New Genealogy Programs

You are invited to attend new genealogy programs taking place twice a month on select Wednesdays and Saturdays, in Room G-24, Research Center of the National Archives Building, Washington, DC (Enter on Pennsylvania Avenue). These programs are free and open to all.

DESCRIPTION OF GENEALOGY PROGRAMS:

Introduction to Genealogy
On the first Wednesday of the month at 11 a.m. and select Saturdays at 10 a.m., staff archivists present one-hour lectures on basic genealogical research and techniques, including an introduction to census, military, and immigration records.

“Help! I’m Stuck”
On select Saturday afternoons, an archivist with extensive experience in genealogy and the records of the National Archives will be available to assist with your research questions. Upon arrival, please sign up for a 20-minute appointment in the Research Center.

Nancy Wing

Nancy Wing is a reference librarian in the Archives Library Information Center (ALIC). She began working at the National Archives Building in Washington, DC, in June 2004 as the primary reference librarian where she assisted researchers in genealogy. In August 2006, she transferred to the regional archives in Laguna Niguel where she worked with original records as an archives specialist.

There she was able to broaden her archival experience through processing original records, entering descriptions of records for the Archives Research Catalog (ARC), preparing exhibits, and providing reference assistance to researchers, including responding to written inquiries. In addition, she gave presentations about the holdings at the National Archives to various organizations in the community.

In July 2008, Nancy returned to the Washington, DC, area working again as a reference librarian in ALIC. She feels her experience at Laguna Niguel has served to broaden her knowledge about archives, enabling her to serve the staff and researchers more effectively. Besides assisting staff and researchers with reference questions, she catalogs books, prepares and gives presentations, and assists in maintaining ALIC web pages. Her work locations are at both the National Archives Building and the facility in College Park, MD.

Nancy resides in Montgomery County. She received her bachelor's degree in history with honors from California State University, San Marcos, and her masters degree in Library and Information Science from San Jose State University.

Andrea Bassing Matney

Andrea Bassing Matney views her job as a way to connect people to the treasures in our nation’s memory. As a Community Outreach and Programs Specialist in the Customer Services Division, she offers learning opportunities for researchers in the Washington, DC, area, through the Know Your Records programs and Researcher News.

Andrea joined the National Archives in 1992 after graduating from the University of Maryland with a B.S. in Elementary Education. She worked for the Facilities Management Division from 1992–2006 and more recently the Special Events and Scheduling office in Washington, DC, within the National Archives Experience Museum Programs.

As an Assistant Manager for Special Events and a Community Outreach Specialist, she helped people access the treasure trove of priceless information at events from private functions to large public festivals.

While working in the Facilities Management Division, she managed the National Wellness Program to foster healthier lifestyles among her fellow employees. She was the Vice President of the Recreation Association, a morale-boosting Association for the Washington area. As the National Employee Transportation Coordinator, she encouraged use of alternative transportation in commuting. At the same time, Andrea worked as a Community Outreach Coordinator, helping the agency connect with community groups and events.

Andrea is an avid bicyclist and outdoors person. She is a winner of many medals for Randonneuring, ultra-long-distance cycling, and she is a community volunteer. An extrovert, she loves to see you at the Know Your Records programs. Please stop by and say hello!
New Microfilm Publications

by Claire Kluskens

Staff members continue to process accessioned microfilm that documents arrivals into the United States, turning this film into National Archives microfilm publications. During the last quarter, staff completed the following National Archives microfilm publications:

New Staff Publications

Periodically, staff publishes articles in order to expand research community awareness of NARA’s holdings. By targeting state and local historical and genealogical societies with articles about the agency’s holdings, we hope to reach people who otherwise would not think of the National Archives as a resource for their research. During the past few months, the staff has published the following:

- Rebecca Crawford (published):
  “The Forgotten Federal Census of 1885” [Prologue 40:3 (Fall 2008): 54–59]

- John Deeben (published):

- Claire Kluskens (published):

These articles are available through the Archives Library Information Center (ALIC) at the National Archives Building, Washington, DC. For more information, see www.archives.gov/research/alic/.

Cleaning of the Exterior Stone Façade

by Tim Edwards

The Facilities staff is overseeing a complete restoration cleaning of all exterior limestone and granite surfaces of the National Archives Building to enhance the aesthetic appeal of the building and identify and repair compromised and vulnerable elements of the stonework. The project is on time and progressing well with expected completion in December 2008.

