Sirhan Had Few Friends, No Close Ties

WASHINGTON — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, the 24-year-old accused assassin of Robert F. Kennedy, is a Jordanian by descent, a Greek Orthodox Christian by religion, a Palestinian by birth, and a resident of the United States by choice.

He appears to be a man of no nationality.

Five feet five inches tall, 120 pounds in weight, curly-haired, swarthy, speaking with a slight continental accent, Sirhan was described yesterday by a former employer as "opposed to the Vietnam war, in favor of riots — but not a member of any group. He was a very proud man. He wanted to be recognized by the world."

The employer, John H. Weidner, owner of the Organic Health Food store in Pasadena, Calif., for whom Sirhan worked as a 2-dollar-an-hour stockboy from Sept. 24, 1967, to March 7, described Sirhan as "very ambitious and well-spoken." He said that the 24-year-old immigrant whom he described as a friend, as well as an employe, appeared to have no close friends, either male or female.

None of the legions of journalists and policemen who have been turned loose on the accused — has been able to unearth close friends or associates. Apart from Sirhan's immediate family, Weidner is — to date — the best disinterested witness.

He said that Sirhan hated Jews, an apparent legacy from the 1948 Palestine war when Sirhan said he saw Arabs killed by Israelis. Weidner said that Sirhan "liked the law — and the courts." He gave this account of a dispute with Sirhan which ended in termination of employment:

The dispute arose over a delivery schedule. Weidner had one opinion, Sirhan another, and it ended when Sirhan called his boss a "liar." Then he quit. Shortly thereafter, Sirhan demanded $300 severance pay, which Weidner refused.

Sirhan insisted on taking the matter before a California labor commissioner. Weidner agreed, and on April 24 Los Angeles Labor Commissioner M. A. Myers heard the case. He found for Weidner.

Sirhan's supposed fascination for law and the courts is partially substantiated by his attitude with Los Angeles police. When first arrested, he steadfastly refused a lawyer — apparently on the assumption that he would make his own defense. He spoke amicably — "very cool, very calm, very stable, and quite lucid," according to Police Chief Thomas Reddin — but would not speak of the shooting, nor of the events that led up to it.

According to Lt. Jack Eberhardt, an aide to Reddin, Sirhan spoke enthusiastically about a sensational local murder case last year, in which a Los Angeles County deputy district attorney was convicted of killing his wife and her lover. Sirhan brought up the matter several times, according to Eberhardt, and was interested in whether the convicted murderer, Jack Kirshke, would win freedom in his appeal.

Apparently at the urging of Al Wirin, the chief counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union in southern California, Sirhan has now agreed to retain a lawyer.

But the picture that has emerged of Sirhan is far from definitive. The known facts are meager enough:

Records of the Immigration and Naturalization Service give his birth date as March 19, 1944, in Jordan. He arrived in New York City, with his father, Bishara Salameh Ghatas Sirhan, and his mother, Mary Bishara Sirhan, three brothers and a sister, on Jan. 12, 1957.

The family apparently moved shortly thereafter to Pasadena, where Sirhan attended the John Muir High School. He is said to have been a good student, a member of both the junior and senior councils, and a member of the ROTC. A classmate has described him as "polite, clean, and an A-1 student."

The classmate, Christian Ek, 23, a Swede, said in Stockholm that he "dreamed of being something big in Jordan." In Saigon, another classmate, Lt. William A. Spaniard, 24, of Pasadena, described Sirhan as "brilliant. He was studying Russian while everyone else was barely getting by in Spanish and English."

The charge of pro-Communism has been made, but not proved. Weidner said that Sirhan spoke of America as "not really the place of freedom." Was it better in Russia or China, Weidner asked? "One day, maybe," Weidner said Sirhan replied. Los Angeles police have said publicly and privately there is no evidence to support a charge that Sirhan was a Communist.

That he hated Jews there is little doubt. "He was violently pro-Jordan and anti-Israel," said John Shear, who worked with Sirhan at Hollywood Park race track (where Sirhan was an exercise boy). "When there was trouble between Jordan and Israel, he would become inflamed." Shear's statement is confirmed by Weidner.

And there is the matter of the now-famous reports, quoted by the Los Angeles mayor, Sam Yorty. Yorty said that Sirhan's diary contained an entry last month that "Kennedy has to be assassinated before June 5, 1968." That is the first anniversary of the Arab-Israeli war.

