We are particularly excited about our efforts to expand the number of staff publications as a means of increasing the research community's awareness of NARA's holdings. We target state and local historical and genealogical societies with articles about the agency's holdings, hoping to reach people who otherwise would not think of the National Archives as a resource for their research. During the past few months, the staff published the following:

John Deeben (published):

John Deeben (accepted for publication):
"A Final Appeal to Capital Hill: The U.S. House's Accompanying Papers File, 1865–1903" (accepted for publication in the Spring 2007 issue of Prologue).

Claire Prechtel-Kluskens (published):

Rebecca Sorrell (accepted for publication):
Microfilm Publications

Staff members continue to process accessioned microfilm that documents arrivals into the United States, turning this film into National Archives microfilm publications. During the last quarter, Claire Prechtel-Kluskens completed the following National Archives microfilm publications:

- A3382, Index to Alien Arrivals by Airplane at Miami, Florida, 1930–1942, 1900–1940 (68 rolls). 35mm. RG 85.

- M2107, Master Abstracts of Certificates of Enrollment Issued for Merchant Vessels at Selected Great Lakes Ports, 1815–1911 (5 rolls). 35mm. RG 41.

Reference Reports

(Available at Archives I Only)

Staff members produce many one-page reference reports, directing researchers to NARA microfilm publications, textual records, NARA’s web site, and printed government documents pertaining to numerous research topics. The reports are extremely useful for first-time researchers as a method to explain the types of records that are available for research, as well as for suggesting a research path that can be tailored to the individual’s need. Reports fall into several general categories, including Native Americans, African Americans, Asian Americans, residents of the District of Columbia, Military Service, Citizenship, Hispanics, Immigration, and Civilian Federal Employees. Each category is color-coded for ease of reference.
Reference Reports  (Cont.)

During the last quarter, the staff completed 10 new reference reports: 2 pertaining to the military, 3 to immigration, 2 to general citizenship issues, and 3 to Federal employees. Our newest arrivals are:

Military (green paper)
- World War II Army Serial Number Merged Files

Immigration (golden rod paper)
- Researching Immigrants Arriving at the Port of New York: Records of the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS), 1897–1957
- Researching Immigrants Arriving at the Port of New York: Records of the U.S. Customs Service, 1820–1897
- Databases Relating to Irish Ship Arrivals at the Port of New York During the Potato Famine, 1846–1851

Citizenship (pink paper)
- Selected Records Relating to Presidential Pardons and Amnesty to Former Confederate Citizens, 1865–1877
- Selected Microfilmed Records Relating to Confederate Citizens During the Civil War, 1861–1866

Federal Employees (blue paper)
- Microfilmed Records of the U.S. Senate Relating to Early Presidential Nominations, 1797–1811
- Using the Official Register of the United States to Research Federal Employees, 1816–1959
- Finding Employees of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in the Official Register of the United States, 1817–1925

Enhanced Finding Aids

This quarter, staff prepared one enhanced finding aid:

The Foreign Agricultural Service’s Narrative Reports, 1955–61  (942 boxes). This container list completes a major part of the description of Record Group (RG) 166. Staff included the names of every country in each box, not just the first and last ones. This will make the list ARC-friendly. The reports include extensive files on the GATT and on European integration matters. A copy of the list is available in the Finding Aids Room.

Center for Legislative Archives Acquires Senate Collection

The papers of Isaac Bassett, a 64-year employee of the United States Senate, have been transferred to the Center for Legislative Archives as part of the U.S. Senate Collection.

On December 5, 1831, 12-year-old Isaac Bassett was selected by Senator Daniel Webster as the second person ever to serve as a page in the United States Senate. In 1838, Bassett was promoted to messenger, and in 1861, he was administered the oath as assistant doorkeeper to the Senate, a post he held until his death in 1895. Having a position on the floor of the Senate allowed Bassett to witness the great debates leading up to the U.S. Civil War, Reconstruction, and the Gilded Age.