In October 2008, the project progressed to the south side (Constitution Avenue) of the building. Scaffolding has been erected at the 9th Street and Constitution Avenue (southwest corner) from the portico to the roof line above the 4th floor.

Additional scaffolding is being added to the Pennsylvania Avenue side to permit cleaning of the gable pediment above the researcher and staff entrance.

The project is expected to be completed and all scaffolding removed from the north side of the building in December 2008.

Your continued patience and cooperation while this work is underway is greatly appreciated.

Lecture Rooms Closed January–February

The lecture rooms in College Park, MD, will be closed for a major audiovisual equipment upgrade from January until the end of February. Events typically held in these rooms have been moved to different locations. Please note that during January and February 2009, the Know Your Records programs will be held in the auditorium rather than in Lecture Room B.
Relocated Films

by Rebecca Crawford

The following films have moved from the National Archives Building, Washington, DC, to the National Archives at College Park, MD.

- M235, Miscellaneous Treasury Accounts of the First Auditor (formerly, The Auditor) of the Treasury Department, September 6, 1790–1840.
- M497, Letters Sent by the Commissioner of Customs Relating to Smuggling, 1865–1869.
- T227, Civil War Direct Tax Assessment Lists: Tennessee.
- T899, Register of Audits of 'Miscellaneous Treasury Accounts' (First Auditor's Office).

Access to Some Records in RG 110
Temporarily Unavailable

On August 11, 2008, access to some entries within RG 110 (Records of the Provost Marshal General's Bureau [Civil War]) were temporarily closed.

The records were relocated from the National Archives Building in Washington, DC, to regional locations for availability with Federal records of states within those regions. The records will be open for public access at the regional locations as of December 8, 2008.

For further information, see www.archives.gov/locations/rg-110-move.html.

New Images from Digital Scanning Partnership

by Cynthia Fox

The National Archives' partnership with Family Search and Footnote.com has produced a pilot project to scan the original Civil War widow's pension application files for publication on the Internet. The Civil War Conservation Corps (CWCC), an all-volunteer group, does the preparation. Volunteers from the Genealogical Society of Utah scan the documents. Footnote.com then publishes the images online. On October 14, 2008, Footnote.com launched the first images from the Civil War widow's pensions on their web site at www.footnote.com/.

Footnote.com is free on any NARA computer.

NOTE: See upcoming January 6 and January 8 lectures on page 12.

Archival Research Catalog (ARC)

by Kristen Albrittain

Office of Strategic Services (OSS) Files

The Archival Research Catalog (ARC) now includes the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) descriptions of 23,973 personnel files, dated between 1941 and 1945 (records released August 14, 2008).

This World War II-era intelligence agency was the predecessor to the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and employed such notable individuals as former CIA directors William Casey and Allen Dulles, Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg and chef Julia Child. Users can search within the series description (ARC ID 1593270) for individual files, which contain such information as training and work assignments, pay and travel records, evaluations, and awards. Records are available for research in the Textual Archives Services Division Reference Section at the National Archives in College Park, MD.

Rosenberg Transcripts

On September 11, 2008, NARA posted to its online Archival Research Catalog (ARC) 65 transcripts of the grand jury testimonies of 40 witnesses in the Julius and Ethel Rosenberg atomic treason case. During the summer, NARA’s Northeast Region, New York, NY, released the testimony in response to court orders by the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York. Users can access digital copies of the records via the file unit Transcripts of Grand Jury Testimony (ARC ID 2321340) or through the chart located at www.archives.gov/research/arc/topics/courts/rosenberg-jury.html. Witnesses include Vivian Glassman, Michael Sidorovich, and Ethel Rosenberg.

Access to Archival Databases (AAD)

by Lynn Goodsell

This past summer, the AAD staff added the Viet Cong Initiated Incidents Files for the years 1965–68 to the Access to Archival Databases (AAD) resource. These records contain data on enemy initiated incidents during the Vietnam War. For example, there are records of incidents that occurred on the first day of the Tet Offensive, January 31, 1968.

In addition to the Viet Cong Initiated Incidents Files, NARA has other electronic records series related to the Vietnam War for searching and viewing online at www.archives.gov/aad. Other Vietnam War series on AAD include records about air sorties flown from 1970 through 1975, naval gunfire support, and Army ground combat operations. The Department of Defense compiled these electronic records of military operations to create reports, evaluate efforts, and collect data for military decisions. NARA also makes Vietnam War casualty records, including for those missing in action or prisoners of war, available via AAD.

