Schedule Subject 2001 Web Snapshot Initiative

Internal agency concurrences will be provided No

Background Information The 2001 Web Snapshots initiative was designed to have Federal agencies capture their web sites for subsequent transfer to and preservation by NARA. In addition, it was meant to provide NARA with an opportunity to gain experience in managing web records, at that time, a new and rapidly expanding source of unscheduled records. The experience would also inform NARA's future efforts at issuing guidance to agencies on the subject.

Recent analysis has determined that: 1) the scope of the project was incomplete due to the uneven rate of voluntary participation across the Federal government, 2) the quality and types of documentation for agencies which did participate in the project varies widely, 3) NARA's ability to render the web sites as they appeared in 2001 is uncertain, 4) NARA performed a similar Web Snapshot initiative in 2004, which captured much of the same content as the 2001 Web Snapshots, but with a better methodology and results, and 6) lessons learned from the 2001 Web Snapshot initiative has since informed the development of a new GRS schedule for web records. The project is now considered to be a failed project; NARA has determined it no longer needs to retain the project's documentation.
