. Attorney DAVID HOPKINS advised that charges against all those arrested were dismissed in the United States Magistrates Court on his recommendation on October 19, 1970 due to their lack of prosecutive merit.

Following is a list of demonstrators arrested at the Pentagon:

A Quaker Action Group

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on December 15, 1970, that demonstrations are scheduled to take place on the island of Culebra, which is used by the Atlantic Fleet of the United States Navy for target practice, in late December, 1970 through January and February, 1971.

The source stated that activists in Culebra have organized various forms of resistance to the Navy. "Swim-ins" and "stand-ins" on beaches have attempted to stop the bombing and shelling. Contacts have been made with United States radical groups; in particular A Quaker Action Group (AQAG). This group has been involved in illegal actions in the past such as the disruptive actions in the Panama Canal Zone in March, 1969. Now, along with members of the War Resisters League (WRL), they are organizing an operation which has, as its ultimate objective, the elimination of United States control over Culebra. The "three dimensions" of this project are:

1. The "rebuilding of a chapel which the Navy destroyed".
2. Staged peaceful confrontations with Naval personnel in Puerto Rico and the Mainland urging them to "support self-determination for Puerto Ricans and Vietnamese".

At 10 a.m. on 3/11/71 an unknown individual telephonically contacted the Bureau and furnished the following information:

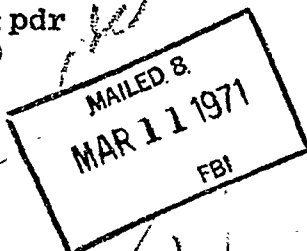

This individual stated he had originally contacted CIA and was referred to the Bureau. During the early a.m. of 3/11/71 he was invited by one Jaime Fernandez, who identified himself as a Chilean member of a Quaker Action Group, to attend a meeting concerning the "Culebra" at 11 a.m. 3/11/71 at 515 East Capital Street, Washington, D. C. (William Penn House). Fernandez allegedly advised that an American girl, Margaret DeMarco, was to speak at this meeting concerning the imprisonment of "MPI" people and would also speak concerning new plans of action scheduled for 3/15/71.

The individual who called the Bureau had a definite Spanish accent, spoke English well, and stated he was an ex-serviceman who was definitely pro-American. He refused to disclose his identity.

Above information was telephonically furnished to Supervisor John R. Palmer. WFO should attempt to cover this meeting in order to determine identities of Jaime Fernandez and Margaret DeMarco and to learn of any schedule of activities planned for 3/15/71.

Culebra is undoubtedly the small island northeast of Puerto Rico which is used as a target area by the U.S. Navy and which has been prominently in the news recently. The "MPI" is most likely a reference to the Movimiento Pro Independencia de Puerto Rico - Puerto Rico Independence Movement (MPIPR), a militant subversive Puerto Rican proindependence organization.

NOTE:

Individual furnished this information to SA S. S. Mignosa. The individual stated he had originally contacted the [CIA] and was referred by the [CIA] to the Bureau. Vigorous attempt was made to learn identity of individual; however, individual stated simply I am a loyal American and if I learn other information I will furnish it to the FBI.

Supervisor Palmer stated WFO would cover the above meeting.

ReBuairtel to WFO, 3/11/71.

WFO has covered past protest demonstrations of A Quaker Action Group (AQAG), the most recent having been on 2/26/71 when a small group of less than a dozen persons demonstrated in Washington, D. C. (WDC) against the bombing of the island of Culebra off Puerto Rico.

WFO has not covered meetings held within the William Penn House at 515 East Capitol Street, WDC, as the activities of AQAG have generally been peaceful and legitimate.

A review of WFO indices failed to develop any information concerning an individual who appears to be identical with one JAIME FERNANDEZ, a Chilean member of AQAG.

MEMBER OF SUBJECT ORGANIZATION

It is probable that MARGARET DE MARCO is identical with one MARGARET DE MARCO, born 8/26/42, who was one of eleven members of AQAG arrested on 5/28/69, charged with "unlawful entry" on the East steps of the Capitol in WDC. The group, at the time of arrest, was reading a list of names of Vietnam War dead. DE MARCO gave her address as 427 Delmont Avenue, Bridgeton, New Jersey, when arrested.

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 6/71, Grants totalling almost one-half million dollars are being made by the Interreligious Foundation for Community Organization to twenty-seven different projects, it was announced today by the Reverend Lucius Walker, Jr., executive director.

The grants -- some of which have already been made in the past two months and the remainder now in final contract stage -- mark IFCO's first major fund announcement this year. The total figure is $437,336.00.

"After a three month moratorium on funding, we're happy to find ourselves ready and able to return with force to the task of nation building through support of minority community organization," Mr. Walker said.

"The grants are also evidence of a renewed commitment to IFCO by member churches and agencies which six months ago were questioning our future. The coming months will see an expansion of our activity both in funding and technical assistance, through continued and expanded support," he stated.

Receiving the funds are:

The Afro-American Patrolmen's League, Chicago -- $10,000. Created by Black patrolmen on the Chicago, Illinois Police Department, AAPL attempts to break the cycle of hostility between police and community and works against institutional racism in the police department itself.

CULEBRA ACTION

APRIL 1971
A QUAKER ACTION GROUP

Vigiling by Culebrans and AQAG members continues in area where the chapel was destroyed by Marines on Feb. 10. The cross was saved and planted on the chapel site with this sign:

Berrios Espera Se Le Arreste

Dan Balderston, Ruben Berrios, and 11 other Puerto Ricans who were sentenced to 3 months in San Juan Prison on Feb. 18 for remaining in the U.S. Navy target area on Culebra are expected out on May 3. Dan's and Ruben's statements to the court are excerpted inside. They would be glad to get mail at Penitenciaría Estatal, Río Piedras, Puerto Rico. Others imprisoned are:

Luis Rivera (Clergy Committee to Rescue Culebra)
Benjamin Perez (Culebra)
Luis Avala (P.R. Independence Party)
Felic Rodriguez (PIP)
Humberto Iapia (PIP)
Victor Ayala (Culebra)
Claro Feliciano (Culebra)
Perfecto Santiago (Culebra)
Flores Soto (Culebra)
Luis Alonso (PIP)
Hiram Lorado (PIP)

More arrests: On Feb. 24, 7 Puerto Ricans were arrested for invading the target area; five were members of PIP and 2 of Movement Pro Independence (MPI). Feb 25, two more persons were arrested for invading the target area by sea.

NAVY BUDGES

March 31

Governor Ferre announced in San Juan that the Navy would not use live ammunition after Jan. 1, 1972 and would leave Culebra entirely in 1972. This announcement seems compromised by a further sentence that the Navy would survey Culebrans asking whether they really want the Navy to leave. These developments, we think underline the validity of the four points made in our letter to President Nixon on April 1:

- withdraw the Navy promptly,
- indemnify the Culebrans,
- rescind Presidential Order 8684 which authorizes Navy control of Culebra,
- review U.S. policy regarding Puerto Rico, forsaking U.S. imperial role and encouraging legitimate aspirations of Latin American peoples.

We are encouraged to see the Navy responding to nonviolent pressure--let's keep it up!

(Full text of AQAG letter to President available from the office.)

AS GOD IS MY JUDGE... De Balderston

"I am in court today with my brothers for staying in the target zone on Culebra after being ordered to leave and for refusing to come to this court to show cause why I should not be held in contempt for refusing to leave the target area when ordered. I acted as a representative of A Quaker Action Group which sent a group of us to Culebra, but am responsible to myself for what I did, as God is my judge. I acted knowingly in disobedience of those orders because they seek to justify the expropriation of the land of Culebra and to restrict the free use of Culebra by its people, and because they try to protect the bombing on Culebra from the accusing voice of humanity, which has seen too much killing.

"The orders of this court, and the fences which seek to enforce those orders, cannot hide from us the fact that Culebra is used for the testing of weapons that destroy human flesh in Vietnam and Laos and Cambodia. We know, too, that men are trained here to kill—not only men from the U.S. but Canadians, British, Dutch, Venezuelans, Dominicans, and Brazilians learn to kill their brothers on the island of Culebra. But Jesus has commanded that we love our brothers and be reconciled to them.

"My people, the Quakers, have always insisted that God is to be obeyed and not men, and that we are neither to be satisfied with the state of things, nor with a promise of salvation in the hereafter, but live as though the Kingdom were already here—without doing violence or harming our brother. They refused to own their brothers as slaves, refused to kill or to pay taxes to kill—for example, my great-great-grandfather, Lloyd Balderston, refused to pay war taxes during the Civil War and the government expropriated several of his hogs. The Quakers have fallen with the rest of the Babylonians, but there is a remnant which seeks to recall the voice of Jesus to the Society of Friends, and I think that we of A Quaker Action Group seek to act for that remnant and to find once more the spirit of the early Christians and the early Friends.

"In seeking the will of Jesus for our time, some of us have been led to break the laws of the United States—thus A Quaker Action Group sent the sailboat Phoenix to North Vietnam with medical supplies in violation of the law against 'trading with the enemy,' and thus I have refused to register for war, and last year refused to pay the ten percent war tax on telephones. Now some of us come to Puerto Rico to learn about the struggle for independence here, to join in the struggle when it becomes appropriate, as it did on Culebra, and then to go home, to help the people of the United States to understand that the conduct of our nation in Puerto Rico, in Vietnam and Laos and Cambodia, in Okinawa, and in the United States itself, is an offense to God and to man.

"I call upon the people of the United States to repent of these wrongs, to turn away from them—to leave Puerto Rico free and unassociated, to let free the other vast areas of the world we have subjugated. We must rediscover the humility, the willingness to take suffering upon ourselves rather than inflicting it on our brothers and sisters, and the faith of our Lord Jesus who told us to take all that we have and give it to the poor, to do unto others as we would have others do unto us, and to love one another, even as He loved us."

MARCH 15, 1970 - MARCH 15, 1971

CULEBRANS CELEBRATE YEAR'S STRUGGLE TO STOP NAVY SHELLINGS

For two days in March Culebrans celebrated the first anniversary since their concerted struggle began. On March 15, 1970, 500 Culebrans walked from town to the Navy's Observation Post with an ultimatum: stop shelling or face direct action.

A film of the march was shown at the celebration; speeches and music were heard. Mayor Ramon Feliciano said the struggle was not over, but Culebrans should not turn against each other. Anastasio Soto, chairman of the Rescue Culebra Committee, said the Committee's purposes were not yet achieved: The Committee plans to take the Culebran issue to the United Nations.

Eli Hochstedler, AQAG team member who returned soon after to the U.S., read a letter of support from Young Friends of North America, greeted by applause. AQAG co-secretary Lawrence Scott joined the celebration, and team member Margaret DeMarco arrived after visiting consultations in Philadelphia and Washington.

On March 15 in Philadelphia over $70 was collected for the Culebran struggle from Philadelphians who refuse their telephone tax. Philadelphia War Tax Resistance sponsors a monthly transfer of telephone taxes to peace and community groups.

THE PEOPLE'S PARK, built Feb.-March by Culebrans as a simple children's playground just outside the target area, was dedicated at the anniversary celebration to the 13 in prison in San Juan.

TO DISOBEY THE LAW OF THE EMPIRE... Ruben Berrios

to disobey the law of the empire is to obey the law of the country. We have disobeyed the law of the empire.

We acknowledge that we have intentionally violated a Federal order and that we have interrupted the Navy bombardment of Puerto Rican territory by the U.S. and allied navies. Our action is not isolated: It is part of a patriotic movement directed toward eliminating arbitrary and unjust federal authority over Puerto Rico, including the power of this tribunal which comes from the Congress of the United States and not from the people of Puerto Rico.

By violating this federal order, we exercise a profound moral responsibility as men and a deeply-felt patriotic responsibility as Puerto Ricans. Moreover, we are announcing our intention of disobeying whatever federal law whose violation we consider necessary to fulfill our responsibility as men and as Puerto Ricans.

From the moral point of view, as men who believe in freedom, our judge is our own conscience. For us, as Jose Marti said: "A man who consents himself with obeying unjust laws and who permits men who mistreat the country in which he was born to set foot there, is not an honorable man." Because we are honorable men we are violating the order of this court. Before the tribunal of our conscience, an honorable man is always innocent...

From the patriotic point of view, in the republic (the U.S.) law is order; in the colony (Puerto Rico) law is tyranny. Order is necessary to human life; tyranny makes human life impossible...

From the point of view of our civilization, the disobeying or violation of immoral and unjust laws has its foundation in the most noble aspect of our inheritance. Isaiah, in violation of the laws of his epoch, walked naked and unshod for three years among his people protesting the imperial era of Ethiopia, Egypt and Syria. Daniel preferred to disobey the mandate of the emperor of Babylonia and to be sent to the lions den rather than transgress the laws of his conscience. And Christ taught us that the law should not be obeyed when the juridical system is against man. "The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath." True to his work, Christ violated Jewish and Roman laws...

It is within this noble tradition that, humbly but firmly, we have directed our actions.

Long Live Free Puerto Rico!

(translated by Winifred Osta. Copies of full statement available from AQAG)

er Says Navy Detonations Cause Mass Coral Destruction

"The destruction was horrible, hundreds of dead fish..." said oceanographer John Dinga in showing color slides of the effects of detonated explosives. Dinga went out with his underwater camera the day the Navy blew up shells which had long unexploded into the sea.

In early December the Navy piled available explosives on top of unavailable ones caught in the coral reefs, then set off four large explosions. Environmental protection agencies were not consulted, and of course not the Culebrans.

The Navy had plans for more explosions, according to Dinga. "If the reefs are destroyed, it would take about 1000 years for nature to rebuild them." Virtually all fish would also be destroyed.

Culebra and Goliath

U.S. military operations are so vast, and Culebra so small, why does AQAG focus on this microcosm?

Since early in the century, after U.S. "liberation" of Puerto Rico from Spain, the U.S. has used large parts of the islands for military purposes. In World War II Culebra was made a "Naval Defensive Sea Area."

In the early '60's maneuvers and target practice in Culebra were extended as the U.S. became further involved in Vietnam. The Navy agreed under pressure in early 1970 to restrict bombings around the town of Culebra, but intensified exercises elsewhere around the island. Fishing dropped off; accidents occurred. Inaccessibility of beaches, inaccuracy of shelling notices, loud firing noises late into the night causing anxiety in children -- all of these culminated in the beginning of direct action.

In January 1971 the Navy negotiated an agreement with Culebra's mayor promising in effect that it would not try to take over the whole island. While this was a victory of sorts for Culebrans, it did not end their being part of a bombing target.

AQAG became interested in the struggle in 1970 and after consultations with Culebrans and other Puerto Ricans, sent a team to express our support as Statesiders and our realization that we too are oppressed by the U.S. Navy.

April 1971

Dear Friend,

We are a fermenting community of Quakers, trying hard, as William Sloane Coffin urges, to become "twice as militant and twice as nonviolent." May we introduce ourselves to you?

You may have heard of some of our international projects. In 1967-68 we sailed the Phoenix with medical supplies to North and South Vietnam. In late 1968 we participated in a multi-national pacifist protest of the invasion of Czechoslovakia--AQAG staff member Bob Eaton was arrested in Budapest but freed, only to be imprisoned in the U.S. for draft resistance. In 1969 we demonstrated at Fort Gulick in the Panama Canal Zone against U.S. military and economic domination of Latin America. Now we join the Culebrans in a common struggle against the U.S. Navy; the current report is enclosed.

Imaginative direct action tactics are needed at home as well as abroad. In spring, 1968, a number of us were arrested on the Capital steps in Washington with Rev. Ralph Abernathy, during the Poor People's Campaign. One year later we were back on the Capital steps, reading the names of the Vietnam war dead. The initial AQAG team was arrested, so we reappeared the following week to resume the reading. After more arrests, U.S. Congressmen began to join us in civil disobedience, helping to bring Vietnam into public debate again.

OUR GOAL is community -- on a local level, and on a world level. Our staff representatives in Europe and our Latin America actions help us to outgrow our American skins and to build the transnational movement so badly needed to stop the rampaging military-industrial complex.

OUR MEANS are nonviolent -- from resistance to revolution. AQAG members in prison remind us to deepen as well as to broaden the movement, to be God's revolutionaries in life style as well as political action. Our participation in the mass anti-war movement is colored by this concern for deepening; we have been a center of development of training for nonviolent action, and we are winding up a two-year study of the American system and how it can be fundamentally transformed by nonviolent means.

Would you like to be in touch with us? If so, we hope you will return your name and address -- and a generous check if possible.

A QUAKER ACTION GROUP

I. AQAG has been involved in agitation against the United States Navy on the island of Culebra. This is viewed as part of a drive to force the U.S. out of Puerto Rico. ~~MEMBER OF SUBJECT ORGANIZATION~~

The so-called Culebra 13 who were jailed after demonstrations and riots against the Navy included two AQAG team members, ~~Dan~~ ~~derston~~ and ~~Maggie~~ ~~DeMarco~~. DeMarco has met with Puerto Rican Independence activists so that AQAG can support their activities.

II. The original AQAG Culebra project to disrupt the Naval Winter target practice on the island was formed in cooperation with the ~~Puerto Rican Independence Party~~ and ~~Clergy Concerned About Culebrans~~. Although some organizers objected on Strategic grounds, this was pushed as a link between the Puerto Rican radical objectives and those of the Culebrans.

The following groups are working with AQAG in these and related operations:

- 1) ~~Committee of Solidarity for Puerto Rican Liberation in Cambridge, Mass.~~
- 2) ~~Chicago Area Group on Latin America~~
800 West Belden-Chicago, Illinois

The following are Puerto Rican radicals who are working with AQAG:

~~Rafael Colon~~
2544 N. 4th
Phila. Pa.

~~Rosemary Cubas~~
3710 Spring Garden St.
Phila. Pa.

Both are with the ~~Committee of Solidarity with the Culebran Struggle~~ and are contacts for AQAG within the Philadelphia Puerto Ricans.

III.

On July 1, an all day meeting was held for Culebra project committee members, former team members and project staff for evaluations of past actions. Host for this meeting was the Haverford Center for NonViolent Conflict Resolution and the meeting itself held at Haverford College. The Center has documented the Culebra project and has analyzed data relating to the partial success of the operation.

The enclosed LHM has been classified confidential since AT 2009-S and AT 1404-S are informants of continuing value. Unauthorized disclosure of this information could compromise these sources and thereby adversely affect the internal security of the United States.

For the additional information of the Bureau, AT 2009-S is the only source operated by the Atlanta Office who would have a potential entree to travel to Paris in the delegation described in referenced Bureau airtel. However, source advises that HAN PENDERGRAST has indicated that those who are to be designated to participate in the United States delegation are desired to be new people in the anti-war movement. Since source has been in the civil rights anti-war movements for several years, he does not fit this criteria and would, therefore, not ordinarily be invited. However, he intends to remain in contact with Pendergrast in order to possibly receive consideration for the trip in the event there are last minute changes or some of the delegates change their minds at the last minute about going.

The Bureau will be advised of any pertinent developments in this regard.