Staff also added an updated version of the World War II Prisoners of the Japanese Data Files, donated by the American Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor.

For a list of all the records available on AAD and to search the records, please visit the AAD main page at www.archives.gov/aad.
The ALIC staff is pleased to offer ProQuest Obituaries to researchers visiting NARA facilities in the Washington, DC, area. This database contains over 10.5 million obituaries and death notices from such geographically diverse newspapers as the New York Times, Chicago Tribune, Los Angeles Times, Atlanta Constitution, and others, as far back as 1849. Obituaries are a valuable resource to researchers and genealogists because they can provide important biographical clues such as full name (including maiden name), occupation, family members, place of birth, military service, and more.

The database has an interface similar to that of HeritageQuest, and is easy to use, whether you are an experienced researcher or a new genealogist. You can search by name, date range, publication name, and keyword. Wildcard searching is available, which helps uncover variations in spelling. When searching by name, use either the name of the deceased or the name of anyone that appears within the obituary. This is a handy feature if one knows the child’s name, for instance, but not the parent’s name. The Search Results page provides a list of entries that match the search criteria, and gives the name of the deceased, publication name and date, location, and title of obituary. Clicking on an entry’s link brings up a PDF image of the obituary with a complete citation.

One of the most interesting features of ProQuest Obituaries is the Notebook, which also appears on HeritageQuest. With the Notebook, you can make a list of the obituaries and death notices that are of interest and can add notes that may be referenced later. View images from the Notebook and remove entries that do not fit your needs. You can e-mail it to yourself to look at later. Although one cannot view images from this e-mail, the complete citations and research notes are available. The Notebook is emptied at the end of a session or if the database is not used for more than 30 minutes.
Know Your Records! KYR@nara.gov

The Know Your Records program offers opportunities for staff, volunteers, and researchers to learn about NARA’s records through lectures and genealogy programs, symposiums, the annual genealogy fair, quarterly editions of Researcher News, a genealogy tutorial, and From the Records Book Group discussions.

Lectures describe NARA’s records; explain how and where to locate the records; and demonstrate how to use the records for research. Each one-hour lecture is delivered twice within the same week: on Tuesdays at the National Archives Building at 700 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, DC; and on Thursdays at the National Archives (Archives II), located at 8601 Adelphi Road, College Park, MD. Most of these sessions are videotaped and made available for interlibrary loan through NARA libraries and our regional facilities throughout the United States.

Genealogy programs include monthly workshops and lectures from our staff archivists with extensive experience in genealogy. We provide lectures on basic genealogical research and techniques and one-on-one assistance. Programs take place on the first Wednesday and one Saturday a month at the National Archives Building.

Symposiums are one to two, full-day programs on specific genealogy research topics. Past topics included Hispanic and African American genealogy information and guidance for seasoned professionals and novices alike.

Save the Date!

The Annual Genealogy Fair will take place on April 22, 2009. The fair is an all day open house with guidance on a wide variety of genealogical research topics with NARA staff and volunteers.

The 2009 From the Records Book Group will meet the third Tuesday of February, March, May, September, October (College Park), and November. We meet at 11 a.m., in Room G-24 of the National Archives Building in Washington, DC, for a discussion or film relating to the book and then, at noon, to discuss the book. Enter on Pennsylvania Avenue. The books may be purchased anywhere; the Archives Shop offers a discount to those who are participating in the book group.

Two awards to be granted for articles based on National Archives records

In celebration of its 75th anniversary, the National Archives announces two awards to recognize significant achievements in genealogy research, based on records from the National Archives.

The National Archives is known worldwide as a treasure chest of genealogical information. Each year, millions of people use Federal records in the National Archives to search for their family roots. Census schedules, ship passenger arrival lists, citizenship papers, military pension files, land patents, and court records offer detailed evidence to flesh out family histories. This competition provides an opportunity for students to share their research “treasures” with the public.

The awards are $1,000 for first place; $500 for second place. Winning articles may be published in Prologue, the quarterly magazine of the National Archives, and/or on the National Archives web site.

To be eligible, an applicant must be either an undergraduate or graduate student enrolled in an accredited institution of higher learning; have completed at least one semester; and have not yet advanced to candidacy, if in a Ph.D. program. An applicant does not have to be an American citizen, but must be attending an American college or university. Permanent National Archives employees are not eligible.

Awards will be announced at the National Archives annual Genealogy Fair on April 22, 2009.
