The Department identified and NARA validated 1,261 Clinton email messages as purely personal in nature.

This figure is based on the following:

1. The number of messages understood to be the total at the time of the NARA review was 1,246.
2. The actual number inventoried on the spreadsheet was in fact only 1,245 because the spreadsheet header line was inadvertently being counted (1,246 – 1 header line = 1,245 messages).
3. NARA discovered that 17 email messages identified by the Department as personal were not included in the spreadsheet by mistake (1,245 + 17 = 1,262 messages)
4. NARA disagreed with the Department's designation in one case. The Department concurred and removed the personal correspondence designation (1,262 – 1 = 1,261 messages).