A source advised on February 9, 1971, that Nan Pendergrast, Atlanta, Georgia, working on behalf of the War Resisters League, is presently concerned with the responsibility of selecting a local Southern representative to join a group of U. S. citizens as a delegation to travel to Paris, France, during March, 1971, to meet with officials of the North Vietnamese Government to discuss a peace "treaty". Source said this delegation is being sponsored by Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam (CLCV) and by American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), in addition to other organizations. Pendergrast has indicated that it will be necessary for her to arrange $400 in funding to pay the expenses of the individuals selected as a representative for the delegation. She has indicated that she had asked the mother of Julian Bond, Georgia Negro legislator, to accept a position as Southern representative of the delegation, however, Mrs. Bond had declined due to her family responsibilities in Atlanta.

Source advised on February 10, 1971, that Mrs. Pendergrast had advised on that date that the following listed five individuals have been selected as representatives from the Southeast on the delegation described above:

1. Horace Tate, a Negro male, former candidate for mayor of the City of Atlanta, who is associated with the Georgia Teachers Association.

2. Jane B. Moore, wife of Howard Moore, prominent Atlanta Negro attorney, who is presently one of the attorneys representing Angela Davis. Mrs. Moore is a sister of Julian Bond, mentioned above.

*3. Marilyn Grabow, described by source as "a former Atlanta supporter of Senator Eugene McCarthy".

4. Dr. Fred Wright, an adjunct professor at the University of Mississippi, formerly a professor at Georgia State College (GSC), Atlanta.

5. An unknown nun who belongs to an order in Chicago, Illinois, but is currently studying at Houston, Texas.

DR. FRED WRIGHT

Issues of "Altus", published during the period from November, 1967, through May, 1968, self-described as the weekly publication of the Committee on Social Issues (CSI), GSC, Atlanta, carried the name of Dr. Fred H. Wright, GSC, as faculty advisor.

The above-mentioned source advised on November 15, 1968, that the CSI was organized at GSC, Atlanta, in the fall of 1966, and that it was noted for its anti-Vietnam war editorials.

A second source advised on January 24, 1969, that the organization previously known as CSI had then recently become known as the GSC Chapter of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

A characterization of SDS is contained in this memorandum.

A third source advised on October 30, 1968, that one Fred Holmes Wright, who had been an associate professor of psychology at GSC, Atlanta, had been hired as coordinator of the Interpersonal Relations Program of the Southeastern Education Laboratory, Suite 221, 3450 International Boulevard, Atlanta, about July, 1968. This source described Wright as "extremely anti-United States", and said he continually downgraded the United States in his discussions around the Southeastern Education Laboratory Office, also that he openly stated that Cuba should invade the United States, also that he frequently disseminated written material around the office, which material was critical of the United States.

This third source furnished a copy of a letter purportedly written by Fred H. Wright, Ph.D., associate professor of psychology, to then Attorney General Ramsey Clark, same dated January 16, 1968, in which letter Wright mentioned his previous employment with the Community Relations Service of the Justice Department, and of his having observed some actions of Mr. Clark "during the faithful days of the Selma to Montgomery March shortly after I joined the Community Relations Service". In this letter, Wright indicated that it grieved him to learn that some of Mr. Clark's energy would "now" be diverted to the prosecution of "people who do not believe war, particularly this war, is the Lord's work". Wright also indicated in this letter furnished by source that he wanted to "confess" that he had publicly spoken of the military presence of the United States in Southeast Asia as immoral, unjustified and counter productive to the interest of the United States, also that he had been encouraging draft-age students at GSC who shared this belief, "to consider all alternatives".

A fourth source advised during the period from January, 1969, to August, 1969, that Fred Wright was active in planning and participating in anti-war demonstrations held in Atlanta during April and August, 1969, as well as an anti-war "teach-in" held at Emory University, Atlanta, on March 30, 1969.

On March 9, 1968, the CSI at GSC sponsored a program entitled "Vietnam: The Logic of Withdrawal". A copy of the program listed Fred Wright of GSC as one of the leaders of a group discussion.

Fourth source advised on April 1, 1969, that Fred and Mrs. Wright were among those in attendance at a "going away" party held for Nelson and Ruth Blackstock, Atlanta Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) leaders who had then recently been transferred by the YSA from Atlanta to New York City, said party being held at the residence of Cliff Conner, another YSA member in Atlanta, on the evening of March 29, 1969.

A characterization of the YSA is included in this memorandum.

STUDENTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY

Students for a Democratic Society; commonly known as SDS, came into existence at a founding convention held during June, 1962, at Port Huron, Michigan. From an initial posture of "participatory democracy," Marxist-Leninist ideology of various shadings became predominant during 1968-1969 with debate centering on how best to create a revolutionary youth movement. SDS moved from involvement in the civil rights struggle to an anti-Vietnam war position to advocacy of a militant anti-imperialist line linking up the oppressed peoples of Asia, Africa and Latin America with the black liberation movement in the United States. All major factions within SDS embrace Marxism-Leninism and identify internationally with China, Cuba and North Vietnam as countries leading the worldwide struggles against the United States. However, the Soviet Union was regarded as imperialist and with the Communist Party, United States of America, "revisionist" in nature.

SDS operated under a national constitution which called for an annual National Convention (NC) and quarterly National Council meetings wherein programs were initiated and debated. Three national officers were elected annually with a National Interim Committee to run the organization. Regional offices and college chapters elected delegates to the national meetings but each functioned independently on local matters. Its official publication "Fire" (formerly "New Left Notes") last appeared in December, 1969.

Internal factionalism of serious proportions developed during 1968 - 1969 and the following three factions evolved as a result of a split at the June, 1969, NC: Weatherman, Worker Student Alliance (WSA), and Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM). The effect of the split on SDS chapters throughout the country was divisive. Some aligned with one or the other of the three major factions. Others, unable to identify with any faction, disassociated with SDS completely and changed names.

The SDS national office in recent years was located at 1603 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois. It was closed in February, 1970.

The Weatherman and RYM groups no longer consider themselves associated with SDS, and the WSA group refers to itself as the true SDS.

PROGRESSIVE LABOR PARTY

"The New York Times" city edition, Tuesday, April 20, 1965, page 27, reported that a new party of "revolutionary socialism" was formally founded on April 18, 1965, under the name of the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) which had been known as the Progressive Labor Movement.

According to the article, "The Progressive Labor Movement was founded in 1962 by Milton Rosen and Mortimer Scheer after they were expelled from the Communist Party of the United States for assertedly following the Chinese Communist line."

A source advised on June 3, 1968, that the PLP held its Second National Convention in New York City, May 31 to June 2, 1968, at which time the PLP reasserted its objective of the establishment of a militant working class movement based on Marxism-Leninism.

The source also advised that at the Second National Convention Milton Rosen was unanimously reelected National Chairman of the PLP and Levi Laub, Fred Jerome, Jared Israel, William Epton, Jacob Rosen, Jeffrey Gordon, and Walter Linder were elected as the National Committee to lead the PLP until the next convention.

The PLP publishes "Progressive Labor," a bimonthly magazine, and "Challenge-Desafio," a monthly newspaper.

Source advised on May 25, 1970, that the PLP utilizes an address of General Post Office Box 808, Brooklyn, New York, and also utilizes an office in Room 617, 1 Union Square West, New York, New York.

REVOLUTIONARY YOUTH MOVEMENT

A source advised that the Revolutionary Youth Movement II (RYMII) faction of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) held a national conference at Atlanta, Georgia, from November 26 to 30, 1969. At this conference it was decided to form a new organization to be known as Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM), characterized as a mass anti-imperialist youth organization, said organization being proposed as separate and distinct in form and content from SDS. The "Principles of Unity" adopted by the conference included a struggle against white supremacy and male supremacy; fights against imperialism, anticommunism, fascism and oppression of youth; and support of the right of self-determination of all "oppressed nations," also support of the right of all "oppressed and exploited" peoples "to armed self-defense." It was agreed that RYM would not be a Marxist-Leninist organization; however, source said this was decided in order to indicate an organization broad enough in form to be acceptable to everyone. A temporary National Steering Committee (NSC) made up of eight females and two males was elected to govern RYM until national officers could be elected during the Spring of 1970.

RYM publications have listed the RYM National Office (NO) at Post Office Box 5421 and Post Office Box 77012 C, both Atlanta, Georgia, and a second source has advised that the NO has no office space but would probably be considered as located at Apartment 27, 1067 Alta Avenue, Northeast, Atlanta.

Second source advised that women dominated the founding conference and have continued to dominate NSC meetings to the point that "women's liberation" has apparently become the RYM's principal issue - also that RYM's poor financial condition has resulted in its failure to publish a paper. During early 1970, RYM has decided to cater to the working class rather than youth, since the potential for social revolution lies in workers.

A third source has stated that it was decided at the March, 1970, NSC meeting that RYM women had decided the organization will be molded into a "working class, Marxist-Leninist, revolutionary, anti-imperialist, problack nationalist, people's women's liberation organization."

WEATHERMAN

Initially called the "Action Faction," Weatherman came into being immediately before the June, 1969, Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) National Convention (NC). At this NC Weatherman won all three national officer positions and a majority of the National Interim Committee as well. Subsequently, they took over the SDS National Office (NO) in Chicago, and controlled its funds, paper and national records. Although internal struggle existed until late 1969, Weatherman for all major purposes controlled SDS nationally from June, 1969, until its NO closed in February, 1970. At this time it no longer considered itself part of SDS.

The term Weatherman emerged from an ideological paper prepared by its leaders entitled "You Don't Need a Weatherman to Know Which Way the Wind Blows" ("New Left Notes" June 18, 1969). This statement outlined the basic stance of Weatherman: Marxist-Leninist in content but with strong advocacy that action not theory would bring about revolution in the United States. This posture was complemented with an international identification to the Cuban revolution and Castro's statement that the duty of a revolutionary is to make revolution.

During October, 1969, Weatherman riots in Chicago resulted in more than 260 arrests for mob action and related charges. A program of armed struggle was finalized during a December, 1969, "War Council" wherein terrorist tactics and political assassination were contemplated. The basic strength of Weatherman was then revealed to be some 300 - 350 nationally and geographically apportioned to the Midwest, New York, and some Northwest.

As its rhetoric of violence escalated, Weatherman leaders increasingly discussed the necessity of an underground operation wherein more than 90 percent of the organization would be submerged; "affinity groups" of three - five members would function independently. In February, 1970, Weatherman leaders announced a program of "strategic sabotage" with police and military installations as primary targets.

In February, 1970, Weatherman abandoned the SDS NO, 1608 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois, and throughout the country entered an underground status.

WORKER STUDENT ALLIANCE/PROGRESSIVE LABOR PARTY

A source advised during August, 1969, that at the National Convention (NC) of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) held in Chicago, Illinois, during June, 1969, a split arose between the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) and the National Office (NO), the NO becoming known as the Weatherman faction. The PLP faction drew the largest support among those in attendance at the NC.

Source further advised that during late Summer, 1969, the PLP faction of SDS established its National Headquarters (NH) on the second floor of a loft-type building at 173A Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts. The campaign on which the PLP faction centered was to build a worker student alliance or a campus worker student alliance. Thus, they adopted the names of Worker Student Alliance (WSA) or Campus Worker Student Alliance.

A second source advised during January, 1970, that within the SDS, the WSA is a caucus of which the PLP constitutes the leadership.

A third source advised during July, 1970, that during demonstrations staged in the Boston area during the Spring and Summer of 1970 by the NH, the main theme of previous demonstrations staged by the NH shifted from protestations of the Vietnam War and other United States foreign policy matters to attacking domestic issues such as racism and unemployment and demonstrating support of the "workers' struggle."

You might want to go to Washington after the Conference to talk to your Senators and Congressmen. This may mean that you would have to stay at Kennedy Airport on the night of the 10th and make arrangements for a flight to Washington on the morning of the 11th.

We advise you to make appointments with the people you would like to see in Washington in advance - maybe in coordination with others in your state/area. Please let me know if you are planning to do so, since I would like to present a list of names to the Friends Committee on National Legislation (a registered Quaker lobbying agency) in Washington to see whether they could offer their assistance.

Memo to: Participants in the Conference

M. A. C. P. S. is

The Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina will as we all hope have an impact upon the thinking of the people in the towns and cities across the United States from which the participants come. In that sense your willingness to accept speaking engagements and/or radio and television and newspaper interviews will be very valuable.

The following suggestions might be helpful in this regard.

- 1) The trip will be first announced in a news release sent to major newspapers, radio stations, etc. across the U.S. for release on Sunday, February 21. At the same time the contact person in your area will be sending copies of the release to local reporters, etc. You may possibly hear from members of the media between February 21 and your departure. It is important that the media will get the names of the sponsoring organizations, the dates of the flight, etc. You might also want to express your expectations of the Conference as an individual. You may also be asked to make appointments for talks and interviews on your return.
- 2) It would be a good idea if the group would choose its own spokesman to handle media contacts as well as a spokesman for a national press conference to be held the day after arrival back in the States.
- 3) Another possibility is to schedule a brief news conference in cooperation with others from your area upon your return in your hometown.
- 4) In case the group has arrived at some joint statement for the press, it would be a good idea to have copies with you for your interview.
- 5) If by any chance a member of the national media (C.B.S., Time, Look, etc.) approaches you directly, it would be best to telephone Margaret Bacon, AFSC's director of information, collect so we can be informed and hopefully continue to coordinate the flow of information. FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1971

One hundred and seventy Americans from 14 states will leave from New York's Kennedy Airport on March 3 for a week-long conference with principals in the Paris talks and others. Their objective is finding out what the requisites for peace in Southeast Asia really are.

The Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina, as the project is called, is sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), Clergy and Laymen Concerned (CALC) and the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR).

"The conference will afford a large number of American citizens access to and thoughtful discussion with many persons long familiar with the Indochina struggle," explained Stewart Meacham, peace education secretary of the AFSC. "We hope that upon their return to the United States, the participants will be new and creative interpreters, in their respective communities, of what they understand the requisites of peace to really be."

Participants expect to meet with representatives of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam (PRG, formerly the National Liberation Front), the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam), the Republic of Vietnam (Saigon) and the U.S. Delegation.

Meetings are also being arranged with representatives of the National United Front of Cambodia, the Laotian Student Union and various independent South Vietnamese groups opposed to the war (including Buddhists, Catholics, students and groups supporting dissident members of the Saigon Administration's National Assembly.)

Mr. Allan Brick, national program director of the A.R., said that in addition to meeting with official government representatives at the peace talks "we are anxious to learn a great deal more about the recent upsurge of civilian resistance to the war in the large cities of South Vietnam. We want to reach a better understanding of what the Vietnamese people themselves are struggling for."

The Rev. Richard Fernandez, director of CALC, indicated that "the conference will come at an extremely propitious moment given the United States second invasion of a sovereign country (Laos) in less than eleven months. Mr. Melvin Laird," the clergyman continued, "has told us that the invasion of Laos doesn't represent a widening of the war--we are interested to see what both Asians and Europeans see in this new move."

The American Friends Service Committee was founded by a group of Quakers in 1917 to offer young men an alternative to military service. Today, its 600 staff are engaged in peace education, refugee relief, technical aid to developing countries, international conferences and community development work in this country. Its headquarters are in Philadelphia.

Clergy and Laymen Concerned is a 34,000 member inter-religious and anti-war group. It is five years old and has offices at 475 Riverside Drive, New York City; phone (212) 749-8518.

Fellowship of Reconciliation is an association of men and women of all faiths who recognize the essential unity of mankind and have joined together to explore the power of love and truth for resolving human conflict. The organization was founded in 1915 and has a nationwide membership of more than 20,000 men and women. It has offices in Nyack, New York, Box 271; phone (914) 359-2599.

RE: CITIZENS CONFERENCE ON ENDING THE WAR IN INDOCHINA
INFORMATION CONCERNING

Rev. RUDOLPH W. GILBERT of the Unitarian Church in Spokane, Washington, was reported as appearing to be against the United States form of government by LEROY HILDEBRAND, an untested source on 1/31/66, at Spokane. He said GILBERT put forth the idea various religions are used to hold down the masses for capitalism. When asked what he thought of communism, GILBERT replied with the question: "What do you mean? The way it is practiced in Asia or the way it could work in the United States?" The source became angered at this, did not continue the conversation, and walked away.

Rev. RUDOLPH W. GILBERT, West 321 Eighth Avenue, Spokane, sent a form letter on 12/4/61 to the President of the United States asking for clemency for MORTON SOBELL who was serving 30 years in prison following conviction on charges of espionage in behalf of the Soviet Union.

Leaflets distributed at a Vietnam War protest demonstration in Spokane 10/21/67 indicated "Reverend GILBERT" of the Unitarian Church was representing Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam (CALCAV).

KENNETH KIRKPATRICK was reported in the "University of Washington Daily," a student newspaper published at Seattle, Washington, on 10/4/70 as then being the Peace Education Secretary of the American Friends Service Committee who recently had a 45 minute interview with Premier PHAM VAN DONG in Hanoi.

STEWART MEACHAM, who was the Peace Education Secretary of the AFSC in 1966 was reported by a second source in June, 1963 as having been a socialist while attending the Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary who knowingly associated with Communist Party (CP) members at that time. In 1942, the source received a letter from MEACHAM stating he was a communist; that communism was the way of the future; and that he was through with the church.

Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam was reported on 12/11/69 in the "Seattle Times," a daily newspaper published at Seattle, Washington, as being a group which had announced a nation-wide drive with inter-faith church services to raise holiday funds for American deserters and draft evaders in Canada and for men jailed in this country for draft evasion. The temporary chairman was JOHN STENHOUSE.

JOHN STENHOUSE, also known as JACK STENHOUSE, who was born 1/22/08 at Chung-King, China, was reported as having admitted he was a member of the Communist Party about 1943 at Los Angeles, California, according to BERNARD SMITH, 604 A Essex Circle, China Lake, California, who furnished a signed statement. STENHOUSE was further described by SMITH as having emigrated from England to the United States and to have said he would do anything for the "cause" which SMITH understood to mean the communist cause.

STENHOUSE also said "the end justifies the means."

This same STENHOUSE, now of 8405 West Mercer Way, Mercer Island, Seattle, Washington, was reported by a third source in January, 1967, as having been connected with Vietnam protest matters in the Seattle area during the past year.

The Fellowship of Reconciliation is an international organization founded at Cambridge University, England, in December, 1914, and extended to the United States in November, 1915, with headquarters in New York City, New York. From its inception, the organization has functioned as a semi-religious, socialist-pacifist group. Activities of the Fellowship of Reconciliation have included opposition to peace-time conscription, advocacy of pacifism, work to abolish the Selective Service Act and poll taxes, campaigning for racial equality, advocacy of the establishment of a permanent fair-employment-practices commission, and abolition of the use of the atomic bomb.

Copies of this communication were furnished to Secret Service, U. S. Attorney, Central Intelligence Agency and the intelligence representatives of the Army, Navy, and Air Force covering the Seattle area.

FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1971

One hundred and seventy Americans from 41 states will leave from New York's Kennedy Airport on March 3 for a week-long conference with principals in the Paris talks and others. Their objective is finding out what the requisites for peace in Southeast Asia really are.

The Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina, as the project is called, is sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), Clergy & Laymen Concerned (CALC), and the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR).