In preparation for writing a memoir of his experience working for the Senate, Bassett saved notes, anecdotes, newspaper clippings, and personal observations. Although he never completed his memoir, his papers were preserved and eventually donated to the U.S. Senate. The Senate has transferred them to the Center for Legislative Archives, where they are maintained and preserved as part of the U.S. Senate Collection.

The records have been microfilmed and are available in the microfilm reading room at the National Archives Building in Washington, DC.

There are two finding aids for the collection—a subject index and a name index. Both finding aids are available on microfilm and online via the Center’s web site: www.archives.gov/legislative/.

NARA’s Motion Pictures Footage Featured in a PBS Series

The Motion Pictures, Sound, & Video Branch staff contributed many hours to provide copies of World War II color footage to the producers of The Perilous Fight: America’s World War II in Color. This four-part series aired on PBS stations nationwide in February 2003. Narrated by Martin Sheen, the series shows a portrait of the American battlefield and home-front experiences through original color-film footage, as well as through letters and diary entries.

The second World War was the first war to be recorded extensively on color film, mostly by Americans. For years, much of that color footage remained unknown and unseen. It wasn’t until the late 1970s that the National Archives in Washington, DC, received film holdings from World War II. Much of the rare color footage shown had never been shown publicly prior to this PBS series.

Recently, film researcher Polly Pettit contacted Les Waffen of NARA’s Motion Picture, Sound, & Video Branch on behalf of series producer Martin Smith to express again their appreciation to NARA for work in making the series such a success. Pettit and Smith, along with archive film producer Adrian Wood, had ordered hundreds of reels of film from NARA while conducting their research on this project. NARA is credited as one of the archival footage sources.

The series has been broadcast 5,425 times on 425 public television channels and has been aired in every state of the union. It has been seen in 182 measured markets, 100 percent of the top 25 markets, and in 96 percent of the top 50 markets. It has passed 107,699,890 TV households, or 273,999,000 persons.

For further information on this series, please visit www.pbs.org/perilousfight/.

Filling Vacancies at the National Archives in College Park

We are pleased to report that we are in the process of filling five new archives technician vacancies to assist in the area of pulls and refills. The addition of these five new employees will go a long way in providing the staff needed to support such a critical function. We hope that this will significantly improve researchers’ experience.

Microfilm Publication Available at Order Online!

The National Archives announces a new microfilm publication (M1944), which includes records from Record Group 239, the Records of the American Commission for the Protection and Salvage of Artistic and Historic Monuments in War Areas (The Robert Commission), 1943–1946. To order, visit Order Online! at https://eservices.archives.gov/orderonline/.
We are pleased to introduce and welcome Robert (Bob) Borland to the National Archives at College Park. As our Customer Services specialist for the Textual Research Room, Bob is responsible for managing the operations in the Research Room.

Bob received a Master of Arts degree in Communications from California University of Pennsylvania and has 20 years of experience in customer services. Prior to coming to College Park, he worked in NARA’s Public Programs Division (NWE) and assisted with the opening of the National Archives Experience Museum to the public. He has also worked for the National Park Service and the Bureau of Land Management, the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal National Historical Park, the National Historic Oregon Trail Interpretive Center, the San Antonio Missions National Historical Park, and the Martin Luther King, Jr., National Historic Site. Outside of work, Bob enjoys hiking, camping, traveling, socializing with friends, and riding his Harley Davidson.

The knowledge and skills that Bob brings with him will strengthen and facilitate the growth of our customer services operations. We are happy to have this great new addition to our team and look forward to the future success he will bring to NARA in meeting the needs of our customers.
In addition to providing opportunities for staff, volunteers, and researchers to learn about NARA’s records through lectures, genealogy workshops, and the From the Records Book Group discussions, this quarter the Customer Services Division (NWCC) is announcing the third annual Genealogy Fair and a new edition of Researcher News.

