IX.4. KODAK NEGATIVE FILE

In 1981, the Kodak Negative File, consisting of approximately 531,000 negatives, was transferred from the Information Office and the Office of Engineering Design and Construction to the Knoxville Records Center. The Information Office and the Office of Engineering Design and Construction relinquished responsibility of the file, and it became the responsibility of the Office Support Services Department (formerly Office Service Branch). Approximately 50 percent of the negatives are on nitrate base film. The negatives are of construction projects, activities at TVA's dams, steam plants, and nuclear plants, and also include activities such as the "Scenic Rivers", CCC camps, celebrations, floods, etc.. The negatives are being reviewed and duplicates and blank negatives are being separated for ultimate disposal. As part of the project an index will be developed to assist in retrieval. When the project of purging the file is complete, the remaining negatives will be transferred to the National Archives.