Participating in this conference from the Pacific Northwest will be Marie Chakirian, Cashmere, Washington, active in the Episcopal Church and various women's groups; Rudy Gilbert, Unitarian minister, Spokane; and Kenneth A. Kirkpatrick, Director, Peace Education, Pacific Northwest Region, American Friends Service Committee.

"The conference will afford a large number of American citizens access to and thoughtful discussion with many persons long familiar with the Indochina struggle," explained Stewart Meacham, peace education secretary of the AFSC. "We hope that upon their return to the United States, the participants will be new and creative interpreters, in their respective communities, of what they understand the requisites of peace to really be."

Participants expect to meet with representatives of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam (PRG, formerly the National Liberation Front), the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam), the Republic of Vietnam (Saigon) and the U.S. Delegation.

Meetings are also being arranged with representatives of the National United Front of Cambodia, the Laotian Student Union and various independent South Vietnamese groups opposed to the war (including Buddhists, Catholics, students and groups supporting dissident members of the Saigon Administration's National Assembly.)

Mr. Allan Brick, national program director of the FOR, said that in addition to meeting with official government representatives at the peace talks "we are anxious to learn a great deal more about the recent upsurge of civilian resistance to the war in the large cities of South Vietnam. We want to reach a better understanding of what the Vietnamese people themselves are struggling for."

The Rev. Richard Fernandez, director of CALC, indicated that "the conference will come at an extremely propitious moment given the United States second invasion of a sovereign country (Laos) in less than eleven months. Mr. Melvin Laird," the clergyman continued, "has told us that the invasion of Laos doesn't represent a widening of the war -- we are interested to see what both Asians and Europeans see in this new move."

Clergy and Laymen Concerned (CALC), and Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR). They departed JFK Airport in New York City about 10:00 p.m. on Wednesday, 3/3/71, aboard Icelandic Flight #200. They arrived in Luxemburg about 2:00 p.m. on 3/4/71 and boarded chartered buses to Paris, a trip of about five hours. The participants were lodged in the Hotel Garnier and the Modern Palace Hotel.

ALLEN BRICK, an associate executive of the FOR, acted as the group's spokesman.

On Friday, 3/5/71, the delegation met at the Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) Information Bureau, 39 Avenue Georges Mandel.

ALLEN BRICK set out instructions on conduct and cautioned them not to inflame or irritate friends from the North or say anything that might force them into a bargaining position. It is their policy that no individual discuss these matters with members of the press. JOAN HULL, from New York would serve the press representatives and she would furnish them only sufficient information to relieve their anxieties.

CANDY PUTTER of Philadelphia was critical of Ambassador DAVID BRUCE for seeing only a delegation of 12 and not the entire group. She was instructed to contact the U.S. Embassy for reconsideration.

XUAN THUY, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, extended greetings. He related details of Vietnam history, their struggle with the French. The United States wanted the French to continue with the war but they could not so the Geneva Conference was signed in 1954. These agreements recognized the independence, the sovereignty, the unity, and the territorial integrity of Vietnam.

The Vietnamese want the war ended. As for POWs, there can be no release until after the war. The DRV proposed a deadline of 6/30/71. XUAN THUY stated he mentioned this proposal to Ambassador BRUCE but he did not agree.

PH 100-52549

President NIXON claimed the invasion of Cambodia was just and now he says the same of Laos. Americans will be fighting wars for a long time. The widening of the war will only serve to hinder the withdrawal of troops. Since both of these have failed, NIXON will perhaps plan to invade North Vietnam. The Vietnamese want peace to rebuild their country. Once peace is obtained, North Vietnam will continue on its socialist path, while South Vietnam will follow neutralism.

The Vietnamese with the support of the Laotian people and other socialist countries are determined to continue the fight until they have general independence and freedom.

On Saturday, 3/6/71, Mme. BINH addressed the group at the PRG Information Bureau and stated she hoped the delegation during a limited time would be able to view their attitude and their position. She wished to bring about the clarification of relations between the Vietnamese and the American people. Few nations in the world have undergone such dreadful trials as the Vietnamese in order to defend freedom and human dignity. Their greatest desire is to live freely on their own soil. She claimed the NIXON administration with its superiority of weapons has sown death, destruction, and hatred on their soil. The American GIs do not consider the Vietnamese as human beings and they kill men, women, and children.

The speakers from the Laotian Student Union claim the army in South Vietnam is a puppet army of the United States. The United States should end the war in Vietnam and let the Vietnamese solve their own problems.

The morale of the South Vietnam and U.S. Armies is low. The Laotians want the Americans out of Laos. These speakers reviewed the history of Laos and related the plans of invasion on Route 9 to cut the country in half and then continue north. The United States has dropped more than 3,000 tons of bombs on Laos everyday. The American imperialists have tried to shame the friendship and solidarity between the Laotians, Cambodians, and the Vietnamese. The patriotic forces in Laos are winning more and more victories.

The Black Caucus of about eight members was formed and planned to submit resolutions at the news conference on Monday.

On Sunday, 3/6/71, THICK NHAT HANH, head of the Buddhist delegation in Paris, claimed that all warring parties want a cease fire but they say it must be negotiated. The Vietnamese people want an active end to the killing and destruction. The Saigon Government opposes a cease fire for they claim it would benefit the Viet Cong. The United States talks about a cease fire but only for the sake of propaganda.

HANH stated the U.S. Government can stop this war and put an end to the killing. The American people can exert pressure but the pressure can only be effective if the people are united. He urged them to unite and form a strong coalition. If it were in his power he would withdraw the troops now instead of waiting for a specified date.

The group was also addressed by Father NGUYEN DINH, Movement of Catholics and Service of the Nation in South Vietnam; Mde. PHAN THI THIEN TU representing the Committee of Opposition Forces in South Vietnam; and THICK THIEN CHAU, a Buddhist Monk.

FRENCH PROFESSOR

On Sunday afternoon WILFRED BURCHETT, JACQUE DE CORNOY, Professor JOHN CHESNEAUX, Miss MARY MC CARTHY (U.S.), and PEGGY DUFF, International Confederation for Peace and Disarmament, addressed the group.

British

100-445957

In the evening Mr. CHAU SENG, Ambassador from the United Front of Cambodia, addressed the group.

On Monday, 3/8/71, the delegation held a press conference at which ALLEN BRICK reviewed the activities of the delegation including sessions with XUAN THUY, Mme. BINK, Laotian Student Union, Cambodian representatives, as well as journalists, academicians, and experts on Indo-China which included WILFRED BURCHETT, JACQUE DE CORNOY, SERGE THION, Professor JOHN CHESNEAUX, Miss MARY MC CARTHY (U.S.), and PEGGY DUFF, International Confederation for Peace and Disarmament.

A panel of seven represented the delegation and met with officials of the press. Although BRICK was the spokesman, STAN DALE, WDAI Radio, Chicago, Ill., was the most outspoken and he criticized the press for not telling the truth to the American people.

The group was critical of DAVID BRUCE, U.S. Peace Negotiator, for limiting the delegation to 12 whereas XUAN THUY and Mme. BINK addressed the entire group. Also, the use of tape recorders was not permitted at meeting with BRUCE although PRG and DRV permitted their use.

Mrs. ALLIDES CHRISTOPHER, Camden, N.J., stated the Afro-Americans have fought exploitation and oppression for more than 350 years. Because of their historical background they intimately identify themselves with the struggle for self-determination in which the Vietnamese people are now fighting. They fully understand the racist nature of the war in Indo-China as well as death and degradation imperialism brings. As long as America wastes her economic, technology, and human resources for the destruction abroad she cannot meet her demands at home. As long as the Indo-Chinese or any society in the human race is subjected to American oppression, we will not be free.

Ambassador BRUCE met with delegation and Ambassador PHAM DANG LAM of South Vietnam met with group. LAM asked American help and assured them U.S. assistance is needed. South Vietnam has exerted efforts to make certain U.S. soldiers can return home but this would be only if Hanoi withdraws its troops from South Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia as troops of aggression. The communists claim they want a political settlement which begins with the overthrow of the elected government of South Vietnam. A settlement by the communists would not settle the problem as the people would live under a forced rule.

In his own view peace is nearer than most people think. Films depicted progress in South Vietnam.

Those who met with Ambassador BRUCE reported back to their respective groups on what transpired. BRUCE reportedly stated a date of complete withdrawal could not be set. It would run the risk of not having a fruitful negotiation. The South Vietnam government is legal, it exists. XUAN THUY is a propagandist and the Viet Cong have no power. BRUCE would not admit Saigon is a puppet government and he did not believe the POW problem would be settled if a withdrawal date were set.

BRUCE also reportedly stated that Mme. BINH has no official status. The delegates attempted to discuss Vietnamese history with him but he refused. The delegation claims he is not aware of their history and does not care.

Mr. MILLER of the U.S. Embassy, Paris, France, explained the negotiation picture of the United States. The United States made proposals for a peaceful negotiation and the North Vietnamese turned them down the very same day and even objected to discussing them. North Vietnam wants the United States out of Vietnam by June 30th.

The North Vietnamese refused to talk directly to the Saigon Government. The South Vietnamese refused to negotiate with the PRG. The war continues in Indo-China solely because Hanoi desires it.

A question-and-answer session followed.

The participants boarded buses at 6:00 a.m., traveled from Paris to Luxemburg, and departed Luxemburg via Islandic Airlines; and arrived in New York about 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, 3/10/71. Some participants planned to contact their respective senators and congressmen in Washington, D.C.

There are no definite plans for future action but they were urged to bring pressure to bear on Federal lawmakers, state and local officials, and have them urge President NIXON to bring the troops home immediately.

Troops abroad are delaying any fruitful negotiation in Paris.

a letterhead memorandum will be submitted as soon as they

Tom opened the meeting by suggesting that before the Committee meets again its members should be officially confirmed by the Philadelphia AFSC. Also, Tom said the Committee itself should now assume the responsibility for appointing new members.

Stewart brought the Committee up to date on the "Jefferson Airplane" trip to Paris. The plane will bring about 35 Americans to Paris from March 3-10 to meet and discuss with Vietnamese there the conditions for ending the war. They will also meet with U.S. officials there if the U.S. agrees. The people on the Airplane trip will then be able to return to their communities to discuss what they have learned. This will also be tied in to organizing around the People's Peace Treaty.

In relation to the Committee, Stewart noted that when the AFSC office was moved from Houston to San Antonio, the idea was that programs should only be attempted in maybe 3 cities instead of trying to work in 8 or 9. Committees would then be set up in 3 cities and there would be no Area Committee as such; there would, however, be an advisory group which would be made up of people from throughout the Area and which would meet once or twice a year.

The committee agreed with Stewart that this was a good general set-up and that plans should be made to put it into practice. Stewart noted that the San Antonio AFSC office was more of a "movement"-type office but that all AFSC programs in the Area do not have to be these type of programs. Specifically, there are possibilities of working in Houston with a more liberal BEM-type constituency. Tom felt that he would be comfortable doing this but would have to spend more time in Houston than he is presently doing. The rest of the staff felt that if Tom were to do this, they could handle the San Antonio AFSC office. It was noted that Mary Jensen was voluntarily handling all bills at the present time.

UNDER OLD BUSINESS, it was noted that the status of the coffee house proposal submitted in request of funds to the AFSC Youth Affairs Division had for the moment been turned down but that a new request would be submitted.

ALSO UNDER OLD BUSINESS, Hennacy House is running with some 15 permanent people. All are contributing some $10-$15/month to keep the house above water financially.

The situation in Bexar County Jail was discussed again with the Committee approving Staff Work being done in this area. Stewart noted that often radical action combined with support from the liberal establishment-type community could force changes to be made. Efforts, he said, should probably be made on both fronts.

Ira Peine reported on the War Tax Resistance Rally that was held in Austin in December and also on the protest held in front of the telephone company the first Tuesday in February. A War Tax Committee has been formed which will hold monthly rallies at the phone company. People will publicly refuse to pay their telephone tax turning the money over to a group working to help the community in some way. (Last month's money went to the United Farmworkers.)

John Stanford suggested the idea of a local People's Coalition for Peace and Justice in order that all groups working for various human rights can get the maximum of support and cooperation. John will work out a plan for implementing the coalition.

CONFIDENTIAL

BLACK PANTHER PARTY (BPP),
also known as
Black Panther Party for Self Defense

According to the official newspaper of the BPP, the BPP was started during December, 1966, in Oakland, California, to organize black people so they can take control of the life, politics, and the destiny of the black community. It was organized by Bobby G. Seale, BPP Chairman, and Huey P. Newton, Minister of Defense, BPP.

The official newspaper, called "The Black Panther," regularly states that the BPP advocates the use of guns and guerrilla tactics in its revolutionary program to end oppression of the black people. Residents of the black community are urged to arm themselves against the police who are consistently referred to as "pigs" who should be killed.

The newspaper, in its issue of September 7, 1968, had an article by the then Minister of Education, George Murray. This article ended with the following:

"Black men. Black people, colored persons of America, revolt everywhere! Arm yourselves. The only culture worth keeping is revolutionary culture. Change. Freedom everywhere. Dynamite! Black power. Use the gun. Kill the pigs everywhere."

The BPP newspaper, issue of October 5, 1968, had an article introduced with the following statement: "We will not dissent from American government. We will overthrow it."

David Hilliard, Chief of Staff, BPP, in a speech at the San Francisco Polo Field on November 15, 1969, said "We will kill Richard Nixon."

David Hilliard, in the "New York Times," issue of December 13, 1969, was quoted as follows: "We advocate the very direct overthrow of the government by way of force and violence."

APPENDIXCONFIDENTIALBLACK PANTHER PARTY (BPP)

In the issue of April 25, 1970, the BPP newspaper had an article by Minister of Culture Emory Douglas as follows:

"The only way to make this racist US government administer justice to the people it is oppressing, is...by taking up arms against this government, killing the officials, until the reactionary forces... are dead, and those that are left turn their weapons on their superiors, thereby passing revolutionary judgement against the number one enemy of all mankind, the racist U. S. government."

The BPP Headquarters is located at 1046 Peralta Street, Oakland, California. Branches of the BPP, and Committees to Combat Fascism, under control of the BPP, have been established in various locations in the USA.

A first source advised that on January 25, 1967, an organizational meeting of a new group to be known as the San Antonio Committee to End the War in Vietnam was held in the Texas Room of the Gunter Hotel, San Antonio, Texas.

On February 3, 1967, the name of the organization was changed to San Antonio Committee to Stop the War in Vietnam (SACSWIV).

A second source advised that the constitution was finally adopted on February 23, 1967. The group was formed to offer an opportunity to study and promote the achievement of peace.

A third source advised that on May 29, 1966, at the Texas CP Convention held in San Antonio, Texas, John Stanford was elected Chairman of the CP of Texas. COMMITTEE, AND FELLOWSHIP OF RECONCILIATION,
MARCH 3-10, 1971

On March 11 and 12, 1971, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that approximately 170 individuals participating in the Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina, sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), The Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam (CALCAV), and the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR), departed John F. Kennedy Airport in New York City about 10 o'clock on Wednesday night, March 3, 1971, aboard Icelandic Airlines Flight 200. Other seats on the plane were filled with random travelers. They arrived in Luxembourg about 2 p.m. on March 4, 1971, and they boarded a fleet of chartered buses to Paris, France, a trip of about five hours. The participants were lodged in the Hotel Carnier and The Modern Palace Hotel.

ALLAN BRICK, an Associate Executive of the FOR, acted as the group's spokesman. The staff which met regularly, including BRICK, consisted of the following:

CANDY PUTTER of the AFSC, Philadelphia, Pa.

JOAN HULL, a representative of AFSC, New York City with the explanation that DRV is the designation for The Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam) and PRG is the first activity was to be held Friday, March 5, 1971,

ALLAN BRICK, spokesman for the group, addressed desired to reiterate a policy concerning the press. He stated there is a tremendous interest in their presence in Paris and this is all to the good. That means there will be tremendous press interest in their press conference scheduled Monday, March 8, 1971. The participants should not be persuaded from their focus on this conference, but press interviewers will be trying to approach them to get a statement. Early statements could be prejudicial to the group, and it could skim the cream off any important story that might begin with Monday's press conference. The importance of their focus is on the period when they return home and what happens there.

JOAN HULL was assigned the responsibility of press representative. She will relieve any anxieties that the press may have and keep them advised when we are going to communicate and who will be doing that communicating. Similarly, if those at the meeting were approached and felt confused or had any questions, they were to consult with staff members already designated.

BRICK further stated that the group was meeting on that day under very unusual circumstances. The atmosphere has become even more strained between the U. S. Government and the North Vietnamese as of yesterday when President NIXON made a speech and the recent news released in effect threatening an atmosphere of resumed bombing of the North. NIXON has not said this but this seems imminent. Under these circumstances they are especially grateful that it was possible for them to meet that morning as originally planned. He stated that the group was here first and foremost to hear from our Vietnamese friends, whatever they have to say to us, and they have been very gracious about this. We are here to have an interchange with them, to ask questions, to get their point of view, and in a questioning atmosphere to give our point of view. This does not mean presentations from individuals. This does not mean a prepared presentation. Certainly, it doesn't mean anything that hasn't been discussed already. Any strong presentation, no matter how well conceived nor how beneficial, would jeopardize the atmosphere existing that morning. Should anybody have any questions, they should contact him; but, due to the time pressure, now was not the time.

BRICK stated that some people have come to Paris after having communicated with wives and relatives of prisoners of war, people reportedly held in North Vietnam or Laos. That is very natural after having some communication from people in the States with POW relatives or POW wives. It would be quite appropriate in discussion periods to raise questions about the POW issue and how our Vietnamese friends approach that issue and what it means to them. It would, by no means, be appropriate to read the presentations or forward plans to them either in group sessions or outside of group sessions about how we think they should relate to the POW issue.

BRICK stated, "I have to say this very flatly to you that at this time we are here under the auspices of three peace organizations and I would beg anyone who has conceived plans along the above lines to discuss them with the staff first."

CANDY PUTTER of Philadelphia remarked that she hoped everyone had received the revised program at the hotel. She assumed they had since they had all come to the right place. She did not desire to review the entire program for the week but, due to the time pressure, did want to discuss a few matters with them. She stated they will have a presentation with Mr. XUAN THUY and they will spend the entire day at that place. Lunch will be brought in by some friends and French students and Americans in Paris. That evening films will be shown beginning at 8:30 p.m. and continuing until 11 o'clock. She explained these films were very kindly loaned to them by friends of The Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) and the Provisional Revolutionary Government of The Republic of South Vietnam (PRG) and a few films had been brought along from the States. This will be a long session, but she felt the Vietnamese films should be seen first because the other films can be seen back in the States later if they so desired. She stated the Vietnamese films are very, very good and very important.