Currently, each one-hour lecture is delivered twice within the same week – on Tuesdays at the National Archives Building at 700 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, DC, and on Thursdays at the National Archives (Archives II) at 8601 Adelphi Road, College Park, MD. Most of these sessions are videotaped and made available for interlibrary loan through NARA libraries and regional facilities throughout the United States. Most, but not all, of the genealogy workshops are offered on Saturdays.

We publicize our offerings in NARA’s Calendar of Events at www.archives.gov/calendar/ and on our page at www.archives.gov/dc-metro/know-your-records/

See this quarter’s schedule below.

APRIL–JUNE 2007

LECTURES and GENEALOGY WORKSHOPS

- Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and Privacy Act. The General Counsel’s access staff is responsible for processing FOIA and Privacy Act requests for NARA’s operational records (records the agency creates or receives in carrying out its mission). Ramona Branch Oliver will discuss NARA’s FOIA and Privacy Act issues and give information and advice on access issues. Tuesday, April 17, 2007, noon, in Room G-24, Research Center, National Archives Building.
  (This lecture will be repeated at the National Archives at College Park, MD, in Lecture Room B, on Thursday, April 19, at noon.)

- The Electronic Records Archives Program: A Progress Report. Over the last decade, NARA and its partners have been working toward building the archives of the future: the Electronic Records Archives. ERA will capture, preserve, and provide access to electronic records and safeguard them for the future. Rita Cacas will introduce the ERA program and give an update on its development, and a presentation about ERA research will be given in the Archives I and Archives II Virtual Archives Laboratories. Tuesday, April 24, 2006, noon, in Room G-24, Research Center, National Archives Building.
  (This lecture will be repeated at the National Archives at College Park, MD, in Lecture Room B, on Thursday, April 26, at noon.)

- Mexican War Records at the National Archives. Timothy Duskin will discuss records dealing with military service in the Mexican War, both army and naval, found at the National Archives. Tuesday, May 8, 2007, 11:00 a.m., in Room G-24, Research Center, National Archives Building. Enter on Pennsylvania Avenue.

  (This lecture will be repeated at the National Archives at College Park, MD, in Lecture Room B, on Thursday, May 10, at 11:00 a.m.)

- An Introduction to Genealogy: An African-American Perspective. Deborah Daniels, American Legacy magazine, and Reginald Washington, staff archivist, will present a workshop on basic genealogical research and techniques. They will discuss the use of oral history, pedigree charts, family group sheets, and other resources, including Federal, state, and local records available for African-American family research. Saturday May 19, 2007, 10:15 a.m.– 1:15 p.m., William G. McGowan Theater. Enter on Constitution Avenue.

  Reservations are required, and a fee of $20 is payable by cash or check at the door.

2007 Genealogy Fair

Buried Biography: Bring 'Em Back to Life!

WHAT: The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) will host its third annual Genealogy Fair on Wednesday, April 11, 2007. This year’s theme, Buried Biography: Bring 'Em Back to Life! will focus on Federal records located at the National Archives that relate to genealogy and cannot be researched online. Speakers will encourage family historians to come to Washington, DC, and NARA’s regional archives to further explore their family history. Speakers will also demonstrate how discovering these sometimes obscure records can aid researchers who are writing family histories and biographies. Topics addressed will include immigration, naturalization, weather as it affects families and communities, black emigration, NARA regional records, and family histories. The fair will provide information and guidance for experienced genealogy professionals and novices alike. This event is free and open to the public.

WHEN: Wednesday, April 11, 2007, 9:30 a.m.–4:30 p.m. For a schedule of lectures and demonstrations please visit www.archives.gov and click on “genealogy news and events.”

WHERE: National Archives Building, Research Center Lobby, 700 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, between 7th and 9th Streets, Washington, DC. Government-issued photo identification is required to enter the building. The closest Metro stop is the Archives/Navy Memorial stop on the Yellow and Green lines. The National Archives is fully accessible. If you need to request an accommodation (e.g., sign language interpreter) for a public program, please e-mail reservations.nwe@nara.gov or call 202-357-5000 at least two weeks prior to the event to ensure that proper arrangements are secured.

