ACTION TAKEN

Automated Master Index System

The Automated Master Index System consists of machine readable records which serve as a central index to case files with a retention period of 100 years from the date of the last action. The records in this automated system have a permanent value, since even after destruction of a case file a record of that destruction will be necessary.

In addition, these machine readable records (in conjunction with the microfilm of the previous manual master index records) have a potential value for genealogical research since they provide a centralized index to court copies of naturalization records created since 1906.

PERMANENT.