PUTTER stated there is one question that should be resolved and this concerned Monday's meeting with American Ambassador DAVID K. E. BRUCE. She stated she understood this question was discussed at length at the Plenary Session in New York just prior to their boarding the plane, but she wanted to tell them what has transpired since then. She claimed she went to the American Embassy and asked them if the Ambassador would meet with the entire group rather than just 12 representatives as previously agreed. She made a strong plea that he meet with the entire delegation. The matter of meeting with the entire group was originally considered impossible by the Ambassador so she proposed that he meet with perhaps half the group or even 80 people. This was considered and later she received a telephone call stating this was out of the question and that Ambassador BRUCE would meet with only 12 people and, therefore, she proposed that she contact the American Embassy in Paris and express to them again the strong feelings from the group that they want to meet at least with a larger group, perhaps half or even a quarter, but specifically more than 12 people. It also was not completely clear whether it would be Ambassador BRUCE or someone else from the Embassy meeting with them. She also proposed that when she ask for a larger group, she demand that Ambassador BRUCE attend this meeting.

After further discussion, it was resolved that PUTTER should contact the American Embassy to request a larger group than 12 be granted permission to meet with Ambassador BRUCE and that Ambassador BRUCE, and not another member of his staff, meet with them.

CANDY PUTTER then introduced Minister XUAN THUY, who is the leader of the delegation of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam to the Paris peace talks. She also introduced NGUYEN BEN VI (phonetic), deputy leader of the delegation and deputy general of the peace committee, and Mr. DOS WAN WAN (phonetic), who is the secretary of the peace committee and secretary of the Committee of Solidarity with The American People. He is also reported to be a fine composer.

XUAN THUY spoke in Vietnamese, but his remarks were relayed through an interpreter. He began by stating that in his language there is a saying that when people separated by a long distance come together they manifest humor, faith and warm feelings. There is another saying that Vietnamese always treat their friends with warm feelings, particularly friends who come from afar. As far as the Vietnamese are concerned, we came from Hanoi a very long distance away. You have come from various States in the United States, also a very long distance away. Therefore, combining the two sayings of the Vietnamese language, we show warm feelings to one another. He indicated it was a great pleasure for him to meet with them and extend to them his warmest greetings.

XUAN THUY stated that they particularly would like to know about the situation in Vietnam and the situation of the Paris conference on Vietnam. He could not see how they could understand these situations but he would like to expound on the situation from his point of view. He then related facts concerning Vietnam history and the process of United States intervention in Vietnam. He stated that 100 years ago Vietnam was an independent and united country, but then from 1946 until 1950 there was war and the French suffered many defeats. Many difficulties economically and politically arose in France and the United States had to help the French in their aggression. They assisted the French in the fields of war expenditures, in the fields of war armaments, and in the fields of operational plans. At that time the slogan for the Vietnamese people was to fight against the French aggressors and against the United States interventionists.

At another time the Soviet Union was very far away from Vietnam and China; the revolutionary forces of China were still up north, very far in the north, but the Vietnamese people were determined to fight against the French aggression and the war went on until 1954. After the battle of Dienbienphu, the French realized they no longer wished to carry on the war. The U. S. Government wanted the French to continue with the war, but the French could not, and the Geneva Conference was signed in 1954. The 1954 Geneva Agreement recognized the independence, the sovereignty, the unity and the territorial integrity of Vietnam. The Vietnamese called these the fundamental principles of the Geneva Agreement. Under these agreements the war must be ended and peace must be restored, and to achieve these aims the belligerent forces must be separated and regrouped into two parts.

It is the opinion of the U. S. Government that the Indochinese region is very rich in raw materials and natural resources and the United States feels they must exploit these. Indochina also has a very important strategic significance in the military field. Because of this the U. S. Government forced the French to recognize the NGO DINH DIEM administration.

Concerning the question of prisoners of war, XUAN THUY stated the Vietnamese value human beings. We understand and we sympathize with the feelings of the American people and with the feelings of the Vietnamese people. We were fighting against the French and we gave French POWs good treatment, but only after the end of the war will this POW question be settled. Now that the question has arisen, let me ask you who sent them to their deaths? Who sent them to captivity? We should find out this cause so we will realize the cause. Once the bombing is stopped the killing will stop and the war will end, and then Vietnam fighters can go home and United States soldiers will join their families. But Mr. NIXON of the United States administration refuses to do this. On one hand he insists on the release of prisoners while on the other hand he continues to carry on the war. Why does Mr. NIXON keep on demanding the release of American prisoners and why does he continue to kill and massacre the Vietnamese? Thousands of bombs are dropped daily on Vietnam killing thousands of people. This cannot be considered a humane act. As for the Vietnamese, we value any human being whether they be black, white, yellow or any color; we value them all.

Now we speak of Christianity. All humans are our sons, our girls all are of Christ. Any country whether it be great, big or small, they are equal. Aggression should not be waged by one country against another. In the five points of Mr. NIXON's statement, the two troop withdrawal questions and the political question of South Vietnam are very vague terms. Because these terms are very vague, Mr. NIXON never mentioned a deadline for the withdrawal of troops: therefore, the PRG has proposed a concrete deadline of June 30, 1971, for the complete withdrawal of troops.

THUY continued that he had asked Mr. BRUCE the same question many times and he told him that PRG has set a deadline. He asked BRUCE if he agreed with it and if he didn't then propose another deadline and "we shall examine your proposal". He has even told Mr. BRUCE that he probably agrees with the deadline of June 30; but possibly his country feels another proposal is best and the Vietnamese shall help him solve these difficulties. XUAN THUY stated he does not believe that the United States does not have sufficient means to transport the troops back home. But suppose this is the case and Vietnam does not have the necessary transportation. If this is the case, then Vietnam could borrow from other countries. Since Mr. BRUCE could not give an answer to this question, it was apparent he did not want to withdraw all his troops.

NGUYEN VAN THIEU does not agree with the question of neutrality of all Southeast Asia. Therefore, it is impossible to arrive at a peaceful settlement. That is the

CONFIDENTIAL

TRAVEL OF U. S. CITIZENS TO PARIS, FRANCE,
SPONSORED BY CALCAV, AFSC, AND FOF, 3/3-10/71

reason why the PRG demands that THIEU, KY and THIEM be removed and a new administration be formed in South Vietnam. This new administration should stand for peace, independence, neutrality, and democracy in South Vietnam and this administration should talk with PRG to settle the problem. This demand is not a demand put forward only by the National Liberation Front and the PRG, but the press in South Vietnam and the various strata of South Vietnamese people, including the intellectuals, the students, and the working people, are all demanding the formation of a new administration in South Vietnam. Mr. NIXON realizes he cannot apply pressure to us and compel us to accept United States terms. Then he extended the war to Cambodia and staged a coup d'etat.

XUAN THUY stated he would like to advise that the United States and the Saigon puppet troops have found it very difficult to advance. It has also been very difficult to withdraw, but now Mr. NIXON is taking another step by invading Laos. This will not help South Vietnamese matters, and there is some talk about an invasion of North Vietnam. The United States is now massing forces south of the 17th parallel. Mr. NIXON has called United States Marines from Okinawa to nearby South Vietnam and assigned more warships of the 7th Fleet to the area of the Gulf. For the last few days the B-52 combat planes and many other types of planes have been carrying on intensive bombing against North Vietnam. If Mr. NIXON fails again in North Vietnam, will he further extend the war?

On February 25, Mr. NIXON made a speech to introduce his message on the state of the world addressed to the United States Congressmen. The gist of that message is the implementation of the NIXON doctrine and Vietnamization of the war in Indochina. Instead of ending the war, this will prolong it. This means the American people will be tied down to the war machinery. On the previous evening at 3 a.m. Paris time, March 5, NIXON held a press conference during which he stated that since he came to power American casualties have been reduced.

United States forces have been reduced by one-half already. He reported the United States operation in Cambodia was correct and just. The invasion by South Vietnamese forces with United States support in Laos is correct and just.

The widening of the war is only hampering the withdrawal of United States forces. The war was previously limited to South Vietnam, but now the war is extended to Cambodia and Laos. Perhaps, he is even thinking of invading North Vietnam and this too will be a widening of the war. XUAN THUY stated that just recently NGUYEN VAN THIEU issued a statement concerning the possibility of invading North Vietnam. He claimed that since North Vietnam has its forces in South Vietnam, then South Vietnam may also attack the North. The United States has continued its reconnaissance flights but if the reconnaissance flights are shot at, then the United States claims it will have reason to attack immediately. If the North Vietnamese infiltrate forces in South Vietnam at a level endangering the security of United States forces, then the United States will react.

President NIXON has stated that he will withdraw all American forces on two conditions; one, that all North Vietnamese forces be withdrawn and, two, that all American prisoners be released. If these two conditions are not met American forces will remain in South Vietnam. Mr. NIXON was asked to place a deadline on the troop withdrawal but he said none could be revealed. If NIXON alleges his policy of Vietnamization is successful and his doctrine, the NIXON doctrine, is a success, why does he not withdraw all American forces? Since he does not withdraw the American forces, he must realize his Vietnamization policy is a failure. NIXON himself does not want withdrawal of all American forces. Mr. NIXON does not want serious negotiation of a peaceful settlement in Vietnam. Instead, he is seeking a military victory.

THUY has told Mr. BRUCE that the Vietnamese people do want peace. They want peace to rebuild their country because for so many years they have seen it ravaged. They do not want to oppose any American. The Vietnamese oppose only a policy of aggression, a warlike policy of a number of Americans. The Vietnamese consider human beings as friends and they value human beings. We have always considered the American people as our friends. When they were fighting the French aggressors, they were fighting against the colonialism of the French Government. Regardless, they considered the French people their friends. The Vietnamese delegation is willing to discuss the matter of withdrawal in such a way that it will not be a victory for either side. It is provided that Vietnam can become independent when there are no foreign troops on their soil. Let the Vietnamese people settle Vietnamese affairs after the restoration of peace, and Vietnam will not be reunified overnight; North Vietnam will go on its socialist path while South Vietnam will follow neutralism.

Concerning the reunification of the country it will take time. Let the people in the North and South understand each other and let them decide whether they want to reunify. Reunification will then be carried out as desired. There is no hatred among the Vietnamese toward the Americans. They will ask the United States to help them in the technological field and in the scientific field in the reconstruction of their country because everyone knows that technologically and scientifically Vietnamese are more backward than the United States. They are prepared to ask aid and assistance from other countries. North Vietnam will ask assistance not only from the socialist countries, but also from the capitalist countries. They should have trade relations with France. After the restoration of peace, you can help the Vietnamese in the reconstruction and will have trade relations with them. The United States is a beautiful country and both North and South Vietnam is a beautiful country, and perhaps your people in America will come to Vietnam as tourists.

Conditions should be such that Americans and Vietnamese should meet one another by shaking hands and kissing instead of aiming our rifles at each other. If the United States refuses to honor us this way and Mr. NIXON's policy continues to be applied, the Vietnamese people are determined to fight to the end, and not only the Vietnamese but we shall unite with Laos and Cambodian people to continue the fight. They are firmly convinced that their cause is just. They not only have the support of the socialist countries and the peace loving countries, but also the American people. They stated they will fight to the end for genuine independence and freedom. He has discussed with Mr. BRUCE the question of having peace but BRUCE has given him no answer. THUY hoped he had given them some information about the situation in Vietnam and the situation of the Paris Conference on Vietnam.

The participants then broke for lunch.

On Friday and Saturday, March 5 and 6, 1971, there was observed an Indian girl from Wisconsin who was working with the PRG. This girl was later identified as SHIRLEY KEITH (phonetic), and is described as an Indian, tall, ratty, slim build, high cheek bones, and in mid-20's. She is married to a Vietnamese. She is believed to be employed as a secretary and an interpreter. CONFIDENTIAL 1971-1972

After lunch, on Friday, March 5, the members of the delegation were divided into three groups. This was done by a count-off, one, two, three. Thereafter, all those designated number one met in one group, two's in another group, and three's in another group. After this division each group had a question-and-answer session with representatives of the DRV. Among the representatives were NGUYEN PHUONG, an interpreter; PHUOC NGOC PHAI, an attache with the North Vietnam delegation in Paris; and NGUYEN PHUOC LEE, one of the spokesmen for the DRV delegation.

On Saturday, March 6, 1971, Madame NGUYEN THI BINH, chief negotiator for the PRG, spoke before the entire group. She spoke in Vietnamese through an interpreter. She extended greetings to the group and appreciated their interest in the Vietnam situation and their attitude. She indicated she would attempt to explain the position of the PRG. The group will be afforded limited time to get a more comprehensive approach to the attitude and position of the PRG. She wished to bring about a clarification of the relationship existing between the Vietnamese and the American people. Few nations in the world have undergone such dreadful trials as the Vietnam nation in order to defend their independence, freedom, and human dignity. The Vietnamese people are peace-minded people. They want the world's loyalty, friendship, and love. Their greatest ambition has always been to live freely on their own soil and to build a happy life for the future generations.

The present American administration, the NIXON administration in particular, has disregarded all ethics and law and has taken advantage of the superiority of its weapons to sow death, destruction, and hatred on Vietnamese soil. The American GIs in South Vietnam do not consider Vietnamese as humans. They are free to kill and disable anybody, whether they be aged people or women or children. The United States Government has brought about in our country a group of adventurous traitors guilty of bringing death to the same family and having brothers kill brothers, creating tragedy to the Vietnamese people. Have you ever imagined such a tragic situation in the United States, your own country? Planes have been flying overhead dropping napalm, bombs, and destroying our villages. Millions of families have been broken up, fathers have been killed, mothers have been jailed, and children have been wondering what is happening. Couples have been separated for dozens of years. Faced with this situation, the South Vietnamese people on all levels, workers, students, intellectuals, women, religious leaders, businessmen, etc., have acted just like any self-respecting people: that is, they have closely united and firmly opposed the invaders to save their country and their families. Even the most Catholic-religious minded people and stout-hearted women cannot stay silent in the face of so many atrocities and injustices that the aggressive forces of the United States Government have bestowed on us.

Now in South Vietnam so many women have stood up to defend the right to live and turn their love for their homeland and children into courageous deeds. While the people are waging a very hard struggle, they understand that all actions by the U. S. Government in Vietnam originate from the selfish interests of United States war profiteers and rulers. The American people in every walk of life want peace, respect, and freedom just like every other people. The American people have to give their money and their lives to this dirty war which tarnishes the honor of the United States. We believe that any American of good will is aware of the real situation in Vietnam and cannot oppose the distorted war of aggression of his government. This is evidenced by the fact many Americans have courageously voiced their opposition to that war. They demand that the NIXON administration stop it, bring all the GIs home, and respect the national right of the Vietnamese and Indochinese people. You can be sure that many among them are here today.

She wished to tell them and all the American people that her people are sincerely grateful for the genuine Americans because they are working to defend the interest and honor of the United States of America. They also help the Vietnamese to recover their freedom and independence. The NIXON administration is evidently pursuing the war and extension to the whole of Indochina and is preparing very dangerously new military adventures which will bring only more suffering to the Indochinese people. She thinks that more than ever the Vietnamese and the American people need better mutual understanding in order to join their efforts in working toward the end of the war, toward a correct political solution of the South Vietnam problem. We shall have to settle good relations of friendship between the two peoples which control the interests of our people.

She said what she wanted to say and again she wished them all the best of health and best results and she hoped they can meet again some day, not to speak any longer about war, but just to speak about friendship and about Vietnam and American literature and poetry.

CANDY PUTTNER then introduced HOC BINH THAO, a member of the delegation of the M.G, who, speaking in Vietnamese, stated that Madame BINH had spoken about the sentiments of the South Vietnamese people to the American people. To start with he would like to cite a statement made by a Saigon student which appeared in a newspaper published in Saigon on June 17, 1970. Time and again the South Vietnamese people have told the United States they are wrong and would like to ask the United States if they are only struggling against the American war mongers, against exploitation. The Vietnamese demand the right to live.

In order to speak to you with sentiments of the Vietnamese people, students, brothers, sisters, and mothers, our feelings are the same. Mr. NIXON declared when he succeeded JOHNSON that the war would end within six months and within six months peace would be restored in Vietnam. NIXON has not ended the war in Vietnam but has extended the war into Cambodia and Laos. It would have been better for this meeting today to have taken place in Saigon or in another place, in New York. It would have been better today to discuss the problems of culture, economy, social affairs, and literature.

In 1969 Mr. NIXON said it was time to have a new, immediate end to the war. Everybody realizes that Mr. NIXON's statement to end the war is the NIXON doctrine and Vietnamization. We want the American war in Vietnam to be cut down to be sure that the Vietnamese people have the right to self-determination. According to NIXON's Vietnamization, it has two main components: one, to enhance the Saigon puppet troops and, two, to realize the long-scale pacification campaign. By bolstering the Saigon puppet the administration's armed forces had begun massive raids. The United States and Saigon armies increased the number of their troops. The schoolboys 15 and 16 years old were drafted as well as men over 50. The United States is arming them with new weapons and new means, but one thing Mr.

NIXON can never achieve is to improve the fighting spirit, to enhance the morale of the Saigon puppet troops. Because of the escalation in Laos and Cambodia, the soldiers in the Saigon army realize they are dying a useless death and they are not dying for the fatherland. General DO CAO TRI has remarked about the low morale of the puppet troops. He declared the liberated armed forces have been defeated and driven into the jungle. Unfortunately, General TRI was shot down and was killed. Meanwhile, the morale of the United States troops is also very low.

Local administrations have suppressed free elections that existed previously. The heads of districts and the heads of provinces are now controlling their elections by physical means. They are under control of the imperialists.

The struggle of the Laotian people has a long history. In early 1900 they were fighting against the French. The Laotian invasion is now in its fourth week and presently violence exists throughout the whole country. It is generally an operation carried out by American and Saigon troops. The operation on Route 9 is the most important path. On February 8th forces of the Saigon regime supported by America invaded lower Laos. They traveled on Route 9 which is the only road which joins the western part of Vietnam and is the narrowest point of Indochina. One of the objectives for this path on Route 9 was to occupy the small town of Khe Sanh. This would give them an opportunity then to march north and into North Vietnam. This operation is called "Operation 719". Once this zone has been occupied, the Americans can then extend the operation to the whole of Indochina. This is to say first of all, they want to control Route 9. This would become a strategic road enabling them to join their bases in Thailand in the west and the China Sea where the Seventh Fleet is stationed. Laos would then be cut in half. The second objective would be to start operations of search and destroy toward the south of the country toward the Bolovens Plateau where American and satellite troops on the frontier would join other troops. The third objective would be the march towards the north which is considered the center of Laotian resistance. These objectives are the most ambitious and the most dangerous.

What JOHNSON was not able to do, NIXON is trying. What MC NAMARA wanted to do is cut Laos in half by an electrified drive. NIXON is trying to cut Laos in half with fire and blood. This is the policy of the American Government in Laos. This is a policy that NIXON has followed which some people refer to as Vietnamization.

In order to better understand the events in Laos one must know the activities of the American imperialists over the past year. After reviewing these facts, you will understand this Asian policy of NIXON's and why he launched the invasion. The aim of the Americans has now changed since the second world war to the occupation of the Laotian territory where they hope to make an American military base. Vietnam is considered a balcony on the Pacific and Laos is the sword into the heart of Asia. This is what the American strategists say. With relation to our country, this policy has already been put into application for many years. The Americans first used military and economic aid, then they used the South Vietnam advisors to control the Vientiane administration. Some of the organizations involved were the Progressive Evaluation Office, the military assistance advisors group, and the U. S. Information Service, the U. S. Army and the Marines. The American Embassy, which is an absolute pro-military consulate, and SEATO should also be cited.