WHO: Speakers include Marian Smith, historian at the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, and NARA staff Kenneth Heger, Constance Potter, Jeffery Hartley, Claire Kluskens, Damani Davis, and Patrick Connelly.

BACKGROUND: The National Archives holds the permanently valuable noncurrent records of the Federal government. These include records of interest to genealogists. For information on NARA’s holdings see www.archives.gov.

Online Resources in ALIC

Many researchers, especially those at Archives I, are familiar with the online genealogical resources Ancestry Library Edition and HeritageQuest that are provided through ALIC. However, ALIC also provides the following resources on the public access PCs in the research rooms:

Biography and Genealogy Master Index
Comprehensive index to nearly 12 million biographical sketches in more than 2,700 volumes

ArchivesUSA
- Directory of Archives and Manuscript Repositories in the United States, with information on over 5,480 repositories and 132,300 collections of primary source material across the United States
- National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections (NUCMC): published since 1959, and contains over 93,100 records
- National Inventory of Documentary Sources – US (NIDS–US): complete indexing of over 58,600 records

ProQuest Direct
Citations, abstracts, and/or full text of over 1,000 newspapers and journals, including:
- Newspaper abstracts and/or full text from 1985– (including the full text New York Times for the most recent 90 days)
- Full text of the Washington Post from 1877–1989
- Full text of the New York Times from 1851–2002
- Abstracts for over 1,000 journals from 1986–present
- Full text for over 700 journals from 1992–present

ALIC staff at the National Archives Building in Washington, DC, and at the National Archives in College Park, MD, can provide search help as requested.
From The Records Book Group

The Know Your Records Program launched its monthly book group in September 2006. The From the Records Book Group meets at noon on the third Wednesday of each month, in Room G-243 of the Research Center at the National Archives Building, Washington, DC. Non-fiction books are chosen because of their direct relationship to the NARA records. This free discussion is open to NARA staff and the public.

Please check the Archives Shop (202-357-5271) for book availability and a special discount for book group participants.

This quarter’s books are:

April 18, 2007

The Pirates Laffite: The Treacherous World of the Corsairs of the Gulf, by William C. Davis

Mr. Davis recounts the true story of New Orleans privateers Jean and Pierre Laffite, from about the time of the Louisiana Purchase through the 1820s. He separates fact from fiction as he relates the brothers as complex, if ruthless businessmen, who, while savaging the trade of Spanish merchants on the gulf, formed the foundation for a profitable syndicate. Their associates included leading citizens and government officials on the take. The Laffites themselves, however, became notorious only when they courted the Spanish and betrayed their allies.

May 16, 2007

Coming Out Under Fire: The History of Gay Men and Women in World War Two, by Alan Berube

This major study chronicles the struggle of homosexuals in the U.S. military during WWII where they found themselves fighting on two fronts: against the Axis and against their own authorities, who took extreme measures to stigmatize them as unfit to serve their country. From 1941 to 1945, more than 9,000 gay servicemen and women purportedly were diagnosed as sexual psychopaths and given “undesirable” discharges. Based on documents obtained under the Freedom of Information Act, augmented by 75 interviews with gay male and female veterans, the author recounts the purges in the military into the Cold War era when homosexuality was officially equated with sin, crime, and sickness. The book reveals that the first public challenge to the military's policy came not from the gay-rights movement but from military psychiatrists who studied gay servicemen and women during World War II.

June 20, 2007

Watergate: The Presidential Scandal that Shook America, by Keith W. Olson

More than 30 years after the June 17, 1972, break-in at the Democratic Party's National Committee headquarters in Washington, DC, historians continue to struggle with how a third-rate burglary led to a massive White House cover-up that forced President Richard M. Nixon to become the only person to resign the presidency. The author chronicles the forces that drove the Nixon White House to embark on an unprecedented domestic intelligence-gathering operation.