Mary Sirhan, the mother, and Bishara Salameh Ghatas Sirhan, the father, are separated. The mother still lives in Pasadena, the father returned to Jordan.

"My son — it can't be. No. Oh, no," Mrs. Sirhan was quoted as saying when she learned her son had been arrested for the shooting of Senator Kennedy.

Sirhan With 2 Others, Says Gun Salesman

By GEORGE LARDNER JR.
AND NIESON HIMMEL
Washington Post Service

LOS ANGELES — The Saturday before the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, his alleged killer, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, walked into the Lock, Stock 'n Barrel Shop in suburban San Gabriel.

The proprietors of the gun shop, Ben and Dona Herrick, say there were two men with him.

"There were three guys, all dark and small," Herrick, 42, declared. "Three dried up, little ---s."

Clerk Larry Arnot said he waited on them.

The receipt from the sale that afternoon — $3.99, including tax, for four boxes of .22-caliber bullets — was found in Sirhan's car near the Ambassador Hotel after the shooting.

The recollections at the gun shop built up after that.

"When I saw the picture in the paper, I had the feeling that I had seen him somewhere, but it didn't dawn on me at the time that he was the one I had sold the bullets to," Arnot said.

"A day later — or maybe it was a couple of days later, I can't remember — the owners got the information that we had sold the ammunition.

"I said then, to my employer's wife, Dona, and Ben, "By golly, I waited on that guy." The bell rang just like that. Before that, I had halfway discharged it from my mind that I had seen this guy somewhere before."

Hundreds of Tips

What police make of all this is not clear. They have, inevitably, received hundreds of tips, rumors and reports that a conspiracy may have been involved. Yet days have passed and no one appears to have unearthed any close friends or associates of the 24-year-old Jordanian immigrant indicted for the slaying.

If any is found, it remains to be seen what, if anything, Sirhan told his friends of his interest in guns or of Senator Kennedy.

It may take months, perhaps years to sort out the facts.

At the gun shop, nestled in a shopping center with a Wild West motif, the Herricks, who said they have talked to police twice, and Arnot, who said he has not been questioned at all, were quite firm about Sirhan being accompanied by two other men.

Mrs. Herrick declared that she also remembered an earlier visit to the store, about a month and a half ago, by Sirhan — again, she said, with the same two men.

There was no sale on the first trip, she said. Mrs. Herrick said the men asked whether the shop carried armor-piercing .357-magnum ammunition such as California highway patrolmen use for their .38-caliber revolvers.

Her husband said they asked the same question that Saturday, June 1, before buying the .22-calibers.

"We carry it," Herrick said, "but I told them we didn't have it because I don't want to sell that kind of stuff to guys like that." Herrick said he stocks the ammunition for police officers and makes it a practice not to sell it to anyone else. "I figure they had no business having that stuff," he said.

According to the receipt that was found in Sirhan's car, two of the boxes of .22s were "mini-mags." Some gun buffs still call them "hollow points." They usually split off in different directions upon impact.

At Gun Club

Three days later, Sirhan was seen practicing rapid-fire shooting at the San Gabriel Valley Gun Club in Fish Canyon about 10 miles from the gun shop.

One witness, Henry A. Carreon, told the Los Angeles County Grand Jury that he and a companion, David Montellano, both noticed Sirhan "shooting very rapidly on the range with a revolver" — a .22-caliber Iver Johnson.

Sirhan, the grand jury was told, also had with him a box of "mini-mag" bullets set aside from the rest of his ammunition. A similar box was found in his car after the assassination.

In still other testimony, the grand jury heard Vincent Di-pierro, a 19-year-old college freshman, tell of seeing a shapely girl in a polka-dot dress standing next to Sirhan and apparently chatting. The two were smiling at each other just before Kennedy was gunned down, Dipierro said.

And at the San Gabriel Valley Gun Club, one of the habitués insisted that he, too, had seen Sirhan there — with a girl, and “another guy.” He did not say when.

Asked at first by a reporter if he remembered seeing Sirhan at the practice range, the club member loudly professed a determination to keep his mouth shut.

But as customers and spectators moved away, he said: “If you ask me who was here talking to me, the police or the FBI, I guess I’d have to tell you: Both of them.”

He said he’s been warned that if he says anything about the case, he could get six months in jail — presumably for violating a court order restricting comment. But then he turned more loquacious.