There are more than 700 people working at the American Embassy. The Geneva Conference in 1962 was extremely important to the Laotian people. At this conference it was recognized that independence, neutrality, territorial sovereignty, and peace exist in Laos, excepting violence of course. The Geneva accord was a very hard blow to the American aim in Laos and, as a result, Americans began to sabotage them. First of all they tried to establish a pro-American administration by using corrupt elements. Then they tried to use military personnel, and then they began to assassinate neutral ministers. In 1964 they overthrew the national union government and replaced it with a puppet administration. They practiced the policy of peace and neutrality but in reality this administration was illeral. They used puppet troops to mount attacks and encroachment on the liberated zone. NIXON chose Laos as a testing ground for his policy of Vietnamization. He dropped in re-enforcements consisting of many units of artillery and infantry from Thailand. American planes bombed the liberated zones daily. We have counted more than 3,000 tons of bombs every day on the Laotian territory. No village in the liberated zone was spared. Politically the American imperialists have tried to slander, to shame the friendship and solidarity between Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam. They have also tried to smother the struggle for a political settlement of the Laos concepts but the situation is not resolving in the direction it was hoped. Presently, more than two-thirds of the territory has been liberated. More than one-half of the population is under the direction of the Laotian people who are unifying themselves. The major nationalities and minorities have the same rights in Laos. They are unified paternally and they are helping each other in combat and agricultural production and daily living.

In spite of the many difficulties caused by the war and the natural conditions, the liberated zone has gone forward. The patriotic forces are winning more and more victories throughout the country. The Laotian government proposed on March 6, 1971, its five-point political settlement. These include the sovereignty, neutrality, and territorial integrity of Laos, that there be no participation and military alliances with any other country, and the unification of Laos should be done with consultation between interested Laos parties and the Laos problems should be resolved by the people in Laos. So that this might be accomplished, America must immediately end its escalation and cease bombing of this territory.

On Saturday, March 6, 1971, a black caucus was formed among the participants, consisting of ALLIANCE CHRISTIAN of Camden, N. J., WILLIAM LUNSFORD of Baltimore, Md., MUHAMMAD of Philadelphia, Pa., Reverend EARL HIGGAN from Baltimore, VINCENT TREMBELL from St. Louis, Mo., ROBERT JONES from Maryland, plus two others. The black caucus was to meet separately and prepare demands to be submitted at the news conference on Monday, March 8, 1971.

On Saturday night, March 6, 1971, at a plenary session of the group, a discussion was held to choose the 12 delegates to meet with Ambassador BRUCE. After discussing various methods of electing these representatives, it was resolved that a male and female from each group would be appointed and then they would elect three others from that group. Those selected to meet with Ambassador BRUCE were the following:

MARIAN FUSON
PAULINE BUCK
TOM MEYERS
TOM BRODWATER
D. AG BEY
VINCENT HARDING
BOB BONNET
Sister MARGARET TRAXLER
PAUL GIBBONS
BUD OGLE
KEN KIRKPATRICK

On March 6, 1971, while attending a meeting in the PRG Information Bureau, there was observed in the corner of the room a large glass-enclosed showcase. Inside the showcase were the personal cards of a First Lieutenant named CHARLES STEPHAN PRINCO. Additional cards reflect PRINCO was a graduate of the Air Force Academy and prominently displayed were his Social Security card and officer's mess card, a bank check-cashing card from Denver, and his military driver's license. Also in the display were several pieces of metal ornately engraved with battle scenes. It was stated that the pieces of metal were pieces of aircraft which had been shot down over North Vietnam. Some people have taken similar pieces of metal and made rings which have been sold.

On Sunday, March 7, 1971, speakers from Non-Front Resistance groups in South Vietnam spoke before the group in the amphitheatre at the University of Paris.

THICK NHAT HANH, head of the Paris delegation with the Unified Buddhist Church in South Vietnam and Vietnam, who is also the official delegation, though not officially recognized by the governments with power who have been operating in terms of three delegations, was introduced by ALLAN BRICK. THICK NHAT HANH stated that he believed he was to answer the question of how Vietnamese people want to get out of Vietnam and how the warring countries think the war can be ended. He claims the people involved have been talking about the political settlement of the war and many proposals have been submitted. Many proposals, which are directly from the Vietnamese leaders who have been suffering much more from this war than others, have not been heard. Unless we are aware of these facts, we cannot understand the situation.

The leaders of all the warring parties are not in favor of a cease-fire. The Saigon Government opposes a cease-fire, saying that such a cease-fire would benefit the Viet Cong. The Provisional Revolutionary Government opposes a cease-fire because it would benefit the Americans. The United States Government talks about a cease-fire, but only for the sake of propaganda. President NIXON has talked of a cease-fire, but he has tied it to conditions which are not acceptable by the North Vietnamese. The people in Paris have proposed cease-fire proposals but they claim these must be negotiated. THICK NHAT HANH stated that he cannot understand why a cease-fire has to be negotiated, when all they have to do is to lay down their arms and quit shooting. The people in Vietnam want the cessation of the war immediately. They do not want the war to continue. If he had it in his power to declare a cease-fire, he would do it now, do it immediately, and then demand the United States set up a date for withdrawal of all its troops.

In general, people believe that a peace must follow a political settlement of the war. The Vietnamese Buddhists do desire a political settlement and have submitted a six-point proposal along this line. Some people have mentioned the similarity between the Buddhists six points and the eight-point proposal of the PHC. However, there is a very important difference in our six points in that we have given priority to a cease-fire rather than a preliminary settlement.

The United States Government can stop this war. The American people can exert pressure but this pressure can only be effective when the people are united. He encouraged them to get united and they should develop a strong coalition. They should work for a cease-fire rather than be divided on the issue of how the war can be ended. THICK NHAT HANH stated that the people in Vietnam are suffering from the war and the NIXON Vietnamization has not helped the Vietnamese. He termed NIXON's Vietnamization a policy of Vietnamese killing Vietnamese.

THICK NIAT HANH encouraged these people to continue to work for peace in Vietnam so that peace might come to all peoples.

Father ~~NGUYEN DINH~~ THI, head of the movement of Vietnam Catholics in Service of the Nation, stated that there are approximately 3,000,000 Catholics in both North and South Vietnam. Religious freedom is enjoyed in North Vietnam. There is no conflict between the Catholics in North Vietnam and the Government. Their relationship with the Vatican has been cut off due to politics but they are hoping this contact be re-established soon. All the Catholics want peace which they feel is necessary for the survival of their church. The young Catholic workers and the Catholic youth as well as other groups are working along peace lines to put pressure on the Government to bring peace. Father THI hoped that all parties would work for the ending of the war so that peace could be restored to all people.

This group was also addressed by Mme. PHAN THI THIEN/TH, representing the Committee of Opposition Forces in ~~South~~ Vietnam, and THICK TH THINH/CHU, a Buddhist monk. Both of these speakers favored a cease-fire immediately and the removal of all United States troops from Vietnam. They claim the NIXON doctrine, the Vietnamization Program, has not helped the Vietnamese people but has only escalated the war into Cambodia and Laos.

On Sunday afternoon, the group met with WILFRED ~~AMERCHETT~~, JACQUES DE CORNOY, Professor JOHN ~~CHESTER~~ ~~EX~~, Miss ERLY MC CARTHY (U.S.) and PEGGY ~~QUFF~~, International Confederation for Peace and Disarmament. These individuals were either journalists or specialists on Indochina.

In the evening Mr. CHAN SENG, Ambassador from the United Front of Cambodia, addressed the group. SENG was critical of the United States aggression in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos. He emphasized the importance of getting the United States troops out of Indochina so that the people in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia can settle their own problems. He claimed that NIXON's Vietnamization Program has not proven successful but has only escalated the war.

On Monday morning, March 8, 1971, a conference was held with members of the press. Among the members of the press were JOHN CALLISON (CBS), Mr. HESS (New York newspaper), GARRETT UTLEY (NBC), as well as representatives from the Associated Press and the United Press International. Those representatives of the group sitting on the panel were Dr. ROHL FIELDS, Professor of Psychology, Pacific Oaks College, Pasadena, California, HARRIET PRICE, Southwest Harbor, Maine, PAUL J. HESON, Attorney from Boston, STAN DALE (WDAI Radio), Chicago, Ill., ALLISON CHRISTOPHER, Camden, N. J., Mr. WILLIAM LUNSFORD, Baltimore, Md., and ALLAN BRICK, who acted as spokesman.

At this press conference, ALLAN BRICK identified himself as the Associate Executive of the Fellowship of Reconciliation in the United States which was one of the three sponsoring organizations for the Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina. The other two organizations sponsoring the Citizens Committee are the American Friends Service Committee and the Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam. He further stated these three organizations have made it possible for 171 Americans from 41 States to come to Paris to spend a week listening to the Vietnamese and other Chinese gathering information from them on what they consider the requisite for peace in Indochina and at the same time going to the American delegation and the Saigon delegation and getting their positions. Then they intend to go back to the United States and express their conclusions and feelings in individual areas in the 41 States.

BRICK then ran through the schedule, indicating they had two days remaining in Paris and indicated that they had heard XU/N THUY of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam as well as other representatives of the DRV. They were engaged in a full discussion with them with a question and answer session. They followed the same format on the following day when they listened to a speech by Mme. BINH of the PRG. They also listened and had a question and answer session with representatives of the Laotian Student Union, President SAIGNAVONG and Vice-President PHEISSANAY. They then had a long afternoon session with journalists, academicians, and experts on Indochina in various respects. These were Mr. WILFRED BURCHETT, JACQUE DE CORNOY, SERGE THION, Professor JOHN CHESNEAUX, Miss MARY MC CARTHY (U.S.) and PEGGY DUFF (International Confederation for Peace and Disarmament). On that same day they had a session with known front representatives from Vietnam groups. These were the Venerable THICK NHAT HANH, Head of the Paris delegation of the United Buddhist Church of Vietnam, Father NGUYEN DINH THI of the Movement of Catholics in Service of the Nation in South Vietnam. Mme. PHAN THI THIEN TU, representing the Information Committee on Opposition Forces in South Vietnam, then THICK THIEN CHAU, a Buddhist monk, and finally Mr. CHAU BENG, who is an Ambassador from the United Front of Cambodia. BRICK stated they still had visits with the American delegation and a group of 12 would meet with Ambassador DAVID BRUCE later that day. The entire group would go to the American Embassy for a meeting with representatives of the Embassy other than BRUCE. Later this afternoon a similar meeting would be held with representatives of the Saigon Government.

Mr. BRUCE then had each of the above-mentioned members of the panel introduce themselves to the press. He then introduced Mrs. CHRISTOPHER from the Black Caucus of the Citizens Committee to End the War in Indochina. Mrs. CHRISTOPHER made the following statement:

"March 8, 1971, Paris, France. We Afro-Americans arrived in Paris as a people who have fought more than 350 years of exploitation and oppression in America. It is because of our historical background that we intimately identify with the struggle for self-determination in which the Vietnamese people now find themselves. We fully understand the racist nature of the war in Indochina as well as the death and degradation that imperialism brings. We realize that our struggle for liberation in America is closely tied to the struggle of the Vietnamese people for as long as America wastes her economic, technical and human resources for the destruction abroad, she cannot meet her needs at home. As long as the Indochinese or any society in the human race is subjected to American oppression, we will not be free."

The panel was then asked several questions by the members of the press. One of these questions concerned what conclusions they have arrived at in their investigation. STAN DALE volunteered an answer and stated that to be very honest they have not arrived at any conclusions because of their desire to remain open-minded until they have met with all people concerned. He then expressed his anger over only having 12 delegates meet with Ambassador BRUCE when all the other representatives at the Paris Peace Talks spoke to the entire group. During the tirade, DALE also commented that they have met Vietnamese who hold no animosity toward the American people. He indicated that he had been a correspondent for the Armed Forces in Korea, and he has noticed the absence of a communist line taking place at the Paris Peace Conference.

When asked why the group decided to have a press conference in Paris on this day rather than wait until they returned to the States, it was stated that the purpose was to acquaint the press and others with what they had done up to that date. They did not intend to have another press conference until they returned to New York. When asked what they hoped to gain from this conference, it was stated that they were hoping they would learn more so that they can be more effective in bringing the end to the war in Vietnam and Indochina. It was indicated they have learned a lot and they have learned of the kinds of suffering that are not translated nor read in print.

STAN DALE then became very critical of the press. He stated he had been a correspondent and a newsman with 25 years of experience, and he was going to indict the American press like it had never been indicted before. He has read hundreds of thousands of words on the Vietnamese conflict and the Paris negotiations, and he still hears the American press refer to the other participants as communists, as the enemy. He claimed this was a complete distortion of facts. He agreed the communists are part of what is going on in Vietnam, but the press does not mention the DRV, the Buddhists, nor the Catholics. The press has talked about the enemy death count as if this is the gospel truth. He has talked with American doctors who have been in Hawaii and Manila, and they have affirmed that the Americans who die off the ground or in hospitals in Manila or Hawaii or any place along the way are not counted in the death toll from Vietnam conflicts. He also claimed he talked with soldiers who had been with the grave registration detail in Vietnam, and they have affirmed that many of the bodies have been dug up again and counted, that many civilians are counted as enemy dead. He accused the press correspondents of lying to the American people and not telling the truth to them.

The panel was questioned as to how they selected the 12 representatives to meet with Ambassador BLUCE, and again STAN DALE interrupted to say that they were selected in a most delightful democratic way, although it took a great deal of their time and their time is limited. Everyone made certain they had as much representation as possible. The people in this conference acted in a very marvelous way in selecting these representatives.

On Monday afternoon the participants to the Conference on Ending The War in Vietnam, with the exception of those meeting with Ambassador BRUCE, met with the Saigon delegation and Ambassador PHIN DANG LAM at the Hotel Royal Monceau, 35 Avenue Noche. Ambassador LAM stated he had asked the help of the Americans to get the communists out of South Vietnam in order to preserve their freedom. He was deeply indebted to the American people who have died in South Vietnam and that it was their intention to rely on the United States for defense to preserve these freedoms. South Vietnam has exerted efforts to make certain United States soldiers can return home. However, this can only be done if Hanoi withdraws its troops of aggression from South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

The communists claim they desire a political settlement, which settlement begins with the overthrow of the duly elected government of South Vietnam and to make this government totally communistic. South Vietnam has accepted foreign forces to help allow them to live in peace. A settlement under the terms of the communists in North Vietnam would not settle this problem and they would have to live under the force of the communists. South Vietnam desires a peaceful co-existence with North Vietnam. The position of the South Vietnamese Government has two main clauses, the withdrawal of external forces which are illegally stationed in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, and a political solution to solve South Vietnam problems. However, these are not possible because of the refusal of North Vietnam to discuss them. It is a well known fact that the Ho Chi Minh Trail is a threat to the war and links the supply of war materials with the communist forces.

In our view, peace is nearer than people think. Peace is like a penetration of a wall. The Hanoi regime cannot carry out a protracted war.

NGUYEN XUAN PHONG, Deputy of the Chief Delegation of South Vietnam, stated that the Vietnam conflict is very complex, and they, as a group, have heard more about it from the opposing forces. Unlike North Vietnam, the South does not have communist parties in every country of the world. They have made changes in the past 15 years in government and are satisfied with the building of a democratic society while at war. They don't have propaganda machines throughout the world.

The communist forces want to take over Vietnam and all of Indochina by force if necessary. This is a scheme of North Vietnam to impose communist rule on all Vietnamese people. War has lasted too long. North Vietnam will continue to war until it gets its wishes of a total communist rule. South Vietnam has used every means toward a peaceful solution. After two years of talks in Paris, they have produced practically nothing.

The communists want a complete withdrawal of forces and they want to replace the elected government in South Vietnam with a Provisional Coalitional Government.

During the question and answer session, PHONG denied South Vietnam has had a world-wide propaganda campaign. He claimed North Vietnam totally refused to negotiate and they will not talk to others who have not expressed an agreement to their proposals in advance. He stated that South Vietnam officials would talk to anybody, anywhere, anytime, even with outsiders. He explained that North Vietnam and South Vietnam are separate countries in accordance with the Geneva Accord signed in 1954.

In answer to another question, PHONG stated that the presence of allied troops is as vital now as it was in 1965. South Vietnam alone cannot match weapons being supplied to North Vietnam by the communist bloc. He also stated that peace advocates in South Vietnam are not being imprisoned.

Another question posed to him concerned the use of tiger cages for prisoners. In answer to this, it was stated that recently a delegation was sent to one prison and no tiger cages were found. Concerning the prisoner of war problem, he admitted the solution is not an easy one. North Vietnam will not furnish the names of all those prisoners like the South Vietnamese Government has already done.

On Monday, March 8, 1971, regardless of previous agreements to have only 12 delegations meet with Ambassador DAVID BRUCE at the U. S. Embassy, the Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina had selected 15 representatives and the source is of the opinion these 15 representatives did meet with Ambassador BRUCE.

Those individuals who met with Ambassador BRUCE later returned to their respective groups and advised them what had transpired with him.

BUD OGLE reported back to his group. He commented that according to Ambassador BRUCE the South Vietnam Government is a loyal government and it exists. The Viet Cong have no power. He characterized XUAN THUY as a propagandist and stated that he is a Red press spokesman. BRUCE did not admit that the Saigon delegation is a puppet government and when efforts were made to explain to him that this was so, BRUCE made it clear that he could not accept that idea. BRUCE indicated to the delegation that he refuses to believe XUAN THUY on anything, and he does not believe the prisoner of war problem will be settled even if the withdrawal date is set.

Ambassador BRUCE did not discuss the past history of Vietnam, and it is the opinion of the delegation that BRUCE did not discuss it because he did not know it.

BUD OGLE commented that he felt the session with BRUCE was similar to the Vietnam war, except nobody got killed. Although BRUCE was courteous, he placed the blame on the other side and the delegation was rather frustrated, since they could not understand how BRUCE could not accept the moral aspect of the war.

On Monday evening, March 8, 1971, the entire group met with Mr. MILLER and staff at the U. S. Embassy. MILLER indicated that he was happy to meet with them to discuss the position of the United States and its efforts to end the Vietnam conflict. He indicated that they had met previously with three other delegations and some of their representatives had met earlier with Ambassador BRUCE. Therefore, he did not intend to speak at length but would answer questions that the group might ask him. He also indicated there was no time limit and he would meet with them as long as they desired. He explained the United States negotiation position is very simple and basic. For over two years in Paris, they have sought an early negotiated settlement to the Vietnam war. However, proposals for such settlement expressed by Ambassador BRUCE are that international supervision be exercised over a cease-fire throughout Indochina; that is, that total military actions cease on both sides throughout Indochina and the other proposal is the withdrawal of all United States forces from South Vietnam on a timetable to be negotiated as part of the overall settlement.

