Late yesterday a declaration by John Hackett, the acting Director of the Office of Information Programs and Services at State, was released that describes State's plans for releasing the HRC emails.

Within the declaration, at paragraph 12, there is a statement that reads:

In consultation with the National Archives and Records Administration, the Department also conducted a page-by-page review of the documents to identify, designate, mark, and inventory entirely personal correspondence, i.e., those documents that are not federal records, included within the 55,000 pages.

We've now received one inquiry about our involvement in the review from Politico. We will probably receive more as other reporters digest the declaration.