“I know a lot more than I’m telling you — a dozen times more than you think I do,” he said, adding softly: “I saw them all together.”

“You mean Sirhan?”

“Yes, him, a woman and another guy. Remember, I said t-h-e-m.”

He refused to elaborate on the cryptic remarks. A customer drew near and the club member said noisily, “I told you I can’t say anything.”

Lloyd Hager, manager of the National Rifle Association-sponsored gun club, said he knows of no girl or any other companions with Sirhan. As far as he could tell, he said Sirhan had been at the range only once, alone, in the early afternoon before the assassination.

“I can’t even recall him being here that day,” Hager said. “But he must have been because his name is on the log.” Generally, those who use the practice range are supposed to sign in.

Gun club members say a driver’s license is a standard requisite for identification. Spectators, however, apparently need not sign the log.

Asked if there were any indications that Sirhan had been at the gun club before his appearance on the eve of the assassination, Hager replied: “None whatsoever.”

Los Angeles police and FBI agents, however, are said to be checking out every lead they get.

“You can imagine how many irrelevant contacts will be made,” said Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger, “but we’re not going to ignore any of them. We know there will be people in the next 50 years who’ll be saying: ‘Why didn’t the police do this? Why didn’t the police do that?’”

Among these other reports, investigators reportedly have been told that Sirhan and several male companions were seen, within a few days before the assassination at some of the many topless nightclubs in Los Angeles.

In Alhambra, a few miles west of San Gabriel, FBI agents reportedly have been also checking into a coffee shop and a go-go club Sirhan is said to have frequented. The Alhambra Post-Advocate reported earlier that Sirhan, perhaps accompanied by others, is supposed to have visited a coffee shop on Main Street in the daylight hours before the assassination.

Other, less credible, reports have come from everyone from the chief of a group of Cuban exiles, who claims to have scuffled with Sirhan at a Peace and Freedom party meeting last month, to a belly dancer in blonde wig, one of three to present themselves to police as “The Girl in the Polka-Dot Dress.”

Some headway is being made. Mayor Sam Yorty said last week, before he was hushed by court order, that Sirhan’s car had been spotted parked near a building where the radical left-wing W. E. B. Dubois Club was meeting.

“He was inflamed by contacts with the Communist party of Communist-infiltrated organizations,” Yorty declared.

The mayor appears to have been swinging wildly.

Sirhan was never seen inside the Dubois Club. It may have been a brother’s car, anyway. In any event, Sirhan and perhaps most other Arabs of any extraction in Los Angeles have no doubt parked near the building

The Fez, a Middle Eastern belly dance place—for the whole family—is right down the street.

Sirhan’s 29-year-old brother, Del, used to strum a guitar-like instrument called the oud there. Sirhan himself, says Fez co-owner Lou Shelby, dropped in occasionally, too, “with his mother or one of his brothers.”

Bartender Bob Slaven said he last saw Sirhan in the Fez about seven weeks ago, accompanied by either his brother Munir, or “Joe,” or his brother Sharif.

“Add” Slaven: “I don’t think Sirhan had anything to drink.”

Investigators also appear to have discounted a report from a Arabic-speaking Water geologist who said he overheard three men talking in a Jordanian dialect at Kennedy campaign headquarters a day or two before the assassination.

According to initial published reports, the geologist, W. J. Wood, 43, told police the conversation struck him as suspicious, particularly since he thought later one of the three might have been Sirhan.

By at least one account, the conversation took place the Sunday before the assassination. Wood purportedly overheard them say: “He won’t be in the hotel tomorrow (Monday) night but we can get him there the next night (Tuesday).”

Wood himself could not be found for comment.

Police Inspector Peter Hagen told the Washington Post—before the court order restricting comment on the case—that Wood told of overhearing the trio, on Monday, say “he’s not here now but we can catch him tonight.”

Finally, Hagen reported, Wood said Sirhan was definitely not one of the three, a distinction that makes a difference.

“His (Wood’s) story just doesn’t jibe,” said another source. “He’s constantly changing it.”

Assassinations seem to have that kind of chemistry. Even the county coroner, Dr. Thomas T. Noguchi, seems to have felt a bit of it. At a press conference June 6 after the autopsy, Dr. Noguchi was widely understood as saying only two bullets had struck Kennedy. The next day, he told the Los Angeles County Grand Jury that the senator had been struck three times—once behind the right ear and twice in the right armpit.

