Background Information      This document supersedes Job No. N1-29-98-1 and N1-029-05-2 which covered the American Community Survey 1996- and the American Community Survey, 2005.

1. The American Community Survey

The American Community Survey (ACS) is a monthly survey that provides up-to-date information for America's communities every year. The ACS is a replacement for the data collected on the long form in the Decennial Census. Full implementation of the ACS began in January 2005, with an annual sample of three million housing units, providing estimates of social, economic, and housing characteristics every year for areas of 65,000 or more population (12 months of data). Full implementation including data on group quarters began in 2006. Beginning in 2008, 3-year data were available for areas of 20,000 or more population (36 months of data), and beginning in 2010, 5-year data were available for all geographic areas (60 months of data).

The Census Bureau requires submission of a plan to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) to retain/destroy records for its census and survey programs. The purpose of this plan is to replace the previous plan that was developed for the 2005 and 2006 ACS data collection records. With this plan, we are beginning the delivery of the 2007 records and beyond.

2. Background

The Census Bureau arranges for the storage and disposition of records for its censuses and surveys, including questionnaire responses; documents describing procedures; documents that contain information of significant historical, legal, or research value;

and technical information required to access, process, and read electronic documents (e.g., record layouts). NARA stores and manages the records provided by the Census Bureau.

The basis for the agreement between the two agencies to transfer decennial records to NARA is a 1952 exchange of correspondence between the Director of the Census Bureau and the Archivist of the United States. Since the ACS is part of the decennial census program, this letter covers the transfer of ACS records as well. In fact, given the ACS design (e.g., continuous data collection, smaller sample size of the ACS compared with the decennial census long form sample) it is important to maintain the interagency agreement that provides for the transmittal of a wealth of detailed data to NARA for eventual access by the public (72-year waiting period).

3. Previous Records Disposition Plans

In 2005, the Census Bureau developed a new ACS disposition plan to cover the disposition of records for the launch of the full implementation ACS of that year and the continuation of the ACS program in subsequent years. The 2005 ACS records schedule was sent to NARA on August 1, 2005, and the NARA approved the records schedule on December 22, 2005. The 2005 ACS Title 13 data (2 DVDs) was transferred/sent to NARA on November 21, 2006 and the 2003-2006 ACS Public Use Microdata was transferred/sent to NARA on February 5, 2008. The 2006 ACS records were sent to NARA (via ACSD) on February 2, 2014 on external hard drives, along with supporting documentation. Confirmation from NARA that there were no issues was received on April 2, 2014.

4. Resuming the Transmittal of ACS Records to NARA

Current legal and policy guidance within the Census Bureau suggest that the Census Bureau must honor previous commitments to deliver ACS records to NARA. Therefore, this document provides a plan to resume the transfer of ACS records to NARA, starting with the 2007 ACS, and to continue the transfer of ACS records representing the ACS program on a timely, staggered basis. The ACS records and supporting documentation, once downloaded onto the hard drive(s), will be delivered to the Administrative and Customer Services Division (ACSD), which has responsibility for the Census Bureau's record transfers. The ACSD will secure the files in appropriate packaging and transmit them to NARA's College Park, Maryland facility by van or automobile.

The NARA processing archivist will review the files and submit any comments or questions to the ACSD. The ACSD will work with the ACSO to respond to NARA's questions as appropriate. NARA will notify ACSD when it has completed the processing and preservation of the records and when it has taken physical and legal custody of the records.

5. Retention of ACS Records at Census Headquarters

Per the recommendation from ACSD, this plan also includes ACS records from the Population Division (POP), the Social, Economic, and Housing Statistics Division (SEHSD), and ACSO to be stored at Census Headquarters on a sharepoint site.

6. Deliverables and Schedule Milestones

Deliverables and schedule milestones for this project plan are provided below. Starting with the 2007 ACS records, we plan to transfer one or two years worth of records, twice per year (each set of records represents one data collection year).
