Background:

IRS, Wage & Investment Office indicates that one of the most important and major parts of the Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 (RRA98) deals with Innocent Spouse Claims "It is our responsibility to ensure these provisions are implemented. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is dedicated to ensuring both the rights of the requesting and non-requesting spouses are protected. The IRS also needs to ensure that each claim receives timely and consistent treatment. All of this needs to be done correctly and accurately and within the established guidelines, in accordance with the law"

Many married taxpayers choose to file a joint tax return because of certain benefits this filing status allows. Both taxpayers are jointly and severally liable for the tax and any additions to tax, interest, or penalties that arise as a result of the joint return even if they later divorce. Joint and several liability means that each taxpayer is legally responsible for the entire liability. This is true even if a divorce decree states that a former spouse will not be held responsible for any amounts due on previously filed joint returns. One spouse may be held responsible for all the tax due even if the other spouse earned all the income or claimed improper deductions or credits. In some cases, a spouse can get relief from joint and several liabilities.

There are three types of relief from joint and several liability for spouses who filed joint returns

Innocent Spouse Relief for additional tax owed by the taxpayer because the spouse or former spouse failed to report income, reported income improperly or claimed improper deductions or credits

Relief by Separation of Liability provides for the allocation of additional tax owed between the taxpayer and their spouse or former spouse because an item was not reported properly on a joint return. The tax allocated the taxpayer is the amount they are responsible for Equitable Relief may apply when the taxpayer does not qualify for innocent spouse relief or separation of liability relief for something not reported properly on a joint return. The taxpayer may also qualify for equitable relief if the correct amount of tax was reported on the joint return but the tax remains unpaid.

Innocent Spouse (IS) System provides a decision-support tool accessible via Account Management Services (AMS) to work claims for relief associated with the Innocent Spouse Program and ensures that users address all of the necessary factors that will allow consistent application of the tax laws concerning Innocent Spouse Claims

The Innocent Spouse System is part of the Examination Support Processing Applications which support the administration of examination cases

Innocent Spouse System Differs from the Innocent Spouse Tracking System (ISTS)

IRM 25 15 11 5 dated 17 July 2009 indicates that IDRS Command Codes are employed on the ISTS to verify the status of Innocent Spouse Claims

ISTS should be the first step in researching the status of any outstanding innocent spouse claim. See IRM 25-15.14-2, Introduction, for more information on ISTS. An ISTS Reference Guide is available through the Innocent Spouse Website at http://win.web.irs.gov/innocentspouse/isdocs/ISTS_REFERENCE GUIDE.doc

The status of an innocent spouse claim can be tracked through ISTS, which captures 33 different stages of the process. Employees who respond to taxpayer inquiries must have access to the Integrated Data Retrieval System (IDRS) Command Code (CC) ISTS Functional TAS Innocent Spouse Coordinators can make arrangements for access to computer-based training (CBT) and provide authority for new command codes

IRM 1 15 29, Item 426