The political settlement in South Vietnam is based on principles. It must reflect the will of the South Vietnamese people without any outside interference. It should reflect existing relationship of political forces within South Vietnam and the United States will abide by the results or the outcome of the political process agreement. The last point is the immediate and unconditional release of the prisoners of war on both sides. Mr. MILLER explained the only country in Indochina which opposes these proposals is North Vietnam. All other countries in Indochina supported them. North Vietnam rejected them literally the day they were made. Their representatives in Paris have refused to discuss them in any form. What is more they refuse all efforts of the United States to discuss their own position. Their position consists of two fundamental demands which they call for as a pre-condition; that is, we must accept them before any negotiations are begun. We must agree to get out of Vietnam by June 30, 1971 or by another early date which is considered reasonable. We must abandon the government in Saigon and agree to the formation of a provisional coalition government which will be made up solely on the basis of their own criteria. In addition, the other sides have flatly refused to talk seriously with the representatives of the Republic of Vietnam which they had agreed to do before the meetings began. This is not only an unreasonable position, it is unacceptable and unrealistic. We are prepared to negotiate and agree to a timetable for complete withdrawal as part of an overall settlement. The Vietnam Government does not refuse to talk to the PRG. It has offered for two years to discuss a political settlement with PRG and has put forward a reasonable proposal for free elections which will provide for the NLF's participation in those elections. The war goes on in Indochina solely because Hanoi wants it to and for no other reason.

During the question and answer session, it was explained that the United States position on prisoners is different because they consider it a separate issue. It is an issue in which both sides are governed by the Geneva Convention of 1949, in which both sides are obligated with respect to humanitarian treatment of prisoners, and both sides are obligated on the question of releasing the sick and wounded.

The United States has offered the release of all prisoners of war and proposed the release of all prisoners of war on both sides. There was some discussion between Embassy officials and members of the group over the question of releasing prisoners of war prior to the cessation of hostilities. An Embassy official stated there has been a great deal of evidence indicating that the treatment of prisoners by the DRV has not been humane. The delegation expressed its approval of this statement and somebody mentioned "tiger cages". The Embassy official remarked he did not say prisons, he said prisoners. One way to solve the prisoner question would be to release them, all of them, on both sides regardless of whether or not a precedent would be set.

In answer to one of the questions an Embassy official stated that the United States is in favor of an immediate cessation of bombing and shooting on both sides. This cease-fire proposal has been placed on the table for discussion at the Hotel Majestic, but the cease-fire should have international supervision throughout Indochina. That is their position, but the other side refuses to discuss this cease-fire proposal. Several people in the group indicated that the United States should agree to a political settlement. They stated the United States should first participate in a cease-fire movement and then settle the political question. American Embassy officials indicated that this was not possible. The Embassy official remarked that they have been told many times by many individuals during the various stages of negotiations that if they would stop the bombing, the other side would negotiate. If they would let the NLF take part in the talks then there would be serious negotiations. They were told that if they took out substantial forces there would be serious negotiations. They have stopped the bombing in the North, they have taken out substantial forces, and still they continue to meet the same demands. The record does not sustain that hope.

The policy of the NIXON administration is to end the United States involvement in Vietnam through a negotiated settlement and, failing this, then through a program of Vietnamization. South Vietnam should be given the opportunity to determine its own future with no outside interference. It is felt this can best be achieved through a negotiated settlement. In answer to a question an Embassy official stated that the President, in his statement, did not indicate there were 1,500 prisoners, but 1,500 people missing. The DRV has indicated that they only have 339 prisoners. However, the United States has concrete evidence indicating that they either have or had 378 prisoners. Several discrepancies have been noted in their own evidence that either they have the man or once had him.

On Tuesday morning, March 9, 1971, a plenary session was held for the purpose of reviewing the previous sessions and drawing conclusions. No definite conclusions could be made except there was a mutual agreement that they would all return to the United States and attempt to bring pressure to bear on federal lawmakers and State representatives to urge President NIXON to bring the troops home immediately. They feel that once these troops are returned then earnest peace talks will take place at Paris.

On Tuesday evening a reception was held at the PRG Information Bureau, 39 Avenue Georges Mandel. Observed at this reception was MARIA JOIAS, who is active in anti-war groups in France, and PEGGY DUFF, a member of the International Liaison Committee.

On Wednesday, March 10, 1971, the participants of the Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina traveled by bus from Paris to Luxembourg where, at approximately 3 p.m., they departed via Icelandic Airlines. They arrived in New York City approximately 7:30 p.m. on March 10, 1971.

remained in Paris to see the sights.

CANDY PUTTER remained in Paris to handle the final details on the Citizens Conference.

One ERIC TEICHOLZ (phonetic), a Harvard professor from the School of Design, 211 Bay State Road, Boston, Mass., traveled to Cairo to lecture on a topic concerning the computer.

It was noted that TEICHOLZ was not part of this group but was in Paris and met with them. It is believed he departed France on Saturday, March 6, 1971.

It was also noted that the Mayor of Newark, KENNETH GIBSON, was scheduled to make this trip but did not do so, and it was mentioned that he had sent one of his aides in his place.

On March 16, 1971, a second confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, orally advised that MUHAMMAD KENYATTA had stated he had been to Paris with a peace group but he was not impressed. He felt nothing was accomplished and nothing will be changed because of any activity this group might undertake.

Returning Pair See No Progress
In Visit to Paris Peace Talks

By TOM STEACY

There is no sign of breakthrough in the long-stalled Paris Peace Talks as both sides refuse to make any further concessions on the points they insist must be included in a settlement of the Indochina war.

The Rev. William T. Gramley of Bethlehem gave this assessment of the talks this morning after he returned from a week-long meeting in the French capital conferring with principals in the peace talks.

Janice "Mickey" Cooper of The North Vietnamese said Easton, who also attended the conference, feels the deadlock is east Asia, their prisoners were caused by a basic unwillingness released. Rev. Gramley added of both sides to meet with each other. "Both sides accuse each other of not wanting to meet and POWs 'humanly.'" He noted then each side denies it," she they said only 333 U.S. servicemen are being held prisoners.

They were among 170 Americans who took part in the Citi-Vietnamese have two conditions Conference on Ending the War in Indochina. They attend-United States must withdraw all ed meetings and discussion its troops and Theiu and Ky groups with representatives of must be disposed of as leaders the Provisional Revolutionary of the Saigon government.

Government of the Republic of South Vietnam, the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam), the Republic of Vietnam (Saigon), the U.S. delegation as well as independent groups from Indochina.

Speaking at a press conference at the Lehigh-Pocono Committee of Concern (LEPOCO) headquarters in Bethlehem, Rev. Gramley said the group was told by North Vietnamese officials that American prisoners of war will not be released until all hostilities are ended.

After Troops Leave

According to North Vietnam's peace demands, fighting won't stop until all U.S. forces are withdrawn from South Vietnam.

Rev. Gramley said the North Vietnam officials observed that in all previous wars this century the POW question wasn't settled until after peace accords were reached.

The North Vietnamese said that when the French left South Vietnam, their prisoners were released. Rev. Gramley added that the North Vietnamese reported it is treating American POWs "humanly." He noted they said only 333 U.S. servicemen are being held prisoners.

Rev. Gramley said the North Vietnamese have two conditions for a negotiated settlement: the United States must withdraw all its troops and Theiu and Ky groups with representatives of as leaders of the Saigon government.

U.S. Demands

The U.S. stipulations for accord, he said, are:

1. a stand still cease fire.
2. a peace conference to deal with the whole question of Indochina.
3. all foreign troops leave South Vietnam.
4. a settlement, including all forces in South Vietnam.

5. POWs be released by both sides. not include the present Saigon

The Rev. Gramley said both sides agree on the point that a settlement should include all sides.

Other than that the North Vietnamese, the conference was told, oppose a cease fire because it would legitimize the current Saigon government. The North Vietnamese maintain an Indochina conference serves only to complicate matters. The question of Vietnam should be dealt with first.

As for troop withdrawals, the North Vietnamese position is that their forces shouldn't have to leave because South Vietnam is their country. Miss Cooper, a local radio newswoman, pointed out that North Vietnam did not directly admit it had troops in the southern portion of Vietnam.

The Rev. Gramley, who is pastor of the West Side Moravian Church, said North Vietnam will accept a coalition government in the south if it does leadership and consists of representatives of South Vietnam, the National Liberation Front and independent groups such as the Buddhists and Catholics. He added that the coalition government must stand for peace, neutrality and independence.

In addition, the Rev. Gramley said North Vietnam opposes Vietnamization because it legitimizes American presence in Southeast Asia.

The Rev. Gramley, who was representing Lepoco at the conference, said they went to Paris to learn about the peace talks and the war. On their findings, he said, we will make up our minds about what the United States should do to end the war.

He said he was one of 150 from the meeting to sign a telegram sent to President Nixon asking: to set a date for withdrawal and to stop political, economic and military support of the Saigon government.

The telegram said a fixed withdrawal date will assure a cease-fire and negotiations for release of POWs. It added that American presence in Southeast Asia leads to continuation of the war and reaction of other countries in the area.

Miss Cooper, who attended the conference independently, said she did not sign the telegram because she hasn't studied all the material from the conference.

DISCUSSES FINDINGS

The Rev. William E. Gramley reports on his findings of a citizens conference on ending the war in Indochina during a press conference at the Lepoco Peace Center in Bethlehem.

Bring the GIs Home Message From Paris: Mrs. Christopher Returns From Talks With Vietnam Delegate

By R. WEISENTUTTER
Courier-Post Staff

She listened.

She talked.

She argued.

She is Mrs. Allides Christopher, director of the New Careers Program of the Camden County Council on Economic Opportunity. And she spent a week in Paris, with 171 other concerned Americans, talking to delegates at the Vietnam peace talks.

MOST IMPORTANTLY, she came home this week with some new ideas to share and some old beliefs reaffirmed.

Long opposed to American participation in the Vietnam war, Mrs. Christopher was selected by the South Jersey Peace Center in Moorestown to attend the talks as part of a delegation to the Citizens Conference To End the War in Indochina.

The trip itself was sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam and the Fellowship of Reconciliation.

OTHER DELEGATES from this area attending the week-long trip from March 3 to 10 were the Rev. John T. Adamczyk of Moorestown, one of the first organizers of South Jersey SANE, an anti-war group, and Muhammed Konyatta, administrative chairman of the National Black Economic Development Conference, based in Philadelphia.

As part of the 171-member peace delegation from 42 states, Mrs. Christopher, of 938-B Phillips St., Camden, met with delegates from all parties participating in the long-running talks.

Among North Vietnamese and National Liberation Front delegates meeting with the group were Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief delegate to the Paris peace talks, and Thich Nhat Hanh, head of the Buddhist delegation.

DAVID K. E. BRUCE, who heads the U.S. delegation, met with 12 members of the peace delegation for a short session, Mrs. Christopher said.

"Our meetings with the North Vietnamese representatives turned out to be the most important ones," Mrs. Christopher said yesterday, sitting in her second-floor Camden office at a desk filled with papers and paraphernalia that shouts a busy woman works there. "Our theme was what is essential for peace?"

"And the answers basically were a ceasefire and the withdrawal of American troops. These men and women pointed out that this is a Vietnamese problem that should be settled by Vietnamese and that there have never been Vietnamese troops on American soil to what right have Americans to come to their land."

MRS. A. CHRISTOPHER

RELATED TO that viewpoint, she said, is a reluctance of the North Vietnamese and NLF delegates to have faith in negotiations because of the invasion of Cambodia last April and the U.S.-backed South Vietnamese invasion of Laos only a week before Mrs. Christopher and the peace delegation arrived in Paris.

The prisoner of war issue, Mrs. Christopher added, quoting Xuan Thuy, will also be resolved once there is a ceasefire and withdrawal of American troops.

doesn't happen until the fighting has stopped," she said.

IT IS IN more defined aspects of the war, however, that the 34-year-old mother of two young sons is most interested.

As a woman, she is concerned about the effect the conflict has had on Asian women and their families. "We learned how rampant prostitution has become since the war began, how the family unit has been uprooted and how women have had to become combatants as the manpower pool is more and more drained."

As a black person, she is concerned about what she believes is the "futility of black young men fighting in a war for a country where they can't buy a house where they want to." She vows her sons, the oldest 9 years old, will not fight in the war for that reason.

DURING ONE of the first days in Paris, Mrs. Christopher, along with 13 other black delegates — six women and eight men, including Muhammed Kenyatta — formed a black caucus as a sub-group of the delegation.

"We formed the caucus because we could see parallels in certain kinds of explained.

"The North Vietnamese delegations understand our position as blacks and our history in America. That made us even more aware of how necessary it is for us as blacks to bring about a cessation of this war so that our brothers can stay here to fight against oppression in America."

More convinced now that peace groups must work harder in America in efforts to halt the war, Mrs. Christopher blames the general sluggishness in the peace talks to a failure of the parties to agree on a basis for talks. "One group says negotiate first for a ceasefire, the other side says a ceasefire first, then negotiate. That's what's holding things up."

"BUT THE WHOLE thing," she added, "is that the war meanwhile is dragging on and on, more and more people are being killed, the United States is spending billions of dollars for killing over there when it could be spending it for constructive purposes over here."

"The big explanation is that we have to keep fighting in Vietnam to protect South Vietnam from North Vietnam. Well, that's like hitting a person with your car so that the car behind your's won't hit the person first."

"But what's the difference? The person's dead in both cases."

North Vietnamese Reception Highpoint Of Paris Trip

The Rev. William E. Granley, pastor of West Side Methodist Church, represented the High School Peace Committee of Concern at the recently concluded Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina, held in Paris.

In this article, the Rev. Mr. Granley discusses the concluding activity of the Americans attending the conference, a reception given by the North Vietnamese and the Provisional Revolutionary Government (NLF) representatives in the French capital.

REV. WILLIAM E. GRANLEY
Special To The Globe-Times

When you take a wide cross-section of Americans, like those of us who went to the Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina, and send them to Paris to meet with the big brass negotiators, what do you get?

Do you get anything worthwhile out of it? In one sense you get "innocents abroad," and in another sense you get a pretty good display of America's emotions, especially of our desire to love others and to be loved by them. You could call it grassroots friendship, if you wish.

I want to tell you about this personal thrust of ours because it may be the central contribution that we made toward peace in Vietnam. On the last evening of the conference we were invited to a reception sponsored by the North Vietnamese and the Provisional Revolutionary Government (NLF) people.

We weren't sure how many would go since we had had a rather "bad day at Black Rock," so to speak, arguing somewhat among ourselves over what actions to take or not to take in the name of the conference. But a goodly number of us went to the reception.

CONFIDENTIAL

After eating some Vietnamese lady clothing sang good and reception-like (happily). Judy Collins led us in Peter Dinklage I ought to say Peter Dinklage's rendition of that song. (Dinklage since we were in from the Bible about there being France), we gathered around a time for everything under the the microphone, some of us sang, for love, for hate, for war, sitting on the floor side by side for peace. We had one original with the Vietnamese, although American with us, an Indian girl, and she sang a song in her tribal language. We laughed Madame Binh and Xuan Thuy didn't sit down. when she told us to join in on the second stanza.

Judy Collins sang a song in French and another one about a garden full of weeds and snow. I never heard it before, but it was beautiful.

A Vietnamese girl with a guitarist to accompany her sang a Vietnamese love song which the interpreter said went like this: My mommy asked me where I left my jacket, and I said, "The wind blew it off on the other side of the river. My mommy asked me what I did with my gold ring, and I said "I dropped it in the river."

Then one of our black girls, Althea Christopher, dressed elegantly in Afro clothing, led the group in the black national anthem -- which I had never heard before, either. The Rev. Willie Barrow, a black lady pastor and Operation Breakfast worker from Chicago, said, "Now listen, we're going back to America soon, and if we're going back there, we've got to have some 'soul'. So things really lived up as we sang, "This little light of mine, I'm gonna let it shine," with various verses to include New York and other states and Vietnam.

It was very moving, and I later wished that I had brought along some Moravian beeswax Christmas candles for each of us to hold. They would have fit in nicely.

Three Vietnamese girls then sang a spirited and harmonious song in their own language. It had a wonderful rhythm to it. I wish people in America could hear such songs and see those girls in their pretty ao dai dresses. I don't think we would study war anymore if that happened.

The Vietnamese translator said that so far no men had sung anything for us, so our black dramatist from Mississippi, Vincent Durrell, got up and enacted a poem which he had composed (I think right then and there) called "Vietnam -- Bap."

After we had stood to sing, "We shall overcome," Candy Putler, our coordinator, sang some pictures of flowers and things to Madame Binh and Xuan Thuy. Madame Binh kissed Candy and said, "I do so for all the Vietnamese women here." When Xuan Thuy also kissed her, one of the Vietnamese men in the group said, "And he kisses her for all of the Vietnamese men here, too."

There was laughter, tears, and friendly embraces. We closed by singing the Vietnamese national anthem as we dragon-danced in a tightly-knit pattern of circles around the room. This type of dance, with hands on the shoulders of the person in front of you, means unity, we were told.

Rare Evening

It was a rare evening, but an appropriate closing to a long journey and some very long conference sessions. After reflecting upon it on the way back to the hotel in the metro (subway), I knew that I had heard about this sort of thing somewhere before. And then it struck me, that, yes, Jesus had said, "Love your enemies," and, "If you salute only your brethren, what more are you doing than others?"

Somewhat everything that the sponsors of the conference had tried to get us to do or to believe didn't come about by their pressure. But the Spirit of God broke through that night and the reality and truth of our human good will was made manifest. It just may be a step toward peace and reconciliation.

Area Man Deepens Convictions About War At Paris Conference

(Rev. Richard Fernandez, pastor of Holy Trinity Mission Church in Bethlehem, recently returned from Paris, where he participated in citizen meetings with the four parties to the Paris Peace talks. In an article written for The Express, the Rev. Mr. Fernandez explains his thoughts on U.S. involvement in Indochina.)

Four years, several hundred thousand deaths, and almost $100 billion ago, I went to Washington, D. C. for a conference about the Vietnam war. The Clergy and Laymen Concerned organization sponsored it. At that time some of the facts were hidden from the public, but I must also admit that I was, like so many other Americans, rather indifferent about the war.

I came home from that conference convinced that if we persisted any longer in this war, it would be tragic for our nation. My apprehensions were fulfilled. I felt that way about it four years ago. I feel the same today.

Last week I returned from Paris where I attended a Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina (the thing has spread to Laos, Cambodia, and Thailand).

A coalition government is acceptable to everyone except the despots in Saigon. North Vietnam knows that it cannot control the people in the South. It agrees to a coalition of Saigon people (except the despots) and the people (now organized as the Provisional Revolutionary Government), and independent. But it does want the U. S. to get out—now—for they see us as the great supporters of a minority regime which does not want peace and which imprisons peace-oriented citizens. They will negotiate no farther until we set a date for total withdrawal.

There are valid reasons for both sides of the issue. If they are not "valid" reasons from your particular point of view, they do stem from the interpretations of history which each side holds. The U. S. negotiating team did not want to talk to us about the questions of how we got involved there. That, they said, was not very relevant now, and anyway, they were only carrying out Nixon's policy, not arguing with it or changing it.