Asked about the discrepancy, Dr. Noguchi said he never actually said only “two” bullets hit Kennedy but added that the information supplied him “by the hospital” apparently failed to take account of a final armpit wound where the bullet passed through the body completely.

Dr. Noguchi said the autopsy turned up the three wounds. But when someone at the press conference asked him about “a back wound,” he said, he replied in the singular.

“At the time of the press conference,” the doctor explained, “I definitely knew there were three bullets. But I did not refer to these because I was not asked that question.”

JOHN RODMAN JUSTICE, Skylane Inn, Room 260, 2628 Waiwai Loop, advised that he had worked on the staff of the party of the late Senator ROBERT F. KENNEDY in the Los Angeles area, working out of 5615 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, having obtained this job through one TOM BRADEN, who resides in Oceanside, California. JUSTICE related that in this capacity, he was at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, on the evening of June 4, 1968.

JUSTICE related that in the early evening of June 4, 1968, he was in the serving area of the Embassy Room adjacent to the back right of the podium helping one RICK ROSEN keeping people from going into the serving area from the Embassy Room.

Sometime between 10:00 and 11:00 p.m. on June 4, 1968, JUSTICE observed a man and a woman in the serving area who, according to JUSTICE, were "definitely together," and this couple looked suspicious.

JUSTICE related that he asked this man to clear the area and the man said that he was with CBS. He was then asked if he was with the camera crew and this man said, "Yes." According to JUSTICE, members of the press were supposed to have a yellow press badge in their possession but that neither one of this couple had such a badge visible and JUSTICE did not ask this couple to display a press badge.

According to JUSTICE, while this couple was in the serving area the man made a phone call which was about fifteen minutes in length, and after completing this call the couple disappeared through the serving area and this was the last time that JUSTICE had seen them.

JUSTICE described this couple as follows:

JUSTICE related that late in the evening the late Senator ROBERT F. KENNEDY left the podium in the Embassy Room and walked through the serving area and within a minute or so after KENNEDY walked through the serving area, JUSTICE advised that he heard three "pops" which sounded like firecrackers. This noise came from behind where JUSTICE was standing. Upon hearing these three "pops," JUSTICE turned around and a large group of people was moving from the noise area. According to JUSTICE, there was panic. He related that he did not realize that the noises he heard were gun shots. JANE VENDOLA, daughter of Major LOUIS A. VENDOLA, 355 Auwinala Road, Kailua, furnished the following information:

On June 4, 1968, she and CANDY MACKAY traveled from Atlanta, Georgia, to Los Angeles, California, aboard Delta Airlines Flight 855. Their seats were in the third or fourth row in front of the lavatory and were on the left side of the plane for a person facing the cockpit.

Miss VENDOLA stated she made no statement which could have been interpreted to mean she was going to Los Angeles to be there "when the bullets fly around KENNEDY." Miss MACKAY made no such statement in her presence, and she heard no one else make any such statement.

She and Miss MACKAY had one hour at the Los Angeles Airport to make connection for their flight to Hawaii.

MACKAY's parents live near Calcutta, India, and CANDY continued to the Far East to join her parents. MACKAY's father's first name is unknown to VENDOLA. The only address she has for MACKAY is 249 Summers Avenue, Orangeburg, South Carolina. She stated mail sent to that address will be forwarded to MACKAY in India.

Both girls were students at the University of South Carolina.

VENDOLA is 18 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, has blond hair, and wore orange culottes.

VENDOLA described MACKAY as being age 20, 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighing 105 pounds, and having brown hair, and she wore a green print dress on the flight.

She failed to recall a passenger described as a white female, 5'6" tall, with dark hair, a slender build and in her late twenties.

Mrs. BURT explained she was in Honolulu visiting her husband, BENNY BURT, who is presently on rest and recuperation leave in Honolulu from his military assignment in Vietnam.

JOHN RODMAN JUSTICE, Skyline Inn, Room 620, 628 Waiwai Loop, Honolulu, viewed six photographs which have been numbered on the back side, depicting the crowd near the podium in the Embassy Room at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, California, taken prior to and after the shooting of the late Senator ROBERT F. KENNEDY.

He was unable to identify anyone in any of these photographs who appeared to be identical with a woman he had noted wearing a white dress with black polka-dots.

He commented that in photographs 1 and 2, the lady wearing a black dress with white polka-dots is not the individual he had in mind as the dress is the wrong color and her hair is too long.

