Background Information

State Infrastructure Banks (SIBs) Program Files: SIBs are State-run revolving funds that make loans, provide credit enhancements, and other forms of non-grant assistance to surface transportation projects. The SIB Program allows states to capitalize revolving loan funds with regularly apportioned Federal-aid (Title 23, U.S. Code) highway funds. Separate transit and rail accounts may also be capitalized with Title 49 Federal-aid funds. The current SIB program was established by the Safe, Accountable, Flexible, Efficient Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users (SAFETEA-LU), as a permanent Title 23 program, under which all States and territories are authorized to enter into cooperative agreements with the Secretary of Transportation to establish infrastructure revolving funds eligible to be capitalized with Federal transportation funds authorized for fiscal years 2005-2009. The Moving Ahead for Progress in the 21st Century Act (MAP-21) did not extend the date, 2005-2009, authorized by SAFETEA-LU. SIBs were initially authorized under the 1995 National Highway System (NHS) Act. With this initial pilot program, 10 States were selected for participation to use a portion of their Federal-aid funds as "seed" money, matched with non-Federal funds, to establish a SIB. In 1997, that year's U.S. Department of Transportation (USDOT) appropriations act provided $150 million in Federal general revenue funds for further SIB capitalization, and the SIB pilot program was expanded to 39 States (including Puerto Rico), 31 of which were actually established. In 1998, Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA-21) established a new SIB pilot program, allowing new funding. Florida and Missouri created SIBs under the TEA-21 program. States that established SIBs under the NHS Act and

TEA-21 have been allowed to continue those SIBs, under SAFETEA-LU and MAP-21.

Section 129 Loan Files: A section 129 loan is a loan to a road or bridge using Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) formula grants. This is a program very similar to the SIB program described above, but with a different legal authorization, a longer history, and with somewhat different rules. The program goes back to 1991, and is still active. In fact, we encourage Sec 129 loans as an alternative lending program to those States that never created a SIB. Because FHWA is responsible for the oversight of this program records are kept. The program is also permanently encoded in legislation—which means new loans could be made at any time. To date only three loans have been made under this program—so the files and records that have to be kept are minimal. The records go back to circa 1995.

Grant Anticipation Revenue Vehicle (GARVEE) Files: A GARVEE enables a State to pay debt service and other bond-related expenses with future Federal-aid highway funds. It is a debt-financing instrument authorized to receive Federal reimbursement of debt service and related financing costs under Section 122 of Title 23, U.S. Code. GARVEEs can be issued by a State, a political subdivision of a State, a U.S. territory, or a public authority. States can receive Federal-aid reimbursements for a wide array of debt-related costs incurred in connection with an eligible debt-financing instrument, such as a bond, note, certificate, mortgage, or lease. Reimbursable debt-related costs include interest payments, retirement of principal, and any other cost incidental to the sale of an eligible debt instrument. In general, projects funded with the proceeds of a GARVEE debt instrument are subject to the same requirements as other Federal-aid projects with the exception of the reimbursement process. Instead of reimbursing construction costs as they are incurred, the reimbursement of GARVEE project costs occurs when debt service is due. For a GARVEE, a State may request partial conversion of advance construction project(s) to coincide with debt-service payments, allowing for effective use of obligation authority.