There is little consolation for you if you are looking for clear-cut evidence that will make it easy to decide whether you are "for" or "against" our Vietnam policy and our negotiating stance. It always ends up that you have to make decisions like that yourself, based on how you understand morality, justice, history, and various other particulars about who we are and what we in America are trying to do.

When I weigh these questions, I end up convinced that the United States is more at fault in this war than the other side is (the other side being those Vietnamese, both North and South, who are fighting to be free of domination by all foreign nations).

The Rev. Richard Fernandez from the Clergy and Laymen Concerned group reminded us of a fundamental issue when he said at the Kennedy Airport, "Above all, remember that while you are riding a jet plane to Paris, people are being killed in Vietnam."

And the Venerable Buddhist monk, Thich Nhat Hanh, told us quite plainly during the conference, "What the peasants and people of Vietnam want most of all is to live. They want peace, not a peace solution. Life is more important to them than justice. Stop the killing, and save us from your salvation."

If any of us have a conscience left (and I say that the only people who have a conscience left are the people in Vietnam: it is killing souls and sensitivity in America), if any of us have had even a smattering of religious training, we know that taking life from people is not our purpose on earth. And we must not side-step the issue by accusing the enemy of being just as vicious. We must judge ourselves first. And the judgment is not pleasant, for it includes dropping prisoners out of helicopters and napalm on people; cluster bomb units and defoliants, the Green Beret case and My Lai, tiger cages and the sudden terror of carpet bombing, search and destroy missions, censorship and repression, and thousands of refugees behind barbed wire.

Nowhere did our government's lack of conscience show up more plainly than when Caroline Rees from Massachusetts asked one of the U.S. negotiators this question: "As I look through the American story, I realize that we are committed to the following: the Geneva Accords, the U.S. Constitution, the U.N. Charter, basic religious principles, friendship around the world, democratic government, and majority rule. And I note that we are committed also to a military dictatorship in Saigon. Why must that one commitment undermine all of our other commitments?"

The negotiator replied: "That's your list of commitments." And she replied, "You mean it's not yours?"

There was another woman in our group who stirred us deeply on the matter of conscience, a Mrs. Agnes Hostetler from Charlotte, N.C. She got up on the last day when we were meeting alone and discussing what we ought to do or not do (such as sign a people's peace treaty) in the name of the conference. Some of us were afraid of what our communities back home would say.

Mrs. Hostetler said, "I have hesitated to speak to you because I still have a German accent, but I must tell you that I lived through the Nazi years in Germany when people said they did not know what was happening. Many who did know were afraid to speak. After the war we held a Nuremberg Trial and judged the leaders to be guilty, but everyone was guilty. Now we know what is happening in Vietnam and what we are doing to those people. We cannot be afraid to take a stand against this war, for we are just as guilty as those who do the terrible things there."

If I may judge by the enthusiasm of Lehigh Valley residents about my going to Paris for this conference and by similar reports from others across the nation, I would say that the American people want peace. Even many of the congressmen who favored this war initially have said, in essence, that we should never Willing that the American people finally rejected President Johnson because of this war. And, as I said several weeks ago when President Nixon announced the invasion of Laos, "That's the end of Nixon," so I believe that the American people will reject him, too. We are a tolerant people, even a patient people, but enough is enough.

Part of the reason why the war continues has to do with our so-called "national pride." No President wants to preside over a military defeat. But we must understand the difference between a mistake and a defeat. To admit that we have erred in our policy does not mean the end of our nation's life and purpose, for we have done good before and we can do good again. France survived her exit from Vietnam. The colonial era is over, and we know it. Our support for dictatorial regimes ought to be ended and our colony in Vietnam relinquished.

The American people are willing to bear some humiliation, even if the President doesn't think so. But there is a second reason why the war continues. And that has to do with our vast and uncontrolled ...individuals... complex. The role of militarism in our world could have across the world is no great deal over. Complex world control is... law, military and... do what they want to do and then... and... back... into Congress. The... has... govern, for it can even turn food for Peace into guns-for-war.

Or take the fact, for example, that Laos is now the most heavily-bombed country in all the history of the world. Jacques de Corneil, a correspondent for Le Monde, told us about this, for he has been there and seen it — of how we have driven the people into caves. We have literally braked them back to the stone age! And did we know that? Did we, the people, permit it? Did Congress? Well, it's part of the ways of our Department of Defense. With secret dispatch and great disregard for law and order and the permission of the American people the war continues and broadens throughout Indochina.

What do we have left, and what hope is there for peace? I have tried to be honest with you (the American people) in what I have said. But I do believe in you, and I believe that God will move you in some way to help make peace a reality. I cannot despair of my fellow citizens. Together we must not be silenced by fear, nor let our consciences be deadened, nor take away the life and breath of living souls, wherever they are, any longer.

The North Vietnamese and the Provisional Revolutionary Government distinguish between the policy of the Nixon Administration and we, the people. They believe that we, the people, want peace but that Nixon gives us war. You have to ask yourself the question, then, "Is that the truth, or isn't it?"

FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1971

One hundred and seventy Americans from 41 states will leave from New York's Kennedy Airport on March 3 for a week-long conference with principals in the Paris talks and others. Their objective is finding out what the requisites for peace in Southeast Asia really are.

The Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina, as the project is called, is sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), Clergy and Laymen Concerned (CALC) and the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR).

"The conference will afford a large number of American citizens access to and thoughtful discussion with many persons long familiar with the Indochina struggle," explained Stewart Meacham, peace education secretary of the AFSC. "We hope that upon their return to the United States, the participants will be new and creative interpreters, in their respective communities, of what they understand the requisites of peace to really be."

Participants expect to meet with representatives of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam (PRG, formerly the National Liberation Front), the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam), the Republic of Vietnam (Saigon) and the U.S. Delegation.

Meetings are also being arranged with representatives of the National United Front of Cambodia, the Laotian Student Union and various independent South Vietnamese groups opposed to the war (including Buddhists, Catholics, students and groups supporting dissident members of the Saigon Administration's National Assembly.)

Mr. Allan Brick, national program director of FOR, said that in addition to meeting with official government representatives at the peace talks "we are anxious to learn a great deal more about the recent upsurge of civilian resistance to the war in the large cities of South Vietnam. We want to reach a better understanding of what the Vietnamese people themselves are struggling for."

The Rev. Richard Fernandez, director of CALC, indicated that "the conference will come at an extremely propitious moment given the United States second invasion of a sovereign country (Laos) in less than eleven months. Mr. Melvin Laird," the clergyman continued, "has told us that the invasion of Laos doesn't represent a widening of the war--we are interested to see what both Asians and Europeans see in this new move."

The American Friends Service Committee was founded by a group of Quakers in 1917 to offer young men an alternative to military service. Today, its 600 staff are engaged in peace education, refugee relief, technical aid to developing countries, international conferences and community development work in this country. Its headquarters are in Philadelphia.

Clergy and Laymen Concerned is a 34,000 member inter-religious and anti-war group. It is five years old and has offices at 475 Riverside Drive, New York City phone (212) 749-8518.

Fellowship of Reconciliation is an association of men and women of all faiths who recognize the essential unity of mankind and have joined together to explore the power of love and truth for resolving human conflict. The organization was founded in 1915 and has a nationwide membership of more than 20,000 men and women. It has offices in Nyack, New York, Box 271; phone (914) 359-2599.

A second source has described the Institute of the Black World (IBW) as a non-accredited Atlanta, Georgia based school, established originally under the auspices of the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Fund Center by Vincent Harding, to teach King's philosophy to college level students. Harding led the instruction which Mrs. King, Jr. and the board of the Center felt was amenable to the teachings of Dr. King, Jr., and consisted of courses in black culture.

Second source further advised in February, 1970, that, as Director of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Library Documentation Project, Vincent Harding played an active role in structuring the IBW during the latter part of 1969 and early 1970.

A booklet available from the IBW during February, 1970, entitled "Institute of the Black World, A Statement of Purpose and Program", on Page 1, under the caption "Introduction" states "The institute of the Black World is a community of black scholars, artists, teachers and organizers who are coming together in Atlanta under the aegis of Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Center... The Institute of the Black World is a gathering of black intellectuals who are convinced that the gifts of their minds are meant to be fully used in the service of the black community..."

Second source also stated in February, 1970, that, in contributing to structuring of the IBW, Vincent Harding has followed the philosophy of "black supremacy academics".

First source, mentioned above, on March 31, 1970, advised as follows:

Mrs. Nan Pendergrast, Atlanta, Georgia, indicated on said date that the "Paris Peace Treaty group" was scheduled to have returned to the United States on March 10, 1971. She said members of the group were to be in Washington, D. C., on March 11, 1971, where individuals from the group were to make appointments with their representatives in Congress to discuss with them the necessity of making a peace treaty between the American and Vietnamese people. Pendergrast indicated that the Peace Treaty delegation from the State of Georgia was said to have an appointment with Senator Herman Talpadge of Georgia at 9:00 A. M., on March 12, 1971.

Mrs. Pendergrast advised that the only two individuals from the Atlanta, Georgia area who participated in the Peace Treaty delegation to Paris were Mrs. Jane B. Moore, wife of Atlanta attorney Howard Moore; and Vince Harding, Director of the Institute of the Black World. She indicated that Horace Tate "backed out at the last minute" and did not make the trip, but that it is her understanding that Dr. Fred Wright, Don Southerland (described by her as a movie actor), Judy Collins (described by Pendergrast as a singer) and Alan Brick of Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR) were among those who made the trip to Paris in the delegation.

Re Tampa nitel to Bureau 4/23/71.

TP 637-PSI, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that he attended the captioned vigil meeting on 5/2/71, at the United Liberal Church, St. Petersburg, Florida. Persons attending discussed non violent methods of protesting the War in Vietnam. Among the things decided on was passing out "hand out" in St. Petersburg.

Lt. RAY WAYMIRE, Intelligence Division, St. Petersburg Police Department, advised that his men covered the activities of the "Vigil For Peace" and "People for Peace" which was one and the same group. He said that the only activity noted was a group of ten persons in Williams Park, St. Petersburg, passing out sheets of paper with a written request for these persons to protest the War in Vietnam through their State and Federal Representatives in a non-violent way.

Since no apparent pertinent activity developed from this Vigil For Peace, the Tampa Office is considering the matter closed and no further action will be taken unless further information is received.

PEOPLES COALITION FOR PEACE AND JUSTICE (PCPJ)

A PCPJ press release dated March 1, 1971, described the PCPJ as being headquartered in Washington, D. C., and consisting of over 100 organizations which are using massive nonviolent civil disobedience to combat racism, poverty, repression, and war.

NATIONAL PEACE ACTION COALITION (NPAC)

The NPAC was founded in 1970 by members of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP). Its basic objective is to unite masses of people including labor unions, GIs, and the black community in the struggle to end United States intervention in Southeast Asia through orderly and peaceful tactics. The SWP has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

AMERICAN FRIENDS SERVICE COMMITTEE (AFSC)

The AFSC is self-described as a non-profit organization, organized and directed by members of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) and funded by both Quakers and non-Quakers. It seeks solutions to both domestic and international problems through non-violent means.

ANTIWAR CONFERENCE

An Emergency Conference to Defend the Right of the Black Panther Party to Exist was held in Chicago, Illinois, from March 6 - 8, 1970. Tom Flower, Secretary, Peace Education, AFSC for Texas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas, who is from San Antonio, Texas, was one of 23 persons accepted by the Conference as being on the steering committee.

BLACK PANTHER PARTY (BPP)

The BPP is a black extremist organization started in Oakland, California, in December, 1966. It advocates the use of guns and guerrilla tactics to bring about the overthrow of the United States Government.

SA T-2 (9/5/71)

On September 4, 1971, a telegram was sent to Tom Flower, supra, advising him that reservations of the AFSC for the John Knox Ranch, Wimberly, Texas, for September 10 - 12, 1971, were cancelled. According to source, action was taken by the Chairman of the Administrative Council of John Knox Presbytery, Presbyterian Church of the United States, following press announcement of Regional Conference on "Fall Peace Offensive" which appeared in the local press September 3, 1971.

SA T-3 (9/6/71)

On the evening of September 5, 1971, there was a meeting of the San Antonio Committee to Free Angela Davis (SACFAD). During the meeting a discussion ensued about sending a delegation to the "Fall Peace Offensive" conference to be held September 10 - 12, 1971 at the John Knox Ranch in Wimberly, Texas.

ANTIWAR CONFERENCE

During the discussion John Stanford (Organizational Secretary, Communist Party, USA [CPUSA] - Texas, member of the National Committee, CPUSA, and Southern Organizer, CPUSA), stated that he would obtain some details regarding the Conference and left the meeting to make a phone call to Tom Flower, supra.

Stanford returned to the meeting and announced that the meeting place had been changed for the Conference. Stanford reported that the September 10, 1971, session will be at the Friends Meeting House, Washington Square, Austin, Texas, and that the September 11 and 12, 1971, sessions will be held at St. Edwards University, Austin, Texas.

SAN ANTONIO COMMITTEE TO FREE ANGELA DAVIS (SACFAD)

SACFAD was organized in San Antonio, Texas, on December 27, 1970, under the guidance of communist leaders. AMERICAN FRIENDS SERVICE COMMITTEE
(AFSC)

The AFSC is self-described as a non-profit organization, organized and directed by members of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) and funded by both Quakers and non-Quakers. It seeks solutions to both domestic and international problems through nonviolent means.

A source advised that on Friday, September 10, 1971, following some hastily-made changes in location, a Regional Conference sponsored by the AFSC commenced at 1414 Washington Square, Austin, Texas. Among groups represented were the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ), Day Day members, Peace Makers, John Baez School of Nonviolence in Colorado, the Gay Liberation, and the AFSC.

Washington, D.C., and consisting of over one hundred organizations employing massive disobedience to combat the issues of war, racism, poverty, and repression.

MAY DAY COLLECTIVE (MDC)

The MDC is self-described as a multi-issue organization which was formed as a result of the May, 1971, activities at Washington, D.C. (WDC).

The conference location on Friday night was at a Quaker meeting house. The conference, originally slated for the John Knox Ranch, Wimberly, Texas, was relocated to Austin when the conference coordinators were notified by the Presbyterian owners of the John Knox Ranch that the ranch was no longer available because of the possible attendance of persons from the Gay Liberation. As a result of this last minute cancellation of the conference location, registration in Austin was somewhat delayed.

Registration was simple and not mandatory. Persons arriving signed their name only on notebook paper. The registrars were Eddie and Grace Heathorn, local representatives of Direct Action, Austin, Texas, who gave their telephone number as 476-0517. Participants were directed to gather in a small room where numerous personal independent conversations were held.

Of the approximately forty persons in attendance, the following were noted to be present:

Thomas Floner, Regional Director of the AFSC,

In addition to the above were the following:

resistance;

spoke on the Grand Jury.

A second source advised the following persons were in attendance in addition to those stated:

Janet ~~Stocker~~, ~~CIAT~~ law student, who appeared to be local coordinator for the conference and a friend of Thomas Flower.

Sources two and three can also substantiate, in part, the names of persons in attendance supplied by source one.

Informality and lack of organization dominated the conference throughout.

At approximately 5:00 p.m., Friday night, Thomas Flower spoke to the group of approximately forty people about "house" rules, such as cleaning, eating, and sleeping. He then announced that the floor was open to any and all who wished to speak regarding any topic they might chose.

Grace Heathrow began speaking on the difficulty encountered during the recent conference of May Day people in Atlanta, Georgia. She said there were so many splinter groups resulting from differing political views and other infighting that another conference would be necessary to shape things up.

Following her, there was general discussion about the difficulties encountered during the May Day, 1971, demonstrations at Washington, D.C. This general discussion led to one of the first disagreements within the group, that of regional demonstrations versus national demonstrations.

It seemed as though the trend of the conference had been set by these opening statements as the following two days were dominated by debating the merits of local versus national demonstrations.

The major theme of the local advocates was that more could be accomplished at home and that money spent in travel, lodging, and other expenses related to national demonstrations supported the system and inhibited the movement.

Participation by conference members was less than desirable and by 10:30 p.m., a suggestion was made to break up into four smaller groups. Each group contained from eight to fifteen people.

One group discussed the American educational system and its lack of significance for several of the group members. Several personal experiences were related. The system was called repressive and domineering by Burt Wallrich. Bob Levering seemed to agree with Wallrich's description.

Source three, mentioned above, advised that during the Friday night conference, Burt Wallrich claimed he was a participant in May Day activities in Washington, D.C., and spoke about May Day. In addition, he seemed to be preparing the people to be ready to go to jail as part of participating in any demonstrations and advocated non-payment of taxes because they support the Government's financing of the war. He further stated that he has stopped paying taxes and has recently been called before the Grand Jury in connection with May Day.

Source one, mentioned above, advised that Burt Wallrich spoke again on Saturday, September 11, 1971, and in this speech related that he and his wife had recently been given a subpoena and had to appear before a Grand Jury. He stated that he had contacted his lawyers and that they advised him regarding what to do if offered an immunity by the court. They told him to, in the future, only give his name, address, and Social Security, and answer no other questions. They advised him that this would allow him to claim the First, Fifth, Seventh, and Ninth Amendments to the Constitution and he would not have to answer any questions.

Wallrich spoke on immunity and advised that it was up to the judge to decide whether or not he would grant it. He stated that if the judge felt a person has answered enough questions and gone far enough in their testimony, he could compel them to answer any questions by giving them an immunity. Wallrich stated, however, if you have answered the questions, then the judge would not offer this immunity.

On jails, Wallrich advised that the Grand Juries could hold you in jail for approximately eighteen months for not testifying, but that this was a misnomer because after the Grand Jury was disbanded, they could, after regathering again, reindict you and, hence, place you back in jail for another eighteen months. He stated it would then be a circle, wherein you would refuse to answer the questions, be placed in jail for eighteen months, released and then reindicted.

At approximately 12:30 a.m., Friday, September 10, 1971, the meeting broke up with approximately forty of the participants remaining at the AFSC house to spend the night.

Source one, mentioned above, advised that on Saturday, September 11, 1971, the conference resumed at the Faculty/Staff Lounge in the Texas Union Building, Second Floor, UTAT Campus.

Bob Levering (PCPJ) was the first speaker and represented himself as a spokesman for the PCPJ. He discussed the Vietnam War and its repercussions in the United States, the general repression of the public in the United States, and the United States economy. The morning session was reported as being very dull and lacked both participation and cohesiveness. It was noted that several persons in attendance were rapidly approaching a state of sleep.

Following the lunch break, Phil Harberger, a local San Antonio lawyer, began discussing the Grand Jury system. He discussed its past history and present power. He commented on the fact that the Grand Jury has too much power today when one takes into consideration the immunity provisions. He offered tips on what members of the audience could do if anyone comes to their door asking questions. He advised them to refuse to answer any and all questions from Government representatives and to refuse them entry into the home, even if a search warrant is shown. He continued to advise that if they, at any time, began answering questions, there is a point of no return when one gets himself in so deep that a judge may compel him to answer further questions through the immunity clause.

Phil Harberger was questioned by a member of the audience whether or not false information should be given to officials. In response to this, Harberger stated none of you (the audience) know the power of the Grand Jury or a court room and that it would be to your disadvantage to give false information. He advised against ever giving false information.