With respect to photograph # 3, he commented that the woman wearing the white dress with black polka-dots is not the female he had in mind as her hair is too curly, the collar of the dress is too high, and the polka-dots on the dress are too small.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

TO : SY/PRS

DATE: June 19, 1968

1968 JUN 21 PM 2 43

FROM : RSO - LONDON

Jerry A. Carlson

SY/PRS DIV. OF

SUBJECT: Alleged Accusations made against Kennedy Family.

On June 12, 1968, Mrs. Naomi Gross, 13 Russel St., Toorak, Australia, (presently vacationing in London, England) appeared voluntarily at the American Embassy London, and furnished the following information:

Mrs. Gross stated she boarded Qantas flight 530 in Sydney, Australia at 7:00 PM, June 5, 1968, in route to London. Further, she said she was traveling first class and had sat next to a man who said his name was Clifford Flitty, an American industrialist with Amerada Petroleum Co. in Queensland, Australia, (the company is supposedly an American Canadian venture) who worked out of the company's head office in Brisbane. Mrs. Gross said Flitty also stated he was soon to become the new Vice-President of Union Carbide. Source described Flitty as a man of about 40 to 47 (he told her he was born in 1924), 5 feet 10 inches tall weight about 170 pounds, Gray hair, medium build, and wore glasses. Source reported the flight en route to London stopped at Fiji Island, Honolulu, San Francisco, New York, then London. She said before the plane landed at Fiji Island, Flitty stated "I wish someone would put a bullet between Bobby Kennedy's eyes, and I would wish I could pull the trigger myself." Further, source stated that prior to their landing at Honolulu, the announcement of the Kennedy shooting was announced to the passengers by the captain.

Source advised that when the plane landed in San Francisco, there was to be a four hour layover, and it was at this time the death of Robert Kennedy was announced. Further, she said Flitty stated he was going to send a telegram to Ted Kennedy which was to read "After Two how about you?" and said he may even sign it, and further stated "we will be rid of this trash forever." According to source Flitty talked about ordering champagne to celebrate the tragedy. (attached as exhibit #1 is the alleged note to be sent to Ted Kennedy in Flitty's own handwriting).

Mrs. Gross reported Flitty disembarked at New York. She said he was traveling alone, and appeared to be in complete control of his faculties during the flight.

Mrs. Gross declined to give her London address, stating she did not wish to involve the people with whom she was staying.

It is the opinion of the reporting agent, that Mrs. Gross is a completely stable individual, was articulate in her speech, and gave every indication of being a highly intelligent woman.

there was no CLIFFORD FLITTY working for his UCC group. He pointed out that UCC has 60,000-90,000 employees with no central location listing all of them. If FLITTY worked in New York or for International, he and personnel would have a knowledge of him, however, this was not the case. Mr. DRAINE will contact the NYO should he hear of any FLITTY.

On 7/3/68, Miss SUZANNE HENRY, ticket agent, Qantas Airways, 542 5th Avenue, New York City, advised that she would wire her Sydney, Australia office to determine if a (CLIFFORD FLITTY) was a passenger on their Sydney to London flight 530 on June 5, 1968 or if a similar named individual was a passenger. Miss HENRY stated that the record would take several days to obtain and would not necessarily include any address or background. She pointed out that the flight stopped at John F. Kennedy Airport and deplaning passengers would use the BOAC Terminal.

On 7/3/68, Mr. CARL ESPOSITO, Assistant Customs Agent In Charge, Enforcement Division, 201 Varick, New York City, advised that international passengers would have to make a customs declaration and undergo an INS check, however, this would be done at the first U.S. port which in this case, would be Honolulu. He suggested that Customs Agent In Charge ARMSTRONG, Honolulu, be contacted.

On 7/5/68, Mr. BOB LUNNON, Ticket Manager, Qantas, advised that a Mr. (CLIFFORD FLITTY) did travel on flight 530 from Sydney to New York, first class, on June 5, 1968, arriving at New York on June 6, 1968, at 10:00 a.m. No address was available for him. The booking was made at Brisbane Office, Australia. He explained that the only information required from the passenger would have been a contact point at Brisbane where the reservation was made. He will attempt to obtain this information, but pointed out no New York address would have been taken.

On 7/5/68, MARJORIE NODINE, UCC, advised that she had originally checked the name FLITTY under several variations and upon rechecking under FLITTIE she finds there is no such employee or officer of UCC.