"Witch-hunts" were discussed wherein the Grand Jury power was stated to be so great that they utilize this power to gain confessions and admissions from non-cooperative persons with the use of jail threats. Mr. Harberger stated that everyone in this room could be subpoenaed because of the nature of this meeting.

Late Saturday afternoon, workshops were organized on war tax and draft resistance which included courts and jails, nonviolence and simple civil disobedience, and alternative life style community. Bob Levering and Burt Wallrich attended the nonviolence and simple civil disobedience workshop. This workshop was related to "direct action" principles and was concerned with organizing for the fall offensive. A suggestion was made from one of the members they allow the "Trots" to join them in their offensive. Disagreement was immediately provided from the floor by someone saying that the "Trots" were only liable to throw a wrench into the works and mess up any programs we (the group) would start. This person advised he did not want any "Trots" involved with this movement. It was generally agreed, amongst the members, that the "Trots" would not be requested to participate. (It is to be noted that the term "Trots" refers to Trotskyites.)

Discussion then centered around actually proposed actions for the coming fall offensive. Bob Levering stated he did not know what the PCPJ is doing yet, but that he had to go to New York for a meeting soon and would know more thereafter. A tentative idea related by Levering was that of the "Yearly Death Toll" idea. Levering advised this idea involves obtaining persons from throughout the nation to represent the war dead and having them travel to Washington, D.C., on October 25, 1971. The idea was that several hundred people would gather across the street from the Capitol or the White House and each day, depending on the number of Vietnam deaths, a similar number of persons would cross the street and feign death on the steps of the Capitol or White House. A suggestion was made that probably three hundred people die daily in Indochina.

Three general proposals were seemingly agreed on during the Saturday session. These proposals are:

- (1) Passive resistance, which meant they will not voluntarily accompany a policeman to jail;
- (2) Refusal to pay bail after being arrested;
- (3) Refusal to pay fines after being found guilty

The meeting adjourned late Saturday evening and persons again lodged themselves at the AFSC house.

A fourth source advised that Thomas Flower conducted the discussion of the workshop on war tax and draft resistance and courts and jails. This group again discussed and debated the relative merits of national demonstrations versus local demonstrations.

The fourth source further advised that Thomas Flower presented the idea of no bail and non-payment of fines in which he stated that it would be best to remain in jail and organize the prisoners for peace purposes. He stated remaining in jail would also, at some point, if persons continued to be arrested, overpopulate the jail so much, so as to cause the release of persons first arrested. He advised that those released would again become involved in peace action and the volume of persons arrested would be so great as to confuse the police system.

It was noted that several persons in the conference agreed to go to Washington, D.C., but there was much dissent regarding whether or not one would stay in jail as proposed by Flower. Other persons who did not agree to go to Washington advised the great movement could be accomplished by locally-based organizations.

The fourth source also advised that Bob Levinger had discussed a program wherein he could stop ships from loading ammunition to be taken to Vietnam. He stated that basically this was to contact longshoremen who would be sympathetic to the peace movement and eventually refuse to load the ships. Levinger advised that during some recent demonstrations there has been a great deal of coalition between the anti-war groups and third world people. He stated that the peace groups have also obtained help from individual National Guardsmen and policemen in their collecting some to bail out persons arrested during demonstrations. Laverne advised that there would be a peace movement on October 25, 1971, in Washington, D.C., of a nonviolent nature. He advised that the demonstrators would visit various Government agencies including the CIA on the 25th, the Justice Department on the 26th, the Commerce Department on the 27th, the State Department on the 28th, and the White House on the 29th. He advised they would knock on doors and try to get to talk to people about the problems of the war.

Source one advised that on Sunday, September 12, 1971, the conference resumed at 9:00 a.m., in Hemphill Park, off 30th Street, Austin, Texas. There were approximately forty persons present as Tom Flower began discussing the need not to pay fines or make bail if and when arrested. Disagreements immediately again arose about the non-payment of fines and local versus national demonstrations.

There were several general discussions about organizing to convince workers that their particular job was in support of the war and specifically mentioned were workers at the Texas Instruments Firm, where the group suggested putting up pickets to talk to the workers about the war supplies they make. It was noted that Texas Instruments makes timing devices for bombs. A question was asked if whether or not there were any of these organizations in San Antonio and someone mentioned the fact that Southwest Research Company was in San Antonio and would be a good place to picket.

The Sunday session and the conference ended early in the afternoon with only those proposals mentioned earlier as major goals of the group. In the end, as in the beginning, all but a few seemed confused and distressed with what had been obtained during the conference. So ended the conference.

Dear Mr. Tolson:

Attached is an invitation to a seminar that I hope you will find of special interest. This event is next in a program of off-the-record unpublicized discussions for government officials sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee for the past twenty years.

The wide range of topics, covering both foreign and domestic affairs, has drawn the participation of many Members of Congress and senior officials in the Executive Branch. For your information I enclose a list of attenders at a recent dinner seminar on poverty in the U.S.

Your personal participation in the discussion of the crisis in criminal justice and related fields would be most welcome. I hope your schedule will permit your acceptance. If, however, you cannot join us, I would appreciate the suggestion for a substitute from among your colleagues.

We look forward to a call from your office as soon as possible.

Cordially yours,

SUBJECT: November Seminar

You are cordially invited to the informal, off-the-record dinner-seminar described below, designed for a maximum of twenty Members of Congress and Government Executives. You will find enclosed a reply card, which should be returned at your earliest convenience, as space will be at a premium.

CHAIRMAN: ROBERT F. DRINAN, M.C., House Judiciary Committee

PURPOSE: On November 17 the American Friends Service Committee will announce the publication of STRUGGLE FOR JUSTICE, - A Report on Crime and Punishment in America. It was prepared by a "working party" composed of both scholars in criminal justice, and persons who have been on the receiving end of the system. The preface states "The question of crime, justice, and punishment has become a major public issue once again. The working party concludes that reformist prescriptions for improving the system of criminal justice are bankrupt and that the system is a major failure. The seminar is to examine with the three working party members listed as consultants, the findings and recommendations of the book. We shall focus on the policy implications for the legislative and executive branches. Your response to the book's "Epilogue: Action" will be especially valuable.

ABOUT THE CONSULTANTS: G. Richard Bacon has worked for two state penitentiaries and done social work in the Philadelphia prisons. He is a member of the Governor's Justice Commission.

PALMER, 5/2-3/72.

At approximately nine a.m. on 5/3/72, SA's JOSEPH LYTON MINNES and PAUL THOMAS BAKER conducted a physical surveillance in the area of the Friends School, 5117 N. Charles Street, Baltimore. It was previously determined that the Baltimore Chapter of the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC) would send the demonstrators to Washington, D.C. on 5/3/72 to participate in a one day vigil at the White House, and transportation would be by chartered bus through the Parker Service Bus Company, Baltimore.

At 9:10 a.m. on 5/3/72, it was observed that 70 individuals, most of whom were in their early 20's, boarded two buses from the above company, and the buses departed the Friends School at 9:15 a.m., reportedly for Washington, D.C. These buses were designated as chartered school buses, orange with black horizontal stripes and bearing two Maryland license plates on both ends. It was previously determined through contact with the Baltimore Chapter of the AFSC that the buses would depart Washington, D.C. at 5:30 p.m. on 5/3/72 and return to Baltimore within an hour thereafter.

Statement from Bronson P. Clark, Executive Secretary

Two representatives of the American Friends Service Committee have just returned from Hanoi where they delivered a humanitarian shipment of heart surgery equipment. They are Dr. George Perera, former associate dean of the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons and a recognized expert on hypertension, and John A. Sullivan, Associate Executive Secretary of AFSC.

Our representatives brought home personal and photographic evidence of what some of the American bombs are now doing: wrecked hospitals, schools, homes and cultural buildings. They stood on and photographed a primary and a secondary dike at Nam Dinh which had been bombed with no visible military target nearby. Whether the bombing of civilian institutions, the maiming and killing of civilians and the damage and weakening of dikes is intentional or accidental is academic. The critical question is whether these things are happening, and the direct, first-hand evidence of AFSC observers is that they are.

U.S. bombardment and naval shelling of North Vietnam must be terminated. For a technologically superior country like ours to be raining sophisticated destruction on a relatively defenseless, essentially peasant people who are completely without the means of the slightest attack on our country brings dishonor to American ideals. Our representatives found in all their conversations and observations that the North Vietnamese people, far from being driven to defeat, are uniting more strongly under the pressure and putting their ability to adapt and survive to work to outlast and endure the bombing.

In the name of all that is holy, in the name of spiritual values, in the very name of America, this loathsome bombing and shelling must stop.

4 August 1972

Hostile planes knife through cold and silent sky.
Hearse loudspeakers signal the approach.
The sirens that I heard in London —
Another land, another time, another pang of history —
I hear again.
Theirs is the raucous call known well to ears that have heard war before.

Who goes there overhead? Is he
From the plains of Kansas, green slopes of Vermont,
The soft-voiced south, the uproar of New York,
The ever-greening Northwest U.S.A.?

Who up there knows what I see here?
Look: There goes the enemy:
A sweet-eyed child chubby-legged on a bike.
A mother caring anxiously for her young.
A slender girl bent over green shoots in a paddy,
A rider off his bicycle and sitting by a hole —
The single-occupancy shelter designed to beat the bomb.

Men, women, children...the enemy is everywhere?
And the targets abound.
The factories, ports, rails, homes, hospitals, dikes
That hold the salted sea from land,
Or coursing rivers that bring green life.
Or death.

Who sits underground?
I sit in concrete shelter rooms and talk of war.
With a Vietnamese surgeon whom war has forced
To new techniques of saving lives.
An Indian of supreme dignity who Presides over the international group named to control the agreement of men who Decided 18 years ago to supervise a peace that hasn't come.
An actress who knows the studios of Paris, London, Hollywood,
Now to find, falling asleep at night,
That her pillow is wet from tears
Brought forth by sights of war and thoughts of men
Her country has sent to ride the skies on tubes of death.

Oh, Vietnam, Vietnam.
I know your gentle, slow and graceful people in the south,
And now I see here, in Hanoi, the same soft sweetness,
The same deep love of life and land.
The same people, the same clothes, the same words,
As those I know beyond the Ben Hai.

Oh, Vietnam.
In the enveloping heat of July, another flush comes to my face.
How can it be? When will it stop? Who will say the word?

For the information of the Bureau and receiving offices, San Antonio, being aware of the religious nature of the AFSC, does not conduct active investigation of the organization.

However, the San Antonio Office of AFSC is frequented by present and past subjects of known subversive character; i.e., THOMAS FLOWER, San Antonio file 100-10305, who is presently in Leavenworth Penitentiary for his anti-war activities; THOMAS WETZLER, San Antonio file 100-12944, past leader and organizer of the San Antonio Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW); and RITA NEUREUTHER, San Antonio file 100-13682, who appears at the majority of San Antonio demonstrations. All of these persons mentioned as well as others have had access to the telephone located at the AFSC Office in the past or have access to it now.

Tolls were obtained regarding the San Antonio AFSC Office telephone for the purpose of complying with the spirit of the Computerized Telephone Number File Program and its potential in identification of the New Left communication network nationwide. The further purpose was to determine if the telephone was actually being used by persons in which the Bureau had an interest, or was merely available to them. The lead as set forth in referenced San Antonio letter would accomplish this end.

By utilizing good judgement in covering the lead as set forth in referenced San Antonio letter it is felt this objective can be accomplished without embarrassment to the Bureau. As will be noted the lead required only an indices check and the forwarding of pertinent information to San Antonio.

Bureau authority is requested for each of the receiving offices to accomplish the lead as set forth in referenced San Antonio letter.

PURPOSE:

To advise Director relative to letter of Ms. Nike Navor dated 7/22/73, which alleges surveillance by the FBI of members of the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC) and obtain approval for attached acknowledgement.

BACKGROUND:

Navor mentions watching a special telecast on "surveillance" which program shows Philadelphia as representing a typical American city. The AFSC is located in Philadelphia. Navor alleges that AFSC had been under surveillance and expressed shock that such surveillance was so prevalent and felt that this is injurious to the freedom of Americans. She urged the Director to give the matter serious consideration.

As a result of the break in of the Media, Pennsylvania, Resident Agency 3/8-9/71, an investigation was launched to determine the perpetrators of the burglary and who was distributing the stolen documents to the press. Many individuals, some of whom were members of the AFSC, were contacted for interview during the course of this investigation.

AFSC, a Quaker-Pacifist organization, has been active in draft resistance, the antiwar movement, and has made substantial financial contributions to major antiwar groups and demonstrations. They have held many antiwar demonstrations in Washington and throughout the U.S. No active investigation has been conducted by the FBI on the AFSC. The activities regarding demonstrations have been followed and pertinent data disseminated to other government agencies in the intelligence community.

Memorandum to Mr. E. S. Miller
Re: American Friends Service Committee
100-11392

The recent TV Program to which Navor refers is an apparent rerun of a 60-minute program produced by CBS Reports captioned "Under Surveillance," originally broadcast on 12/23/71. This program focuses on the City of Philadelphia and studies the various forms of surveillance by law enforcement, government and private agencies, such as wire taps, stake outs, photographing and tape recording suspect persons, monitoring the mails and investigations by credit companies. The FBI cases mentioned in this program were a rehash of cases brought to public light as a result of the surfacing of stolen FBI documents from the Media Resident Agency burglary.

The AFSC are plaintiffs in a civil action filed in July, 1971, in the United States District Court, Philadelphia, in which the Attorney General, the former Director and others are named as defendants. In addition to the AFSC, the Philadelphia Resistance and eighteen individuals are plaintiffs. The complaint alleges that the defendants through harassment, intimidation and surveillance have unlawfully intruded on plaintiffs' right to privacy and free speech. The matter is pending and the pretrial proceedings have not yet been completed. There were no illegal surveillances of any kind concerning AFSC.

Bufiles contain no information regarding Nike Navor.

K

Congratulations on your appointment. With the help of God and your vast excellent experience, may you accomplish the pursuit of freedom and justice in this often blessed and often torn country. Yours is one of the most difficult jobs in this country. My silent and spoken prayers are with you.

At this point as a concerned citizen, I would like to mention something which is troubleing me. several nights ago I watched a special telacast on "surveillance." I'm sure that you are aware of the program and may even have watched yourself.

As you may know, the telcast chose Philadelphia as its model; representing a typical American city. The American Friends Service Committee is located in Philadelphia. As a young Quaker attender, with many of the predetermined suspicions about governmental activity that so many young people have, I was not surprised that the AFSC had been under surveillance. I am also not surprised, due to the many radical concerns of Friends today, to learn that many Friends are now personally under surveillance. I would like to point out however that Friends as a group are not interested in the overthrow of any government. In my three years of association with Friends, I have never heard this type of feeling voiced. Perhaps I should point out as a point of information as well as a personal concern that it has been often felt "that the business of being a Quaker is to comfort the afflicted and to afflict the comfortable." However as a non-violent religious group, we use our intellects and our souls jointly in this endeavor.

What did surprise and shock me was that a type of "general surveillance" seemed to be so prevalent. That people who had committed no particular crime and who were not considered about to commit such, were under a type of broad sweeping surveillance. I feel this is injurious to our freedom as Americans. And I urge you to give the matter your serious consideration.

Our system of government provides that one is innocent until proven guilty. Our constitution provides for personal freedom of speech, press, and freedom of assembly. Our nation was founded on the ideals of moral and political desert. ~~Perhaps desert is our~~ insurance policy for safeguarding freedom. We are indeed lucky to have such a system of government. Many people of the earth have no such freedoms as their right.

Realizing fully that there is often a fine line between safeguarding the freedoms of the public and providing "security" as well, I imagine that law enforcement agencies must often feel that they are walking a tight-rope of sorts.

On the belief that the American public too often demands of their elected and appointed officials much more than they would ever demand of themselves, I am in this letter committing myself to the above written moral and social beliefs. I realize fully that this letter may have the opposite affect of which it was intended. That if there is not already a file on me (I doubt that there is), this letter may start one. However, in good faith I submit this letter to your consideration.

Sincerely,

Your letter addressed to Mr. Harry Kulick, Department of Justice, has been referred to the FBI and was received on September 5th.

We were unable to locate any information in our files which pertains to overseas investments by United States firms in Germany, Italy, and Japan immediately prior to the Second World War.

If you could furnish us with additional information, such as an archives number, it would help in locating the data you are requesting.

Mr. Harry Kulick, Director

Department of Justice
Washington, D.C. 20530

Dear Sir:

I am presently engaged in research on the history of multi-national investment patterns in connection with the New England Action/Research (NEAR) project of the American Friends Service Committee here in Cambridge. Recently I helped teach a seminar series for AFSC on multinationals and economic conversion in my capacity as a member of the local policy Advisory Committee of NEAR.

On a recent visit to Washington to the National Archives a Justice Department document from 1942 or 1944 came to my attention which would prove most useful to my ongoing research and teaching activities. The document pertains to overseas investments by US firms in Germany, Italy and Japan immediately prior to the Second World War. I believe that the document was an internal memorandum prepared by the FBI. Unfortunately, there seems to be no copy of this document at the Archives.

I would very much appreciate your assistance in obtaining a copy of this document. I will gladly reimburse you for copying and mailing costs. It is my understanding that, although originally a confidential wartime document, this document should be public information covered under Executive Order #11652 (Pentagon Papers Order) and by the recently inaugurated policy of former Secretary Richardson to declassify historical documents from this period.

Thank you for your assistance.

Sincerely,

Michael Kame

American Friends Service Committee

On January 28, 1975, NY T-1 made available the following information concerning recent international operations of the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC).

The AFSC is shipping $50,000 worth of school books to North Vietnam as an initial step in a program of aid to the Communists. A delegation of AFSC teachers will soon go to Hanoi following an invitation from Hanoi after discussions there with three AFSC staff members in August, 1974. One of these staff members was Louis Schneider, Executive Secretary of AFSC. The Canadian Office of AFSC sent an initial gift of $2,500 to Hanoi and one member of the AFSC teacher's group travelling to North Vietnam will be from Canada.

Corinne Johnson, AFSC Latin America Director, returned from a 23 day trip to Chile and other Latin American countries in November, 1974. AFSC in Chile works with the Committee of Co-operation for Peace in Chile, a church group.

Scott Herrick, AFSC staff member in Miami, Florida, is scheduled to sail his boat the Mondcivitano to Cuba sometime in March, 1975.

The AFSC is not the subject of current investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

Sources whose identities are concealed herein have furnished reliable information in the past except where otherwise noted.

Sirs:

Over the past several weeks three widely different organizations have become involved in controversy in this isolated little community. They are the Nature Conservancy, American Friends Service Committee, and the John Birch Society. All three are under highly emotional attack from various elements in the community. People are taking sides and firm opinions are being established. Yet facts are scarce.

In a small, rural setting, such an issue pits friend against friend, neighbor against neighbor, and tears at the very fabric of the community.

What guidance can you offer, and what information can you provide to help us to an understanding of the true nature and purpose of these organizations?

Sincerely,

Donald C. Whitmill
